A : 1.1 INCORPORATION OF PRIVATE COMPANIES, PUBLIC COMPANIES, COMPANY LIMITED BY GUARANTEE AND UNLIMITED COMPANIES AND THEIR CONVERSIONS/RECONVERSION/RE-REGISTRATION

1.1.1 Introduction

The Companies Act, 2013 consisting of 29 Chapters, 470 Sections and 7 Schedules as against 658 Sections under 13 Parts and 15 schedules in the Companies Act, 1956, was notified partially on 12th September 2013 (55 sections) and partially again on 26th March, 2014 (168 sections with effect from 1.4.2014). Part of the provisions related to National Company Law Tribunal have been notified with effect from 1st June, 2016. The provision relating to Class Action Suits also has been enforced with effect from 1st June, 2016. The jurisdiction in respect of merger and acquisitions and compromises and arrangements under Chapter XV (corresponding to earlier sections 391 – 394 in the previous Companies Act, 1956) still rests with the High Courts.

The Companies Act, 2013 (hereafter 'The Act') consolidates and amends the law relating to the companies in India and replaces the Companies Act, 1956 in phases, which is 56 years old. The new Act intends to improve corporate governance and to further strengthen regulations for the corporate sector with the introduction of key provisions as to Duties and Liabilities of Directors/Independent Directors, Auditor Rotation, Establishment of Serious Fraud Investigation Office (SFIO), Constitution of National Financial Reporting Authority (NFRA), Class Action Suit, Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) etc.

The Companies Act, 2013 is administered by the Central Government through the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) and the Offices of Registrar of Companies, Official Liquidators, Public Trustee, Director of Inspection, National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT), National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT), etc. The Registrar of Companies (ROC) controls the task of incorporation of new companies and the administration of running companies.

The Ministry of Corporate Affairs, was primarily concerned with administration of the Companies Act, 2013, other allied Acts and rules & regulations framed there under, mainly for regulating the functioning of the corporate sector in accordance with law. Further, the focus of the Ministry's working is not only limited to the Administration of Companies but has increasingly acquired an all inclusive role of addressing a wide sweep of functions like Corporate Governance Reforms and the Emerging Legal Framework.

In the new Act the Rule making powers have been delegated to Central Government. Normally, each of the chapter is to be read with the Rules, Since MCA has the power to change the Rules, Rules are modified/changed very often and students are advised to be in touch with the website of MCA for details.

The Act was amended in May, 2015, 2017 (modified in January 2018) July, 2019 and September, 2020.

Relevant provisions of the amendments to the extent covered under syllabus have been incorporated in this study material.

1.1.2 Definition of company

"In terms of the Companies Act, 2013 'company' means a company incorporated under the Act, or under the previous company law" [Sec. 2(20)].

A company may be an incorporated company or a Corporation, or an unincorporated company. An incorporated company is a single and legal (artificial) person distinct from the individuals constituting it, whereas an unincorporated company, such as a partnership, is a mere collection or aggregation of individuals. Therefore, unlike a partnership, a company is a corporate body and a legal person having status and personality distinct and separate from that of the members constituting it.

1.1.3 Characteristics/Advantages of company

1.1.3.1 Independent corporate existence

The outstanding feature of a company is its independent corporate existence. It is a distinct legal person existing independent of its members. By incorporation under the Act, the company is vested with a corporate personality which is distinct from the members who compose it.

A well-known illustration of this principle is the decision of the House of Lords in Salomon v. Salomon & Co. [(1898) AC 22].

1.1.3.2 Limited Liability

The privilege of limiting liability for business debts is one of the principal advantages of doing business under the corporate form of organization. Where the subscribers exercise the choice of registering the company with limited liability, the members' liability becomes limited or restricted to the nominal value of the shares taken by them or the amount guaranteed by them. No member is bound to contribute anything more than the nominal value of the shares held by him.

1.1.3.3 Perpetual succession

An incorporated company never dies. It is an entity with perpetual succession. Perpetual succession, means that the membership of a company may keep changing from time to time, but that does not affect the company's continuity. The death or insolvency of individual members does not, in any way affect the corporate existence of the company. [Gopalpur Tea Co. Ltd. v. Penhok Tea Co. Ltd. (1982) 52 Comp. Cas. 238 (Cal.)] "Members may come and go but the company can go on forever".

It continues to exist even if all its human members are dead. Even where during the war all the members of a private company, while in general meeting, were killed by a bomb, the company survived not even a hydrogen bomb could have destroyed it. [K'9 Meat Supplies (Guildford) Ltd., Re 1966 (3) All. ER 320.]

1.1.3.4 Separate property

A company, being a legal person, is capable of owning, enjoying and disposing of property in its own name. The company becomes the owner of its capital and assets. The shareholders are not the several or joint owners of the company's property. The company is the real person in which all its property is vested, and by which is controlled, managed and disposed of [Bacha F Guzdar v. C.I.T. AIR 1955 SC 74.]. The property is vested in the company as a body corporate, and no changes of individual membership affect the title. The property, however much, the shareholders may come and to remains vested in the company, and the company can convey, assign, mortgage, or otherwise deal with it irrespective of these mutations.

1.1.3.5 Transferable Shares

When joint stock companies were established the great object was that their shares should be capable of being easily transferred. Accordingly, the Companies Act, 2013 in Section 44 declares: 'The shares or debentures or other interest of any member in a company shall be movable property, transferable in the manner provided by the articles of the company'. Thus incorporation enables a member to sell his shares in the open market and to get back his investment without having to withdraw the money from the company. This provides liquidity to the investor and stability to the company.

1.1.3.6 Common seal

Since the company has no physical existence, it must act through its agents and all such contracts entered into by its agents must be under the seal of the company. The common seal acts as the official signature of the company. Prior to the Companies (Amendment) Act, 2015 the common seal is a seal used by a corporation as the symbol of its incorporation and also a statutory requirement for a company. As a departure from this concept, the Companies (Amendment) Act, 2015 has deleted the requirement of having Common Seal compulsorily. However, where the company has opted to have a common seal, the same shall be used as provided under the Act or the Articles.

After this amendment, in case a company does not have a common seal, the authorisation shall be made by two directors or by a director and the Company Secretary, wherever the company has appointed a Company Secretary.

1.1.4 Lifting of the 'Corporate Veil'

In normal course any business under a corporate has right to maintain privacy unless disclosures are compulsory. Before going into this question, one should first try to understand the meaning of the phrase 'lifting the veil'. It means looking behind the company as a legal person, i.e., disregarding the corporate entity and paying regard, instead, to the realities behind the legal facade. Where the Courts ignore the company and concern themselves directly with the members or managers, the corporate veil may be said to have been lifted. Only in appropriate circumstances, the Courts are willing to lift the corporate veil and that too, when questions of control are involved rather than merely a question of ownership.

The following are the cases where company law disregards the principle of corporate personality or the principle that the company is a legal entity distinct and separate from its shareholders or members:

- (a) In the law relating to trading with the enemy where the test of control is adopted.
- (b) In certain matters concerning the law of taxes, duties and stamps particularly where question of the controlling interest is in issue.
- (c) Where companies form other companies as their subsidiaries to act as their agent. The application of the doctrine may operate in favour of such companies depending upon the facts of a particular case. Suppose, a company acquires a partnership concern and registers it as a company, which becomes subsidiary of the acquiring company. In an action for compulsory acquisition of the business premises of the subsidiary, it was held that the parent company (which through itself and nominees held all the shares) was entitled to compensation, maintain action for the same [Smith, Stone and Knight Ltd. vs. Lord Mayor, etc., of Birmingham [1939] 4, All. 116].
- (d) Where the courts find that there is avoidance of welfare legislation, it will be free to lift the corporate veil. (Workmen of Associated Rubber Industry Ltd. v. Associated Rubber Industry Ltd; AIR 1986 SC 1).
- (e) The Courts invariably lift the corporate veil or a disregard the corporate personality of a company to protect the public policy and prevent transactions contrary to public policy. [Connors v. Connors Ltd; (1939) S.C.R. 162].
- (f) Under the law relating to exchange control. The courts pierce the corporate veil in quasi-criminal cases in order to look behind the legal person and punish the real persons who have violated the law.

- (g) Where the use of an incorporated company is being made to avoid legal obligations, the Court may disregard the legal personality of the company and proceed on the assumption as if no company existed.
- (h) In a latest judgment, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Estate Officer UT Chandigarh v. Esys Information Technologies Limited [2016] 136 SCL 513 held that lifting of corporate veil could be done in the case of transfer of shares of company which actually was sale of land which the original allottee (company) was prohibited to do so.

1.1.5 Classes of Companies

A company may be incorporated as a One Person Company (OPC) a new concept all together in the Companies Act, 2013, Private Company or a Public Company, depending upon the number of members joining it. Again it may either be an unlimited company, or may be limited by shares or by guarantee or by both. On the basis of control, companies can be classified as associate company, holding company and subsidiary company. Some other forms of classification of companies are: foreign company, Government Company, small company, dormant company, Nidhi Company and company formed for charitable objects.

Companies may be classified into various classes on the following basis:

1.1.5.1 On the Basis of Incorporation

(a) Statutory companies

These are the companies which are created by a special Act of the Legislature, e.g., the Reserve Bank of India, the State Bank of India, the Life Insurance Corporation, the Industrial Finance Corporation, the Unit trust of India and State Financial Corporations These are mostly concerned with public utilities, e.g. railways, tramways, gas and electricity companies and enterprises of national importance. The provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 do not apply to them unless the special act specifies such application. Banking Regulation Act, 1949 is a special legislation concerning banking companies.

(b) Registered companies

These are the companies which are formed and registered under the Companies Act, 2013, or were registered under any of the earlier Companies Acts.

1.1.5.2 On the basis of liability

(a) Company limited by shares

Section 2 (22) of the Companies Act, 2013, defines that when the liability of the members of a company is limited by its memorandum of association to the amount (if any) unpaid on the shares held by them, it is known as a company limited by shares. It thus implies that for meeting the debts of the company, the shareholder may be called upon to contribute only to the extent of the amount, which remains unpaid on his shareholdings. His separate property cannot be encompassed to meet the company's debt.

(b) Company limited by guarantee

Section 2 (21) of the Companies Act, 2013 defines it as the company having the liability of its members limited by the memorandum to such amount as the members may respectively undertake by the memorandum to contribute to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up. Thus, the liability of the member of a guarantee company is limited up to a stipulated sum mentioned in the memorandum. Members cannot be called upon to contribute beyond that stipulated sum.

(c) Unlimited company

Section 2 (92) of the Companies Act, 2013 defines unlimited company as a company not having any limit on the liability of its members. In such a company the liability of a member ceases when he ceases to be a member.

The liability of each member extends to the whole amount of the company's debts and liabilities but he will be entitled to claim contribution from other members.

1.1.5.3 On the basis of members

(a) One person company

(1) The Concept of One Person Company (OPC)

The concept of One Person Company (OPC) has now been introduced in India, through Section 2 (62) of Companies Act, 2013 thereby enabling Entrepreneur(s) carrying on the business in the Sole Proprietor form of business to enter into a Corporate Framework. Though this concept is new in India but it is already a part of many other countries like China, Australia, Pakistan and UK etc.

According to Section 2 (62) of the Companies Act, 2013 'One Person Company' means a company which has only one person as a member. A company formed under one person company may be either:

- a) A company limited by shares, or
- b) company limited by guarantee, or

(2) Features of One Person Company (OPC)

- (a) Only One Shareholder: Only a natural person, who is an Indian citizen and resident in India, shall be eligible to incorporate a One Person Company.
- (b) Nominee for the Shareholder: The Shareholder shall nominate another person who shall become the shareholders in case of death/incapacity of the original shareholder. Such nominee shall give his/her consent and such consent for being appointed as the Nominee for the sole Shareholder. Only a natural person, who is an Indian citizen and resident in India, shall be a nominee for the sole member of a One Person Company.
- (c) Director: Must have a minimum of One Director, the Sole Shareholder can himself be the Sole Director. The Company may have a maximum number of 15 directors.

Provided further that:

- (a) persons who are in the employment of the company, and

- (3) prohibits any invitation to the public to subscribe for any securities of the company.

The Companies (Amendment) Act, 2015 has omitted 'of one lakh rupees or such higher paid-up share capital' from the definition of Private Company w.e.f. 25.05.2015. The impact of this amendment is that today one can have a company of paid up capital of mere ` Two (with each subscriber giving a rupee as subscription) for a private company and ` Seven for a public company.

The Companies (Amendment) Act, 2015 has omitted "of five lakh rupees or such higher paid-up capital," from the definition of Public Company w.e.f. 25.05.2015.

(d) Small Company [Section 2 (85)]

According to Section 2 (85) of Companies Act, 2013 a "small company" means a company, other than a public company:

Some of the advantages enjoyed by the small companies are:

- a) holding of two board meetings instead of four – one each in the first and second half years and the gap between the two meeting should not be more than 90 days. [section 173(5)]
- b) Not required to give cash flow statements with the financial statements [section 2(40)]

1.1.5.4 On the basis of control

Holding company and Subsidiary company

'Holding' and 'Subsidiary' Companies are relative terms. A company is a holding company of another if the other is its subsidiary.

According to Section 2 (46) of the Companies Act, 2013 'holding company', in relation to one or more other companies, means a body corporate of which such companies are subsidiary companies.

According to Section 2 (87) of the Companies Act, 2013 'subsidiary company' or 'subsidiary', in relation to any other body corporate (that is to say the holding company), means a body corporate in which the holding company :

(a) Listed company (also widely held)

According to Section 2 (52) of the Companies Act, 2013, a 'listed company' means a company which has any of its securities listed on any recognised stock exchange. Whereas the word securities as per the Section 2 (81) of the Companies Act, 2013 has been assigned the same meaning as defined in clause (h) of Section 2 of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956.

Companies (Amendment) Act, 2020 provides that even a listed company or company intends to be listed may be classified as unlisted company, in consultation with SEBI.

1.1.6 Conversion of Public Company into a Private Company or vice versa

(a) Conversion of public company into private company

A public company can be converted into a private company by passing a special resolution, after altering its articles so as to include therein the restrictions contained in Section 2(68) of the Act. A special resolution passed to convert a public company into a private company is binding on dissenting shareholders provided it is bona fide, is in the interest of the company as a whole, and is consistent with the objects in the Memorandum of Association [Bal Ramba vs. Master Silk Mills AIR 1955 N.U.R. Saurashtra 927]. Under Section 14 (1), any alteration made in the articles to convert a public company into a private company shall take effect only with the approval of the Tribunal which shall make such order as it may deems fit.

(b) Conversion of private company into public company

Similarly where a private company alters its articles by passing special resolution in such a manner that they no longer includes the restrictions and limitations which are required to be included in the articles of a private company, then such company shall cease to be a private company from the date of such alteration.

(c) Filing with the registrar

Any alteration of the articles registered as above shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be valid as if it were originally in the articles.

1.1.7 When Companies must be registered

According to Section 464 of the Companies Act, 2013, no association or partnership consisting of more than such number of persons (i.e., not exceeding 50 as per Rule 10 of Companies (Miscellaneous) Rules, 2014) shall be, formed for the purpose of carrying on any business that has for its object the acquisition of gain by the association or partnership or by the individual members thereof, unless it is registered as a company under this Act or is formed under any other law for the time being in force:

Above stated provision shall not apply to:

- (a) Hindu undivided family carrying on any business. Or
- (b) an association or partnership, if it is formed by professionals who are governed by special Acts.

Every member of an association or partnership carrying on business in contravention of above law, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one lakh rupees and shall also be personally liable for all liabilities incurred in such business.

Where an association is formed, which has membership in excess of the number aforementioned, will be an illegal association. Such a body will have no legal existence and it cannot be wound up under the Act, or even as an unregistered company. Neither a member of it would be able to sue it, nor would it be able to sue the member. Nevertheless, a member who has paid any money to the association would be able to recover it from the director or agents or the association before the money so paid has been applied to an illegal purpose [Greeberg vs. Cooperstein [1965] Ch. 657 followed in Ram Das vs. Kunut Dhari AIR 1925]. Every person who is, or continues to be a member of an association in the circumstance described above, is personally culpable for all liabilities incurred in such business and every member is, in addition punishable for any person or persons to trade or carry on business under any name or title of which 'limited' is the last word, without being fully incorporated.

1.1.8 Incorporation of Company

(a) Formation of company

Persons who form the company are known as promoters. It is they, who conceive the idea of forming the company. They take all necessary steps for its registration.

Section 3 of the Companies Act, 2013 deals with the basic requirement with respect to the constitution of the company.

- (1) Public Company: In the case of a public company with or without limited liability any 7 or more persons can form a company for any lawful purpose by subscribing their names to memorandum and complying with the requirements of this Act in respect of registration.
- (2) Private Company: In exactly the same way, 2 or more persons can form a private company.
- (3) One person company (OPC): One person, where the company to be formed is to be One Person Company.

If number of members reduce below above stipulation and the company carries on business for more than six months, every member severally shall be liable to pay debts of the company.

(b) Procedural aspects of incorporation of company

- (7) Order of the Tribunal: where a company has been got incorporated by furnishing false or incorrect information or representation or by suppressing any material fact or information in any of the documents or declaration filed or made for incorporating such company or by any fraudulent action, the Tribunal may, on an application made to it, on being satisfied that the situation so warrants:
- (a) pass such orders, as it may think fit, for regulation of the management of the company including changes, if any, in its memorandum and articles, in public interest or in the interest of the company and its members and creditors, or
  - (b) direct that liability of the members shall be unlimited. or
  - (c) direct removal of the name of the company from the register of companies, or
  - (d) pass an order for the winding up of the company, or
  - (e) pass such other orders as it may deem fit.
- Provided that before making any order:
- 1) the company shall be given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in the matter, and
  - 2) the Tribunal shall take into consideration the transactions entered into by the company, including the obligations, if any, contracted or payment of any liability.
- (8) Formation of OPC
- a) The memorandum of OPC shall indicate the name of the other person, who shall, in the event of the subscriber's death or his incapacity to contract, become the member of the company.
  - b) The other person whose name is given in the memorandum shall give his prior written consent in prescribed form and the same shall be filed with Registrar of companies at the time of incorporation.

  - e) Any such change in the name of the person shall not be deemed to be an alteration of the memorandum.
  - f) Only a natural person who is an Indian citizen and resident in India (person who has stayed in India for a period of not less than 182 days during the immediately preceding one calendar year):

- 1) shall be eligible to incorporate a OPC.
- 2) shall be a nominee for the sole member of a OPC.
- g) No person shall be eligible to incorporate more than one OPC or become nominee in more than one such company.
- h) No minor shall become member or nominee of the OPC or can hold share with beneficial interest.
- i) Such Company cannot be incorporated or converted into a company under Section 8 of the Act. Though it may be converted to private or public companies in certain cases. The procedure of conversion is given in the Rules 6 & 7 of the Companies (Incorporation) Rules, 2014.
- j) Such Company cannot carry out Non-Banking Financial Investment activities including investment in securities of anybody corporate.
- k) OPC cannot convert voluntarily into any kind of company unless two years have expired from the date of incorporation, except where the paid up share capital is increased beyond fifty lakh rupees or its average annual turnover during the relevant period exceeds two crore rupees.
- l) If One Person Company or any officer of such company contravenes the provisions, they shall be punishable with fine which may extend to ten thousand rupees and with a further fine which may extend to one thousand rupees for every day after the first during which such contravention continues.

(c) Effect of registration

According to Section 9 of the Companies Act, 2013, from the date of incorporation (mentioned in the certificate of incorporation), the subscribers to the memorandum and all other persons, who may from time to time become members of the company, shall be a body corporate by the name contained in the memorandum. Such a registered Company shall be capable of exercising all the functions of an incorporated company under this Act and having perpetual succession and a common seal with power to acquire, hold and dispose of property, both movable and immovable, tangible and intangible, to contract and to sue and be sued, by the said name.

From the date of incorporation mentioned in the certificate, the company becomes a legal person separate from the incorporators and there comes into existence a binding contract between the company and its members as evidenced by the Memorandum and Articles of Association [Hari Nagar Sugar Mills Ltd. vs. S.S. Jhunjhunwala AIR 1961 SC 1669]. It has perpetual existence until it is dissolved by liquidation or struck out of the register. A shareholder who buys shares, does not buy any interest in the property of the company but in certain cases a writ petition will be maintainable by a company or its shareholders.

A legal personality emerges from the moment of registration of a company and from that moment the persons subscribing to the Memorandum of Association and other persons joining as members are regarded as a body corporate or a corporation in aggregate and the legal person begins to function as an entity. A company on registration acquires a separate existence and the law recognises it as a legal person separate and distinct from its members [State Trading Corporation of India vs. Commercial Tax Officer AIR 1963 SC 1811].

It may be noted that under the provisions of the Act, a company may purchase shares of another company and thus become a controlling company. However, merely because a company purchases all shares of another company it will not serve as a means of putting an end to the corporate character of another company and each company is a separate juristic entity [Spencer & Co. Ltd. Madras vs. CWT Madras (1969) 39 Comp. Case 212].

(d) Certificate as Conclusive Evidence

According to Section 35 of the 1956 Act, a Certificate of Incorporation given by the Registrar in respect of any association shall be conclusive evidence that all the requirements of the Acts have been complied with in respect of registration and matters precedent and incidental thereto, and that the association is a company authorised to be registered and duly registered under the Act. The Certificate of Incorporation is conclusive evidence that everything is in order as regards registration and that the company has come in to existence from the earliest moment of the day of incorporation stated therein with rights & liabilities of a natural person, competent to enter into contracts [Jubilee Cotton Mills Ltd. v. Lewis (1924) A.C. 958.]. The validity of the registration cannot be questioned after the issue of the certificate.

It is for the purpose of incorporation that the certificate was made conclusive by the legislature and the certificate cannot legalise the illegal object contained in the Memorandum. Where the object of the company is unlawful, it has been held that the certificate of registration is not conclusive for this purpose [Performing Right Society Ltd. v. London Theatre of Varieties (1992) 2 KB 433].

Even if the two signatures to a Memorandum were written by one person, or were forged, the certificate would be conclusive that the company was duly incorporated. So too, if the signatories were all minors, the certificate would still be conclusive [Hammod v. Prentice Bros (1920) 1 Ch. 201 and Bowman v. Secular Society Ltd. 1917 AC 406,438].

Section 35 of the 1956 Act has not been incorporated bodily in the 2013 Act and the same shall be watched with interest as to how the Courts would interpret the absence of such a provision.

(e) Effect of Memorandum and Articles

As per Section 10 of the Companies Act, 2013, where the memorandum and articles when registered, shall bind the company and the members thereof to the same extent as if they respectively had been signed by the company and by each member, and an agreement to observe all the provisions of the memorandum and of the articles. All monies payable by any member to the company under the memorandum or articles shall be a debt due from him to the company.

As a result, a number of legal relationships are formed between different parties and the company which are described below:

- (1) Between the members and company: The memorandum and articles constitute a contract between the members and the company. In consequence, the members are bound to the company under a statutory covenant.

Views differ on the questions as to whether and how far the memorandum and articles bind the company to the members. One view is that it is bound just as its members are. Another view is that the company is not wholly bound. But it seems that courts, instead of conforming to either of these views, have elected to take a via media. It is not true to say that the company is wholly bound so that any member can enforce any articles against it. But it is bound to the extent that any member can sue it so as to prevent any breach of the article which is likely to affect his right as a member of the company [Hickman vs. Kent Sheepbreeder's Association [1985] 1 Ch. 881]. Thus an individual member can file a suit against the company to enforce his individual rights, e.g., right to contest election for directorship of the company, right to get back his shares wrongfully forfeited, right to receive a share certificate, share warrants to bearer or notice of general meetings etc. [Pender vs. Lushington (1817) 7 Ch. D. 70; Nagaffa vs. Madras Race Club, AIR 1951 Mad. 83; C.L. Joseph vs. Los AIR 1965 (Ker.) 68]. The member suing in such cases 'sues not in the rights of a member but in his own right to protect from invasion of his own individual right as a member' [Per Jenkis L.J. in Edwards vs. Halliwell [1950] 2 All ER 1964 at p. 1067].

- (2) Between member inter se: In the case of Wood vs. Odessa Water Works Co. [1989] 42 Ch. D. 363, Sterling J. Observed: The articles of Association constitute a contract not merely between the shareholders and the company but between each individual shareholder and every other.
- (3) Between the company and the outsiders: The memorandum and the articles do not constitute a contract between the company and outsiders. Neither the company nor the members are bound by the articles to outsiders, since these constitute a contract between members, inter se, and the outsider is not a party to the articles although he may be named therein.

Nonetheless, an outsider is entitled to assume that in respect of contract entered into with him all the formalities required to be carried out under the articles or memorandum have been duly complied with [Royal British Bank vs. Turquand (1956) 6 E.B. 327].

(f) Commencement of business, etc.

According to Section 6 of the Companies Act, 2013, the provisions of this Act shall have overriding effect on provisions contained in memorandum or articles or in an agreement or in resolution passed by the company in the general meeting or by its board of directors, whether they are registered, executed or passed before or after the commencement of this Act.

Any provision contained in any of the above mentioned document, shall be void, to the extent to which it is inconsistent to the provisions of this Act.

A memorandum is a public document under Section 399 of the Companies Act, 2013. Consequently, every person entering into a contract with the company is presumed to have the knowledge of the conditions contained therein.

    - 1) the name of the proposed company. or

  - b) The name shall be registered for 20 days from the date of approval in case of new company and sixty days in case of existing company.
  - c) Where after reservation of name it is found that name was applied by furnishing wrong or incorrect information, then:
    - 1) if the company has not been incorporated, the reserved name shall be cancelled and the person making application shall be liable to a penalty extending to one lakh rupees.
    - 2) if the company has been incorporated, the Registrar may, after giving the company an opportunity of being heard:
      - a. either direct the company to change its name within a period of three months, after passing an ordinary resolution.
      - b. take action for striking off the name of the company from the register of companies, or
      - c. make a petition for winding up of the company.
- (5) Forms and schedule related to memorandum: The memorandum of a company shall be in respective forms specified in Tables A, B, C, D and E in Schedule I as may be applicable to such company.
- (6) Any provision in the memorandum or articles, in the case of a company limited by guarantee and not having a share capital, shall not give any person a right to participate in the divisible profits of the company otherwise than as a member. If the contrary is done, it shall be void.

Doctrine of ultra vires: The meaning of the term 'ultra vires' is simply 'beyond (their) powers'. This pre-supposes that the powers are in their nature limited. To an ordinary citizen, the law permits whatever does the law not expressly forbid. It is only when the law has called into existence a person for a particular purpose or has recognised its existence, such as in the case of a limited company that the power is limited to the authority delegated expressly or by implication and to the objects for which it was created. In the case of such a creation, the ordinary law applicable to an individual is somewhat reversed, whatever is not permitted expressly or by implication, by the constituting instrument, is prohibited not by any express prohibition of the legislature, but by the doctrine of ultra vires.

The impact of the doctrine of ultra vires is that a company can neither be sued on an ultra vires transaction, nor can it sue on it. Since the memorandum is a 'public document', it is open to public inspection. Therefore, when one deals with a company one is deemed to know about the powers of the company. If in spite of this you enter into a transaction which is ultra vires the company, you cannot enforce it against the company.

An act which is ultra vires the company being void, cannot be ratified by the shareholders of the company. Sometimes, act which is ultra vires can be regularised by ratifying it subsequently. For instance, if the act is ultra vires the power of the directors, the shareholders can ratify it. If it is ultra vires the articles of the company, the company can alter the articles, if the act is within the power of the company but is done irregularly, shareholder can validate it.

Where a company changes its name or obtains a new name, it shall within a period of 15 days from the date of such change, give notice of the change to the Registrar along with the order of the Central Government, who shall carry out necessary changes in the certificate of incorporation and the memorandum.

1.1.11 Articles of Association

The articles of association of a company are its rules and regulations, which are framed to manage its internal affairs. Just as the memorandum contains the fundamental conditions upon which along the company is allowed to be incorporated, so also the articles are the internal regulations of the company [Guinness vs. Land Corporation of Ireland 22 Ch. D. 349, 381].

The articles of association are in fact the bye-laws of the company according to which director and other officers are required to perform their functions as regards the management of the company, its accounts and audit. It is important therefore that the auditor should study them and, while doing so he should note the provisions therein in respect of relevant matters. Section 5 of the Companies Act, 2013 seeks to provide the contents and model of articles of association as follows:

- (a) Regulations for management: The articles of a company shall contain the regulations for management of the company.

- (b) Inclusion of matters: The articles shall also contain such matters, as are prescribed under the rules. However, a company may also include such additional matters in its articles as may be considered necessary for its management.
- (c) Contain provisions for entrenchment: The articles may contain provisions for entrenchment (to protect something) to the effect that specified provisions of the articles may be altered only if conditions or procedures as that are more restrictive than those applicable in the case of a special resolution, are met or complied with.
- (d) Manner of inclusion of the entrenchment provision: The provisions for entrenchment shall only be made either on formation of a company, or by an amendment in the articles agreed to by all the members of the company in the case of a private company and by a special resolution in the case of a public company.
- (e) Notice to the registrar of the entrenchment provision: Where the articles contain provisions for entrenchment, whether made on formation or by amendment, the company shall give notice to the Registrar of such provisions in such form and manner as may be prescribed.
- (f) Forms of articles: The articles of a company shall be in respective forms specified in Tables, F, G, H, I and J in Schedule I as may be applicable to such company.
- (g) Model articles: A company may adopt all or any of the regulations contained in the model articles applicable to such company.
- (h) Company registered after the commencement of this Act: In case of any company, which is registered after the commencement of this Act, in so far as the registered articles of such company do not exclude or modify the regulations contained in the model articles applicable to such company, those regulations shall, so far as applicable, be the regulations of that company in the same manner and to the extent as if they were contained in the duly registered articles of the company.
- (i) Section not apply on company registered under any previous company law: Nothing in this Section shall apply to the articles of a company registered under any previous company law, unless amended under this Act.

1.1.12 Alteration of Articles

Section 14 of the Companies Act, 2013 vests companies with power to alter or add to its articles. The law with respect to alteration of articles is as follows:

- (a) Alteration by special resolution: Subject to the provisions of this Act and the conditions contained in its memorandum, if any, a company may, by a special resolution alter its articles.
- (b) Alteration to include conversion of companies: Alteration of articles include alterations having the effect of conversion of:
  - (1) a private company into a public company, or
  - (2) a public company into a private company:

Even where a company being a private company alters its articles in such a manner that they no longer include the restrictions and limitations which are required to be included in the articles of a private company under this Act, then such company shall, as from the date of such alteration, cease to be a private company:

However any such alteration having the effect of conversion of a public company into a private company, then such conversion shall not take effect except with the approval of the Central Government on an application made in such form and manner as prescribed. This was Tribunal instead of Central Government before 2019 amendment pending cases in Tribunal shall be disposed by the Tribunal.

- (c) Filing of alteration with the registrar: Every alteration of the articles and a copy of the order of the CG approving the alteration, shall be filed with the Registrar, together with a printed copy of the altered articles, within a period of fifteen days in such manner as may be prescribed, who shall register the same.
- (d) Any alteration made shall be valid: Any alteration of the articles registered as above shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be valid as if it were originally contained in the articles.
- (e) Alteration noted in every copy: Every alteration made in articles of a company shall be noted in every copy of the articles, as the case may be. If a company makes any default in complying with the stated provisions, the company and every officer who is in default shall be liable to a penalty of one thousand rupees for every copy of the articles issued without such alteration. [Section 15]

1.1.13 Copies of memorandum, articles, etc., to be given to members

According to Section 17 every company on being so requested by a member, shall send copies of the following documents within seven days of the request on the payment of fees:

- (a) the memorandum.
- (b) the articles, and
- (c) every agreement and every resolution referred in Section 117 (Resolutions and agreements to be filed), if and in so far as they have not been embodied in the memorandum or articles.

In case of default, the company and every officer who is in default shall be liable for each default, to a penalty of one thousand rupees for each day during which such default continues or one lakh rupees, whichever is less.

1.1.14 Doctrines of constructive notice and indoor management

In consequences of the registration of the memorandum and articles of association of the company with the Registrar of Companies, a person dealing with the company is deemed to have constructive notice of their contents. This is because these documents are construed as 'public document' under Section 399 of the Companies Act, 2013. Accordingly if a person deals with a company in a manner incompatible with the provisions of the aforesaid documents or enters into transaction, which is ultra vires to these documents, he must do so at his peril. If someone supplies goods to a company in which it cannot deal according to its objects clause, he will not be able to recover the price from the company. Suppose the articles provide that a bill of exchange must be signed by two directors, if the bill is actually signed by one director only the holder thereof cannot claim payment thereon. However, the doctrine of constructive notice is not a positive one but a negative one like that of estoppel of which it forms parts. It operates only against the person who has been dealing with the company but not against the company itself. Consequently he is prevented from alleging that he did not know that the constitution of the company rendered a particular act or a particular delegation of authority ultra vires. Thus, the doctrine is a 'cloud' for the strangers. The doctrine of indoor management has been recognized in the case of Royal British Bank v. Turquand (1856) 6 E&B 327 All ER Rep (435). While an ordinary person dealing with a company is bound to assume that the requisite compliance or delegation of powers to the person dealing on behalf of the company has been made, he need not probe beyond what is ostensible and evident from the actions.

Case law relating to doctrine of constructive notice

1. Knowledge of irregularity: Where a person dealing with a company has actual or constructive notice of the irregularity as regards internal management, he cannot claim the benefit under the rule of indoor management. [T.R. PRATT (Bombay) Ltd. v. E.D. Sassoon & Co. Ltd. AIR 1936 Bom 62].
2. Negligence: Where a person dealing with a company could discover the irregularity if he had made proper inquiries, he cannot claim the benefit of the rule of indoor management. The protection of the rule is also not available where the circumstances surrounding the contract- are so suspicious as to invite inquiry, and the outsider dealing with the company does not make proper inquiry [Anand Bihari Lal v. Dinshaw & Co and Under-Wood v. Bank of Liver Pool; A.I.R. (1942) Oudh 417].

3. Act void ab initio and forgery: Where the acts done in the name of a company are void ab initio, the doctrine of indoor management does not apply. The doctrine applies only to irregularities that otherwise might affect a genuine transaction. It does not apply to a forgery. A Company can never be held liable for forgeries committed by its officers. [Ruben v. Great Fingall Consolidated Co (1906) A.C. 439].
4. Acts outside the scope of apparent authority: If an officer of a company enters into a contract with a third party and if the act of the officer is beyond the scope of his authority, the company is not bound. [Kreditbank Cassel v. Schenkers Ltd (1927) 1 KB 826].

1.1.15 Doctrine of Indoor Management

The aforesaid doctrine of constructive notice does in no sense mean that outsiders are deemed to have notice of the internal affairs of the company. For instance, if an act is authorised by the articles or memorandum, an outsider is entitled to assume that all the detailed formalities for doing that act have been observed. For example, the directors of the Royal British Bank Ltd. (R.B.B) gave a bond to Turquand (T). The articles empowered the directors to issue such bonds under the authority of a proper resolution. In fact, no such resolution was passed. Notwithstanding that, it was held that T could sue on the bonds on the ground that he was entitled to assume that the resolution had been duly passed [The Royal British Bank vs. Turquand (1956) 6E & B 327.] This is the doctrine of indoor management, which is the only limitation to the doctrine of constructive notice discussed above.

Exceptions to Doctrine of Indoor Management: The aforementioned rule of Indoor Management is important to persons dealing with a company through its directors or other persons. They are entitled to assume that the acts of the directors or other officers of the company are validly performed, if they are within the scope of their apparent authority. So long as an act is valid under the articles, if done in a particular manner, an outsider dealing with the company is entitled to assume that it has been done in the manner required. The above mentioned doctrine of Indoor Management has limitations of its own. That is to say, it is inapplicable to the following cases, namely:

- (a) The rule does not protect any person when the person dealing with the company has notice, whether actual or constructive, of the irregularity [Moris vs. Kenssen (1946) A.C. 459. Devi Ditta Mal vs. The Standard Bank of India (1972) I.C. 568]. Thus director of a company cannot normally claim the benefit of the rule in the Turquand Case where he is also acting for the company in the transaction.
- (b) The doctrine in no way, rewards those who behave negligently. Where the person dealing with the company is put upon an inquiry.
- (c) When an instrument purporting to be executed on behalf of the company is a forgery. The doctrine of indoor management applies only to irregularities which might otherwise affect a transaction but it cannot apply to forgery which must be regarded as nullity and void ab initio [Ruben vs. Great Fingall Consolidated (1906) A.C. 439; Official Liquidator vs. Commr. of Police (1969) 1 Comp. L.J. (Mad.)].

1.1.16 Conversion of companies already registered

According to Section 18 of the Companies Act, 2013, a company may convert itself in some other class of company by altering its memorandum and articles of association. Following is the law with respect to the conversion of the companies already registered.

- (a) By alteration of memorandum and articles: A company of any class registered under this Act may convert itself as a company of other class under this Act by alteration of memorandum and articles of the company in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter.
- (b) File an application to the Registrar: Wherever such conversion of companies is required to be done, the company shall file an application to the Registrar, who shall after satisfying himself that the provisions applicable for registration of companies have been complied with, close the former registration of the company.
- (c) Issue a certificate of incorporation: After registering the required documents, issue a certificate of incorporation in the same manner as its first registration.

- (d) No effect on the debts, liabilities etc. incurred before conversion: The registration of a company under this Section shall not affect any debts, liabilities, obligations or contracts incurred or entered into, by or on behalf of the company before conversion and such debts, liabilities, obligations and contracts may be enforced in the manner as if such registration had not been done.

Section 465 of the Companies Act, 2013, deals with the provisions relating to repeal of certain enactments and savings. However, Section 465 (1) of the Companies Act, 2013 has retained the provisions relating to Producer Companies and clarifies that these provisions shall continue to be in force in a manner as if the Companies Act, 1956 has not been repealed until a special Act is enacted for Producer Companies.

Part II of the Companies (Amendment) Act, 2020 has notified about producer companies, Section 378A to 378ZU deal with producer companies.

It must be understood that the concept of Producer companies has not taken off despite there being enough potential in view of some of the irritants like restricted tenure of directors of maximum five years. People who have for long been associated with co-operative and other such movements in India have found that the tenure of five years is too short and would force people out of the producer companies. ### A : 1.5 CONVERSION OF LLPS INTO PRIVATE LIMITED COMPANIES AND VICE VERSA

The LLP Act contains enabling provisions pursuant to which a firm (set up under Indian Partnership Act, 1932) and private company or unlisted public company (incorporated under Companies Act) would be able to convert themselves into LLPs. Provisions of clause 58 and Schedule II to Schedule IV to the Companies Act, 2013 provide the following procedure in this regard.

1.5.1 Conversion of LLP in to Company and vice versa

The LLP Act, 2008 does not provide any facility for conversion of a LLP into a private limited company.

As per Section 366 of the Companies Act, 2013 the 'company' includes any partnership firm, limited liability partnership, cooperative society, society or any other business entity formed under any other law for the time being in force which applied for registration of companies.

However, the Companies Act, 2013, provides for registration of LLP as a Company. The Government of India have framed the Companies (Authorised to Register) Rules, 2014 and the LLP could be converted into a Public or Private company in accordance with those rules. Such LLPs should have seven or more partners on the date of conversion.

The Act further states that, on conversion of a firm/private company/ unlisted public company into LLP, any approval, permit or license issued to the firm/private company/unlisted company under any other Act shall, subject to the provisions of such other Act under which such approval, permit or license was issued, be transferred in the name of converted entity viz., LLP. Since Stamp Duty is the subject reserved for the States, the LLP Act does not contain any provision for treatment of stamp duty issues. The stamp duty payable will depend upon the relevant Stamp Act prescribed by the State Government/ Union Territory.

THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013

PART - B : INVESTMENT AND LOANS

This Study Note includes:

B : 1.1 Procedure for inter-corporate loans, investments, giving off guarantee and security

B : 1.2 Acceptance of deposits, renewal, repayment, default and remedies

Chapter V and Chapter XII of the Companies Act, 2013 contain the provisions as to Acceptance of Deposits by the Companies and Inter-corporate Loans and Investments etc.,

B : 1.1 PROCEDURE FOR INTER-CORPORATE LOANS, INVESTMENTS, GIVING OFF GUARANTEE AND SECURITY

The word 'Investments' in common parlance would include any property or right in which money or capital is invested. However, in the present context the term 'Investments' is used in a limited sense to mean the investment of money in shares, stock, debentures, or other securities.

The power to invest the funds of the company is the prerogative of the Board of Directors. This power is derived by the Board under Section 179 of the Companies Act, 2013. However, the Act contains provisions for restrictions on investments that a company can make and loans it can provide. Moreover, giving corporate guarantee or security is also as good as giving a loan, because the person to whom guarantee or security is given can decide to enforce the guarantee or security in certain conditions and in such a situation, the company will have to pay the amount.

Thus apart from loan and investments, restrictions are also placed on the guarantees which the company can give or security it can provide for a loan. Provisions in respect of giving of loans, making investments, giving guarantee or providing securities have been considerably modified under Section 186 of the Companies Act, 2013.

Provided that prior approval of a public financial institution shall not be required where the aggregate of the loans and investments so far made, the amount for which guarantee or security so far provided to or in all other bodies corporate, along with the investments, loans, guarantee or security proposed to be made or given does not exceed the limit as specified in Sub-Section (2) and there is no default in repayment of loan instalments or payment of interest thereon as per the terms and conditions of such loan to the public financial institution.

C : 1.2 Declaration and payment of dividend

C : 1.3 Unpaid and unclaimed dividend - Treatment and transfer to Investor Education and Protection Fund

C : 1.1 PROFITS AND ASCERTAINMENT OF DIVISIBLE PROFITS

Maximisation of shareholders wealth is one of the objectives of any business. Dividend in literal terms means the profit of a company which is not retained in the business and is distributed among the shareholders in proportion to the amount paid up on the shares held by them.

'Divisible profits' means the profits which the law allows the company to distribute to the shareholders by way of dividend. According to Palmer's Company Law, the terms 'divisible profits' and 'profits in the legal sense' are synonymous. The profits of a business mean the net proceeds of the concern after deducting the necessary outgoings without which those proceeds could not be earned. [Bharat Insurance Co. Ltd. v. CIT (1931) 1 Com Cases 192, 196 (Lah)].

1.2.1 Meaning of Dividend

The term 'dividend' has been defined under Section 2(35) of the Companies Act, 2013. The term "Dividend" includes any interim dividend. It is an inclusive and not an exhaustive definition. According to the generally accepted definition, "dividend" means the profit of a company, which is not retained in the business and is distributed among the shareholders in proportion to the amount paid-up on the shares held by them.

Dividends are usually payable for a financial year after the final accounts are ready and the amount of distributable profits is available.

Dividend for a financial year of the company (which is called 'final dividend') are payable only if it is declared by the company at its annual general meeting on the recommendation of the Board of directors. Sometimes dividends are also paid by the Board of directors between two annual general meetings without declaring them at an annual general meeting (which is called 'interim dividend').

The companies having licence under Section 8 of the Act [Formation of companies with charitable objects etc.,] are prohibited by their constitution from paying any dividend to its members. They apply the profits in promoting the objects of the company.

1.2.2 Declaration of Dividend [Section 123]

According to Section 123 (1) of the Act dividend can be paid by a company:

- (a) out of the profits of the company for that year arrived at after providing for depreciation in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2), or

- (c) out of money provided by the Central Government or a State Government for the payment of dividend by the company in pursuance of a guarantee given by that Government:

Provided that a company may, before the declaration of any dividend in any financial year, transfer such percentage of its profits for that financial year as it may consider appropriate to the reserves of the company:

Provided further that where, owing to inadequacy or absence of profits in any financial year, any company proposes to declare dividend out of the accumulated profits earned by it in previous years and transferred by the company to the free reserves, such declaration of dividend shall not be made except in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf:

Provided also that no dividend shall be declared or paid by a company from its reserves other than free reserves.

The above proviso shall not apply to a Government Company in which the entire paid up share capital is held by the Central Government, or by any State Government or Governments or by the Central Government and one or more State Governments. [Inserted vide Notification dated 5th June, 2015]

Further stipulations under the rules:

- (a) For declaration of dividend out of accumulated profits, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs has provided Rule 3 of the Companies (Declaration and Payment of Dividend) Rules, 2014. Thereby, when there is inadequacy or absence of profits in any year, a company may declare dividend out of free reserves. However, the following conditions shall be fulfilled before declaring dividend out of reserves:
  - (1) The rate of dividend declared shall not exceed the average of the rates at which dividend was declared by it in the 3 years immediately preceding that year: However, this rule will not apply if a company has not declared any dividend in each of the three preceding financial year.
  - (2) The total amount to be drawn from such accumulated profits shall not exceed one tenth of the sum of its paid-up share capital and free reserves as appearing in the latest audited financial statement. Therefore, the total amount that can be drawn from the accumulated profits is Less than or equal to 1/10th of the Paid up share capital and free reserves.

The amount so drawn shall first be utilised to set off the losses incurred in the financial year in which dividend is declared before any dividend in respect of equity shares is declared.

- (3) The balance of reserves after such withdrawal shall not fall below 15% of its paid up share capital as appearing in the latest audited financial statement.

[Note: "No company shall declare dividend unless carried over previous losses and depreciation not provided in previous year or years are set off against profit of the company of the current year, inserted by the Companies (Declaration and Payment of Dividend) Amendment Rules, 2014" has been deleted vide Notification no. # Study Note - 1

THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013

PART - E : BOARD OF DIRECTORS & MANAGERIAL PERSONNEL

This Study Note includes:

- E : 1.1 Directors and Managerial Personnel - Appointment, Reappointment, Resignation, Removal
- E : 1.2 Payment of remuneration to Directors and Managerial Personnel and Disclosure
- E : 1.3 Powers of Board of Directors and Restrictions on the Powers of Directors
- E : 1.4 Obtaining DIN
- E : 1.5 Compensation for Loss of Office
- E : 1.6 Waiver of recovery of Remuneration
- E : 1.7 Making loans to Directors, Disclosure of Interest of a Director, Holding of Office or Place of Profit by a Director/Relative
- E : 1.8 Interested Directors

Chapter XI and Chapter XIII of the Companies Act, 2013 contain the provisions as to Board of Directors and Managerial Personnel.

1.1.1 Concept of Director

When a person chooses to form a company, either he, his relatives or copromotor may hold the post of directors. Else the promoters (those controlling the company) may appoint outsiders, who are competent in the area to become director and manage the company. In former case, we call them owner/promoter director. In later case, we call them professionals.

The Board of directors of a company is a nucleus, selected according to the procedure prescribed in the Act and the Articles of Association. Members of the Board of directors are known as directors, who unless especially authorised by the Board of directors of the Company, do not possess any individual power of management of the affairs of the company. Acting collectively as a Board of directors, they can exercise all the powers of the company except those, which are prescribed by the Act to be specifically exercised by the company in general meeting.

The directors of a company are its eyes, ears, brain, hands, nerves and other essential limbs, upon whose efficient functioning depends the success of the company. The directors formulate policies and establish organisational set up for implementing those policies and to achieve the objectives as contained in the Memorandum, muster resources for achieving the company objectives and control, guide, direct and manage the affairs of the company.

1.1.2 Position of Director

The position that the directors occupy in a corporate enterprise is not easy to explain. They are professional men hired by the company to direct its affairs. Yet they are not the servants of the company. They are rather the officers of the company. 'A director is not a servant of any master. He cannot be described as a servant of the company or of anyone'. 'A director is in fact a director or controller of the company's affairs'. A director may, however, work as an employee in a different capacity.

The senior management positions mainly consist of manager, whole time director or as a managing director. These occupy the prominent position in the decision making of the company.

But, whether a person is to be regarded as a manager, whole time director or as a managing director of the company would depend on the nature and extent of the duties entrusted to him and that the designation under which the appointment is made would not make any difference in this regard. The duties assigned are the main things behind the position. The Companies Act, 2013 has detailed provisions with regard to these key managerial personnel.

1.1.3 Company to have Board of Directors (Section 149)

This section provides for the provisions for companies to have a duly constituted Board of Directors. According to this section:

1.1.3.1 Number of Directors

According to section 149 (1) of the Companies Act, 2013, every company shall have a Board of Directors consisting of individuals as directors and shall have:

(a) minimum number of directors

- (2) in the case of Private Company - 2, and
- (3) in case of One person company (OPC) – 1

(b) maximum number of directors: 15

If the company wants to appoint more than 15 directors, it can do so after passing a special resolution. [Every special resolution is required to be filed in form No. MGT – 14 as per Section 117(3)(a)].

This is not applicable in case of Government and section 8 (non profit) company.

(c) Women director

At least one woman director shall be on the Board of such class or classes of companies as may be prescribed. [Second proviso to section 149(1)]

Rule 3 of the Companies (Appointment and Qualification of Directors) Rules, 2014 provides that the following class of companies shall appoint at least one woman director:

- (1) every listed company.
- (2) every other public company having.
  - a) paid-up share capital of one hundred crore rupees or more; or
  - b) turnover of three hundred crore rupees or more.

A company, which has been incorporated under the Act and is covered under provisions of second proviso to sub-section (1) of section 149 shall comply with such provisions within a period of six months from the date of its incorporation.

Further, any intermittent vacancy of a woman director shall be filled-up by the Board at the earliest but not later than immediate next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy whichever is later.

Example: in XYZ Ltd., an intermittent vacancy of the women director arises on 15th June, 2015. Thus, the vacancy shall be filled-up by the Board at the earliest but not later than the date of the next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy whichever is later.

If after the vacancy, the immediate Board meeting was held on 14th August, 2015, then the vacancy shall be filled-up by 14th August, 2015 or by 14th September, 2015 (3 months from the date of such vacancy) whichever is later. In this case it shall be filled up by 14th September, 2015.

If after the vacancy, the immediate Board meeting was held on 14th October, 2015 then the vacancy shall be filled-up by 14th October, 2015 or by 14th September, 2015 whichever is later. In this case it shall be filled up by 14th October, 2015.

Explanation: For the purposes of this rule (woman director on board), it is clarified that the paid up share capital or turnover, as the case may be, as on the last date of latest audited financial statements shall be taken into account.

(d) Resident Director

Every company shall have at least one director who has stayed in India for a total period of not less than 182 days in the financial year. [Section 149 (3)]

Transition period: Section 149 (5) provides for the transition period of one year from the date of commencement i.e., 1st April, 2014 to comply with section 149 (3).

Section 149 (3) of the Companies Act, 2013 requires every company to have at least one director who has stayed in India for a total period of not less than 182 days in the previous calendar year. The MCA clarified that residency requirement would be reckoned from the date of commencement of section 149 of the Act i.e., 1st April, 2014. The first previous calendar year for compliance with these provisions would, therefore, be calendar year 2014. The period to be taken into account for compliance with these provisions will be the remaining period of calendar year 2014 (i.e., 1st April to 31st December). Therefore, on a proportionate basis, the number of days for which the director(s) would need to be resident in India, during Calendar year 2014, shall exceed 136 days.

Regarding newly incorporated companies it is clarified that companies incorporated between 1st April, 2014 and 30th September, 2014 should have a resident director either at the incorporation stage itself or within six months of their incorporation. Companies incorporated after 30th September, 2014 need to have the resident director from the date of incorporation itself.

(e) Independent Director

Every listed public company shall have at least one-third of the total number of directors as independent directors [Section 149(4)].

The Central Government may prescribe the minimum number of independent directors in case of any class or classes of public companies.

Any fraction contained in such one-third numbers shall be rounded off as one. According to the Rule 4 of the Companies (Appointment and Qualification of Directors) Rules, 2014, the following class or classes of companies shall have at least 2 directors as independent directors:

- (1) the Public Companies having paid up share capital of ₹ 10 crore or more, or
- (2) the Public Companies having turnover of ₹ 100 crore or more, or
- (3) the Public Companies which have, in aggregate, outstanding loans, debentures and deposits, exceeding ₹ 50 crore.

However, in case a company covered under the above rule is required to appoint a higher number of independent directors due to composition of its audit committee, such higher number of independent directors shall be applicable to it.

Further, any intermittent vacancy of an independent director shall be filled-up by the Board at the earliest but not later than immediate next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy, whichever is later.

If intermittent vacancy arise in 15th June, 2015 and the immediate next Board meeting after the vacancy was held on 14th August, 2015, then the vacancy shall be filled-up by 14th August, 2015 or by 14th September, 2015 whichever is later. In this case it shall be filled up by 14th September, 2015.

If the immediate next Board meeting after the vacancy was held on 14th October, 2015, then the vacancy shall be filled-up by 14th October, 2015 or by 14th Sept. 2015 whichever is later. In this case it shall be filled up by 14th October 2015.

However, where a company ceases to fulfill any of three conditions laid down above for three consecutive years, it shall not be required to comply with these provisions until such time as it meets any of such conditions.

For the purpose of the above assessment, the paid up share capital or turnover or outstanding loans, debentures and deposits, as the case may be, as existing on the last date of latest audited financial statements shall be taken into account.

A company belonging to any class of companies for which a higher number of independent directors has been specified in the law for the time being in force shall comply with the requirements specified in such law.

Independent director is a person, who being a director of the company is not a whole time or nominee director, who was or is a promoter of the company or its holding or subsidiary company nor related to promoters, do not have any pecuniary interest in the company or its holding / subsidiary or associated companies, he or his relative holds or has held KMP or employee of the company or its holding /subsidiary company. ## F : 1.3 CORPORATE GOVERNANCE & AUDIT COMMITTEE

1.3.1 Corporate Governance

Corporate governance refers to the set of systems, principles and processes by which a company is governed. They provide the guidelines as to how the company can be directed or controlled such that it can fulfil its goals and objectives in a manner that adds to the value of the company and is also beneficial for all stakeholders in the long term.

In other words Corporate governance refers to the accountability of the Board of Directors to all stakeholders of the corporation i.e. shareholders, employees, suppliers, customers and society in general; towards giving the corporation a fair, efficient and transparent administration.

1.3.2 Principles of Corporate Governance

1.3.2.1 Transparency

Transparency means the quality of something which enables one to understand the truth easily. In the context of corporate governance, it implies an accurate, adequate and timely disclosure of relevant information about the operating results etc. of the corporate enterprise to the stakeholders.

1.3.2.2 Accountability

Accountability is a liability to explain the results of one's decisions taken in the interest of others. In the context of corporate governance, accountability implies the responsibility of the Chairman, the Board of Directors and the chief executive for the use of company's resources (over which they have authority) in the best interest of company and its stakeholders.

1.3.2.3 Independence

Good corporate governance requires independence on the part of the top management of the corporation i.e. the Board of Directors must be strong non-partisan body; so that it can take all corporate decisions based on business prudence. Without the top management of the company being independent; good corporate governance is only a mere dream.

1.3.2.4 Need for Corporate Governance

(a) Wide Spread of Shareholders

Most of the corporate now a days have a very large number of shareholders spread all over the nation and even the world; and a majority of shareholders being unorganised and having an indifferent attitude towards corporate affairs. The idea of shareholders' democracy remains confined only to the law and the Articles of Association; which requires a practical implementation through a code of conduct of corporate governance.

(b) Changing Ownership Structure

The pattern of corporate ownership has changed considerably, in the present-day-times; with institutional investors (foreign as well Indian) and mutual funds becoming largest shareholders in large corporate private sector. These investors have become the greatest challenge to corporate managements, forcing the latter to abide by some established code of corporate governance to build up its image in society.

(c) Corporate Scams or Scandals

Corporate scams (or frauds) in the recent years of the past have shaken public confidence in corporate management. To overcome the scams like Harshad Mehta, Sathyam scandals, it is necessary to have good governance practices in the corporate management. The need for corporate governance is, imperative for reviving investors' confidence in the corporate sector towards the economic development of society.

(d) Greater Expectations of Society of the Corporate Sector

Society of today holds greater expectations of the corporate sector in terms of reasonable price, better quality, pollution control, best utilisation of resources etc. To meet social expectations, there is a need for a code of corporate governance, for the best management of company in economic and social terms.

(e) Hostile Take Overs

Hostile take overs of corporations witnessed in several countries, put a question mark on the efficiency of managements of take-over companies. This factors also points out to the need for corporate governance, in the form of an efficient code of conduct for corporate managements.

(f) Huge Increase in Top Management Compensation

It has been observed in both developing and developed economies that there has been a great increase in the monetary payments (compensation) packages of top level corporate executives. There is no justification for exorbitant payments to top ranking managers, out of corporate funds, which are a property of shareholders and society. This factor necessitates corporate governance to contain the ill-practices of top managements of companies.

(g) Globalisation

Desire of more and more Indian companies to get listed on international stock exchanges also focuses on a need for corporate governance. In fact, corporate governance has become a buzzword in the corporate sector. There is no doubt that international capital market recognises only companies well-managed according to standard codes of corporate governance.

1.3.2.5 Corporate Governance

To promote good corporate governance, few provisions have been inserted in the Companies Act, 2013, most for listed companies but some apply to unlisted companies also. For the listed companies, apart from compliance of the Act, LODR has be introduced by SEBI which contains many provisions for better corporate governance. 1.3.2.6 The Companies Act, 2013 and its Impact on Corporate Governance in India

The foundations of the comprehensive revision in the Companies Act, 1956 was laid in 2004 when the Government constituted the Irani Committee to conduct a comprehensive review of the Act. The Government of India has placed before the Parliament a new Companies Bill, 2011 that incorporates several significant provisions for improving corporate governance in Indian companies which, having gone through an extensive consultation process. The Bill was passed in the parliament and enacted as the Companies Act, 2013.

The Companies Act, 2013 contemplates structural and fundamental changes in the way companies would be governed in India and incorporates various lessons that have been learnt from the corporate scams of the recent years that highlighted the role and importance of good governance in organizations.

Significant corporate governance reforms, primarily aimed at improving the board oversight process, have been proposed in the Companies Act, 2013; for instance it has proposed, for the first time in Company Law, the concept of an Independent Director and all listed companies are required to appoint independent directors with at least one third of the Board of such companies comprising of independent directors.

The Companies Act, 2013 takes the concept of board independence to another level altogether. The definition of an Independent Director has been considerably tightened and the definition now defines positive attributes of independence and also requires every Independent Director to declare that he or she meets the criteria of independence. Induction of compulsory independent directors ensures balance between whole time directors, promoters and external directors.

In order to ensure that Independent Directors maintain their independence and do not become too familiar with the management and promoters, minimum tenure requirements have been prescribed. The initial term for an independent director is for five years, following which further appointment of the director would require a special resolution of the shareholders. However, the total tenure for an independent director is not allowed to exceed two consecutive terms.

The Companies Act, 2013 expressly disallows Independent Directors from obtaining stock options in companies to protect their independence.

The new guidelines which set out the role, functions and duties of Independent Directors and their appointment, resignation and evaluation introduce greater clarity in their role; however, in certain places they are prescriptive in nature and could end up making the role of Independent Directors quite onerous.

In order to balance the extensive nature of functions and obligations imposed on Independent Directors, the Companies Act, 2013 seeks to limit their liability to matters directly relatable to them and limits their liability to 'only in respect of acts of omission or commission by a company which had occurred with his knowledge, attributable through board processes, and with his consent or connivance or where he had not acted diligently'.

The Act also requires that all resolutions in a meeting convened with a shorter notice should be ratified by at least one independent director which gives them an element of veto power. Various other clauses such as those on directors' responsibility statements, statement of social responsibilities, and the directors' responsibilities over financial controls, fraud, etc, will create a more transparent system through better disclosures.

The Act also contemplates that any undue gain made by a director by abusing his position will be disgorged and returned to the company together with monetary fines.

F : 1.7 DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF DIRECTORS

Directors acting collectively i.e. Board of Directors are authorized to do what the company is authorized to do unless barred by restrictions on their powers by the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013, the Memorandum or Articles of the company.

The Act specifies certain powers to be exercised only at Board Meeting (Section 179) and, certain powers only with the consent of shareholders in general meeting (Section 180). The Act also casts certain duties upon the directors such as duty to disclose the interest in contracts, duty to attend Board meetings etc.

Except where express provisions are made that the powers of a company in respect of any matter are to be exercised by the company in general meeting, in all other cases the Board is entitled to exercise all its powers. The directors acting together are the authority for conducting the affairs of the company. They are authorised to do what the company is authorised to do, unless barred by restrictions on their powers by the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013, the memorandum or articles of the company (Section 179).

The directors shall exercise their powers bonafide and in interest of the company. The directors while exercising their powers do not act as agents for the majority or even all the members and so the members cannot by resolution passed by a majority or even unanimously supercede the director's powers, or instruct them how they shall exercise their powers. This sovereignty of the directors within the limits of the powers conferred on them by the articles, and within limit laid down by the Act was clearly expressed by Greer L.J. in [John Shaw & Sons (Salford) Ltd. v. Shaw (1935) 2 K.B. 113] in the following words:

'A company is an entity distinct alike from its shareholders and its directors. Some of its powers may, according to its articles, be exercised by directors, certain other powers may be reserved for the shareholders in general meeting. The powers of management are vested in the directors. They and they alone can exercise these powers. The only way in which the general body of the shareholders can control the exercise of the powers vested by the articles, in the directors, is by altering the articles, or if opportunity arises under the articles, by refusing to re-elect the directors whose action they disapprove. They cannot themselves usurp the powers which by the articles are vested in the directors any more than the directors can usurp the powers vested by the articles in the general body of shareholders'

In [Milan Sen v. Guardian Plasticate Ltd. (1998) 2 Comp L J 320], the directors passed a resolution for rights issue which was questioned by certain shareholders. The Calcutta High Court held that the question whether the company needed additional capital was a question which should primarily be decided by the directors of the company and if they were of the view that further capital in the form of rights issue was required, the Court would not be allowed to disturb the same unless there were extreme circumstances of malafides or breach of trust.

Thus, from the provisions of Section 179 and the exposition of the law stated above, it is clear that subject to the restrictions contained in the Act, Memorandum and Articles, the powers of directors are co-extensive with those of the company itself. The relationship of the Board of directors with the shareholders is more of federation than one of subordinates and superior. Some powers are specially reserved for the Board. On the other hand, some powers are exclusively reserved for the members in general meeting.

1.7.1 Duties of directors (section 166)

Duties of directors has been defined in the company Law for the first time under section 166 of the Companies Act, 2013. The following duties have been prescribed for a director under the said section:

Similarly, if shareholders suffer loss due to the negligence of the directors they are personally liable for the loss.

Before going into the topic, let us understand the meaning of the terms 'Inspection', 'Inquiry' and 'Investigation'. According to Cambridge English Dictionary:

(a) Inspection

'Inspection' means the act of looking at something carefully, or an official visit to a building or organization to check that everything is correct and legal.

Purpose

The purpose of an inspection is to confirm that the company, organization or individual is obeying the law.

(b) Inquiry

'Inquiry' is an official process or a judicial inquiry to discover the facts about something bad that has happened:

Purpose

An inquiry is any process that has the aim of augmenting knowledge, resolving doubt, or solving a problem.

(c) Investigation

'Investigation' means the act or process of examining a crime, problem, statement, etc. carefully, especially to discover the truth.

Purpose

The purpose of an investigation is to gather information and evidence to support the prosecution of a suspected violation. If the enforcement officer reasonably believes that there has been a violation of the law, then they have the authority to conduct an investigation. Inspection is not negative and a routine procedure but inquiry and investigation is always negative. Sometimes, inspection leads to investigation.

Chapter XIV of the Companies Act, 2013 provides for Inspection, Inquiry and Investigation.

G : 1.1 POWER TO CALL FOR INFORMATION, INSPECT BOOKS AND CONDUCT INQUIRIES [SECTION 206]

A check on the performance of Companies is generally exercised by scrutiny of Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Account and other returns filed by them with the Registrar who is empowered to call for information and explanation with respect to any matter to which such documents purport to relate.

The Companies Act explains the legal requirement for the companies in relation to maintenance of books of account. The object of inspection is not to keep a watch on the performance of companies but also to evaluate precisely the level of efficiency in the conduct of the company concerned.

Section 206 of the Act provides for the power to call for information, inspect books and conduct inquiries. According to this section:

(a) Power of the Registrar to call for information, explanation or documents [Section 206(1)]

According to section 206(1) of the Companies Act, 2013, where on a scrutiny of any document filed by a company or on any information received by him, the Registrar is of the opinion that any further information or explanation or any further documents relating to the company is necessary, he may by a written notice require the company :

- (1) to furnish in writing such information or explanation; or
- (2) to produce such documents, within such reasonable time, as may be specified in the notice.

(b) Duty of the company and its officers [Section 206 (2)]

On the receipt of a notice under sub-section (1) of section 206, it shall be the duty of the company and of its officers concerned to furnish such information or explanation to the best of their knowledge and power and to produce the documents to the Registrar within the time specified or extended by the Registrar.

(c) Duty of past officers of the company [proviso to Section 206 (2)]

According to the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 206, where such information or explanation relates to any past period, the officers who had been in the employment of the company for such period, if so called upon by the Registrar through a notice served on them in writing, shall also furnish such information or explanation to the best of their knowledge.

(d) Additional written notice by the Registrar [Section 206 (3)]

The Registrar may by another written notice call on the company to produce for his inspection such further books of account, books, papers and explanations as he may require at such place and at such time as he may specify in the notice:

- (1) If no information or explanation is furnished to the Registrar within the time specified under Section 206 (1), or
- (2) If the Registrar on an examination of the documents furnished is of the opinion that the information or explanation furnished is inadequate, or
- (3) If the Registrar is satisfied on a scrutiny of the documents furnished that an unsatisfactory state of affairs exists in the company and the information or documents do not disclose a full and fair statement of the information required.

Provided that, before any notice is served under this sub-section, the Registrar shall record his reasons in writing for issuing such notice.

(e) Inquiry by the Registrar [Section 206 (4)]

- (1) The Registrar may call on the company to furnish in writing any information or explanation on matters specified in the order within such time as he may specify therein and carry out such inquiry as he deems fit after providing the company a reasonable opportunity of being heard, if the Registrar is satisfied:
  - a) on the basis of information available with or furnished to him, or
  - b) on a representation made to him by any person that the business of a company is being carried on for a fraudulent or unlawful purpose or not in compliance with the provisions of this Act, or
  - c) the grievances of investors are not being addressed.
- (2) Before calling the company to furnish in writing any information or explanations and carrying out inquiry, the Registrar has to inform the company of the allegations made against it by a written order.
- (3) The Central Government may, if it is satisfied that the circumstances so warrant, direct the Registrar or an Inspector appointed by it for the purpose to carry out the inquiry under this sub-section.
- (4) It is further provided that where business of a company has been or is being carried on for a fraudulent or unlawful purpose, every officer of the company who is in default shall be punishable for fraud in the manner as provided in section 447.

(f) Inspection by Central Government [Section 206 (5)]

Without prejudice to the foregoing provisions of this section, the Central Government may, if it is satisfied that the circumstances so warrant, direct inspection of books and papers of a company by an Inspector appointed by it for the purpose.

(g) Order to Carry out Inspection [Section 206 (6)]

The Central Government may, having regard to the circumstances by general or special order, authorise any statutory authority to carry out the inspection of books of account of a company or class of companies.

Chapter XV of the Companies Act, 2013 (Section 230 to Section 240) provides for Compromises, Arrangements and Amalgamations. Rule referred in this chapter denotes Companies (Compromise, Arrangement and Amalgamation) Rules.

Introduction

Corporate restructuring is one of the method to achieve this objective. Mergers, demerger, amalgamation, compromise and arrangements are the different modes of corporate restructuring. The Companies Act provides the power to the Court for sanctioning schemes of compromise and arrangement.

Compromise

'Compromise' is a term which implies the existence of a dispute such as relating to rights. It means settlement or adjustment of claims in dispute by mutual concessions. If the members have to give up their rights entirely. It will not be compromise [NFU Development Trust Ltd., Re (1973) 1 All E.R. 135]

There can be no 'compromise' unless there is a dispute [Guardian Assurance Co., Re(1917) 1 Ch. 431].

Arrangement

The term 'arrangement' is of very wide import. It includes a reorganization of the share capital of a company by the consolidation of shares of different classes, or by the division of share into shares of different classes or by both these methods. All modes of reorganising the share capital, including interference with preferential and other special rights attached to shares, can properly form part of an arrangement with members [Investment Corp. of India Ltd., Re (1987) 61 Comp. Cas.92 (Bom)].

Amalgamation

'Amalgamation' is a legal process by which two or more companies are joined together to form a new entity or one or more companies are to be absorbed or blended with another and as a consequence the amalgamating company loses its existence and its shareholders become the shareholders of new company or the amalgamated company.

The shareholders of each amalgamating company become the shareholders in the amalgamated company. To give a simple example of amalgamation, we may say X Ltd. and Y Ltd. form Z Ltd. and merge their legal identities into Z Ltd. It may be said in another way that X Ltd. + Y Ltd. = Z. Ltd.

The word amalgamation is not defined anywhere in the Companies Act, 2013.

THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013

PART - I : PREVENTION OF OPPRESSION AND MISMANAGEMENT

This Study Note includes:

- I : 1.1 Majority Rule but Minority Protection
- I : 1.2 Prevention of Oppression and Mismanagement

Introduction

The concept of shareholders' democracy in the present day corporate world denotes the shareholders' supremacy in the governance of the business and affairs of corporate sector either directly or through their elected representatives. Democracy means the rule of people, by people and for people. In that context the shareholders democracy means the rule of shareholders, by the shareholders, and for the shareholders in the corporate enterprise, to which the shareholders belong. Precisely it is a right to speak, congregates and communicates with co-shareholders and to learn about what is going on in the company.

Under the Companies Act, the powers have been divided between two segments: one is the Board of Directors and the other is of shareholders. The directors exercise their powers through meetings of Board of directors and shareholders exercise their powers through General Meetings. Although constitutionally all the acts relating to the company can be performed in General Meetings but most of the powers in regard thereto are delegated to the Board of directors by virtue of the constitutional documents of the company viz. the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association. Companies Act also recognises the power of the Board in decision making.

Under Section 179 of the Companies Act, 2013 a general power has been conferred on the Board of directors. The Section 179 (1) provides that the Board of Directors of a company shall be entitled to exercise all such powers, and to do all such acts and things, as the company is authorised to exercise and do. However, in exercising such power or doing such act or thing, the Board shall be subject to the provisions contained in that behalf in this Act, or in the memorandum or articles, or in any regulations not inconsistent therewith and duly made thereunder, including regulations made by the company in general meeting. Further that the Board shall not exercise any power or do any act or thing which is directed or required, whether under this Act or by the memorandum or articles of the company or otherwise, to be exercised or done by the company in general meeting.

This Section further restricts the power of the Board of directors to do things which are specifically required to be done by shareholders in the General Meetings under the provisions of Companies Act or Memorandum of Association or the Articles of Association. Thus the Companies Act demarcates the area of control of directors as well as that of shareholders. All the business to be transacted at the meetings of shareholders is by means of an ordinary resolution or a special resolution.

I : 1.1 MAJORITY RULE BUT MINORITY PROTECTION

In the day-to-day working of a company, certain decisions need to be taken regarding the management of the company and these decisions are generally taken by the majority members. In this process of decision-making, there may arise certain occasions wherein the interests of the majority shareholders may come in conflict with that of the minority shareholders. In such a case, if the decisions taken, are not in the larger interest of the company as a whole, but only caters to the interest of one particular group, the minority group whose interest may have been violated can raise its voice against such an action.

The protection of minority shareholders within the domain of corporate activity constitutes one of the most difficult problems facing modern company law. The aim must be to strike a balance between the effective control of the company and the interest of the small individual shareholders.

Palmer has stated with respect to rights of shareholders:

“A proper balance of the rights of majority and minority shareholders is essential for the smooth functioning of the company.”

It is only right to expect that in matters of a company, any decisions that are taken are done so in keeping with principles of natural justice and fair play. In case of failure to do so, it is important that the interest of minority shareholders be protected.

1.1.1 Powers of Majority

According to Section 47 of the Companies Act, 2013, every member of a company, which is limited by shares, holding any equity shares shall have a right to vote in respect of such capital on every resolution placed before the company. Member's right to vote is recognised as right of property and the shareholder may exercise it as he thinks fit according to his choice and interest. However, this rule is modified by the Act in certain cases. A special resolution, for instance, requires a majority of 3/4th of those voting at the meeting and therefore, where the Act or the Articles require a special resolution for any purpose, a three fourth majority is necessary and a simple majority is not enough [Edwards v. Halliwell, (1950) 2 All. E.R.1064]. The resolution of a majority of shareholders, passed at a duly convened and held general meeting, upon any question with which the company is legally competent to deal, is binding upon the minority and consequently upon the company [North-West Transportation Co. v. Beatty (1887) L.R. 12 A.C. 589].

Thus, the majority of the members enjoy the supreme authority to exercise the powers of the company and generally to control its affairs. But this is subject to two very important limitations. Firstly, the powers of the majority of members is subject to the provisions of the Company's memorandum and articles of association. Secondly, the resolution of a majority must not be inconsistent with the provisions of the Act or any other statute, or constitute a fraud on minority depriving it of its legitimate rights.

1.1.2 The Principle of Non-interference (Rule in Foss v. Harbottle)

The general principle of company law is that every member holds equal rights with other members of the company in the same class. The scale of rights of members of the same class must be held evenly for smooth functioning of the company. In case of difference(s) amongst the members the issue is decided by a vote of the majority. The basic principle of non-interference with the internal management of company by the court is laid down in a celebrated case of Foss v. Harbottle 67 E.R. 189. (1843) 2 Hare 461 that no action can be brought by a member against the directors in respect of a wrong alleged to be committed to a company. The company itself is the proper party of such an action.

1.1.3 Justification and Advantages of the Rule in Foss v. Harbottle

The justification for the rule laid down in Foss v. Harbottle is that the will of the majority prevails. On becoming a member of a company, a shareholder agrees to submit to the will of the majority. The rule really preserves the right of the majority to decide how the company's affairs shall be conducted. If any wrong is done to the company, it is only the company itself, acting, as it must always act, through its majority, that can seek to redress and not an individual shareholder.

Moreover, a company is a person at law and the action is vested in it and cannot be brought by a single shareholder. Where there is a corporate body capable of filing a suit for itself to recover property either from its directors or officers or from any other person then that corporate body is the proper plaintiff and the only proper plaintiff [Gray v. Lewis, (1873) 8 Ch. Appl. 1035].

The main advantages that flow from the Rule in Foss v. Harbottle are of a purely practical nature and are as follows:

1. Recognition of the separate legal personality of company: If a company has suffered some injury, and not the individual members, it is the company itself that should seek to redress.
2. Need to preserve right of majority to decide: The principle in Foss v. Harbottle preserves the right of majority to decide how the affairs of the company shall be conducted. It is fair that the wishes of the majority should prevail.

3. Multiplicity of futile suits avoided: Clearly, if every individual member were permitted to sue anyone who had injured the company through a breach of duty, there could be as many suits as there are shareholders. Legal proceedings would never cease, and there would be enormous wastage of time and money.
4. Litigation at suit of a minority futile if majority does not wish it: If the irregularity complained of is one which can be subsequently ratified by the majority it is futile to have litigation about it except with the consent of the majority in a general meeting.

1.1.4 Exceptions to the Rule in Foss v. Harbottle - Protection of Minority Rights and shareholders remedies

The rule in Foss v. Harbottle is not absolute but is subject to certain exceptions. In other words, the rule of supremacy of the majority is subject to certain exceptions and thus, minority shareholders are not left helpless, but they are protected by:

- (a) the common law. and
- (b) the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013.

1.1.5 Actions by Shareholders in Common Law

The cases in which the majority rule does not prevail are commonly known as exceptions to the rule in Foss v. Harbottle and are available to the minority. In all these cases an individual member may sue for declaration that the resolution complained of is void, or for an injunction to restrain the company from passing it. The said rule will not apply in the following cases.

(a) Ultra Vires Acts

Where the directors representing the majority of shareholders perform an illegal or ultra vires act for the company, an individual shareholder has right to bring an action. The majority of shareholders have no right to confirm an illegal or ultra vires transaction of the company. In such case a shareholder has the right to restrain the company by an order or injunction of the court from carrying out an ultra vires act.

(b) Fraud on Minority

Where an act done by the majority amounts to a fraud on the minority, an action can be brought by an individual shareholder. This principle was laid down as an exception to the rule in Foss v. Harbottle in a number of cases. In Menier v. Hooper's Telegraph Works, (1874) L.R. 9 Ch. App. 350, it was observed that it would be a shocking thing if the majority of shareholders are allowed to put something into their pockets at the expenses of the minority. In this case, the majority of members of company 'A' were also members of company 'B', and at a meeting of company 'A' they passed a resolution to compromise an action against company 'B', in a manner alleged to be favourable to company 'B', but unfavourable to company 'A'. Held, the minority shareholders of company 'A' could bring an action to have the compromise set aside.

(c) Wrongdoers in Control

If the wrongdoers are in control of the company, the minority shareholders' representative action for fraud on the minority will be entertained by the court [Cf. Birch v. Sullivan, (1957) 1 W.L.R. 1274]. The reason for it is that if the minority shareholders are denied the right of action, their grievances in such case would never reach the court, for the wrongdoers themselves, being in control, will never allow the company to sue [Par Jenkins L.J. in Edwards v. Halliwell, (1950) 2 All E.R. 1064, 1067].

In Glass v. Atkin (1967) 65 D.L.R. (2d) 501, a company was controlled equally by the two defendants and the two plaintiff. The plaintiff brought an action against defendants alleging that they had fraudulently converted the assets of the company for their own private use. The Court allowed the action and observed. While the general principle was for the company itself to bring an action, where it had an interest, since the two defendants controlled the company in the sense that they would prevent the company from taking action.

(d) Resolution requiring Special Majority but is passed by a simple majority

A shareholder can sue if an act requires a special majority but is passed by a simple majority. Simple or rigid, formalities are to be observed if the majority wants to give validity to an act which purports to impede the interest of minority. An individual shareholder has the right of action to restrain the company from acting on a special resolution to which the insufficient notice is served [Baillie v. Oriental Telephone and Electric Co. Ltd., (1915) 1 Ch. 503 (C.A.) and Nagappa Chettiar v. Madras Race Club, 1 M.L.J. 662].

(e) Personal Actions

Individual membership rights cannot be invaded by the majority of shareholders. He is entitled to all the rights and privileges according to his status as a member. An individual shareholder can insist on the strict compliance with the legal rules, statutory provisions. Provisions in the memorandum and the articles are mandatory in nature and cannot be waived by a bare majority of shareholders [Salmon v. Quin and Azens, (1909) A.C. 442]. In Nagappa Chettiar v. Madras Race Club, (1949) 1 M.L.J. 662 at 667, it was observed by the Court that 'An individual shareholder is entitled to enforce his individual rights against the company, such as, his right to vote, the right to have his vote recorded, or his right to stand as a director of a company at an election'.

Where the candidature of a shareholder for directorship is rejected by the Chairman, it is an individual wrong in respect of which a suit is maintainable [Joseph v. Jos, (1964) 1 Comp LJ 105].

(f) Breach of Duty

The minority shareholder may bring an action against the company, where although there is no fraud, there is a breach of duty by directors and majority shareholders to the detriment of the company.

In Daniels v. Daniels, (1978) 2 W.L.R. 73, the plaintiff, who were minority shareholders of a company, brought an action against the two directors of the company and the company itself. In their statement of the claim they alleged that the company, on the instruction of the two directors who were majority shareholders, sold the company's land to one of the directors (who was the wife of the other) for £ 4,250 and the directors knew or ought to have known that the sale was at an under value. Four years after the sale, she sold the same land for £ 1,20,000. The directors applied for the statement of claim to be disclosed on reasonable cause of action or otherwise as an abuse of the process of the Court.

(g) Prevention of Oppression and Mismanagement

The minority shareholders are empowered to bring action with a view to preventing the majority from oppression and mismanagement.

It should be noted that the ordinary civil courts are not deprived of the jurisdiction to decide the matters except where the Companies Act expressly excludes it such as matters relating to winding up [Panipat Woollen & General Mills Co. Ltd. v. R.L. Kaushik, (1969) 39 Com Cases 249 (Punj & Har)].

1.1.6 Statutory Remedies under the Companies Act

Though the shareholders' democracy is supreme, the Companies Act, 1956 & 2013 and the decided cases suggest that the majority shall not be allowed to act in an unfair, fraudulent, or oppressive way against the interests of the minority shareholders. Further, under Section 163 of the Companies Act, 2013 a company may adopt principle of proportional representation. The Companies Act, 2013, extends protection to minority by granting various rights to minority shareholders.

I : 1.2 PREVENTION OF OPPRESSION AND MISMANAGEMENT

As explained in the preceding topic that one of the exceptions to the majority rule laid down in Foss v. Harbottle is the right of the oppressed minority to get relief against the wrongful conduct of the majority. This protection to the oppressed minority is also statutorily provided under Sections 241 and 242 of the Companies Act, 2013. This statutory protection for prevention of oppression and mismanagement is an alternative remedy for winding up of the affairs of the company. The reason is that the oppressed minority may file application with the NCLT to wind up the company. However, the company may be a sound and profitable concern.

1.2.1 Meaning of Oppression

The words 'Oppression' and 'mismanagement' are not defined in the Act. The meaning of these words for the purpose of Company Law should be used in a broad generic sense and not in any strict literal sense.

The meaning of the term 'oppression' as explained by Lord Cooper in the Scottish case of Elder v. elder & Western Ltd. [(1952) Scottish Cases 49], which has been cited with approval by Wanchoo. J (afterwards C.J.) of the Supreme Court in Shanti Prasad v. Kalinga Tubes [(1965) 1 Comp L.J. 193 at 204], is as under:

'The essence of the matter seems to be that the conduct complained of should at the lowest, involve a visible departure from the standards of fair dealing, on which every shareholders who entrusts his money to the company is entitled to rely.'

The complaining shareholder must be under a burden which is unjust or harsh or tyrannical. [Lord Simonds in Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society v. Meyer (1959) AC 324 at p. 342] 'A persistent course of unjust conduct must be shown' [In Re. H.R. Harmer Ltd. [(1958) 3 All ER 689]]. 'The result of application under Section 210 of English Companies Act, 1948, in different cases must depend on the particular facts of each case, the circumstances in which oppression may arise being infinitely various that it is impossible to define them with precision.'

An attempt to force new and more risky objects upon an unwilling minority may in circumstances amount to oppression. This was held in Re. Hindustan Co-operative Insurance Society Ltd, [AIR. 1961 Cal. 443] wherein the life Insurance business of a company was acquired in 1956 by the Life Insurance Corporation of India on payment of compensation. The directors, who had the majority voting power, refused to distribute this amount among shareholders, rather they passed a special resolution changing the objects of the company to utilize the compensation money for the new objects, and this was held to be 'Oppression'. The court observed: 'The majority exercised their authority wrongfully, in a manner burdensome, harsh and wrongful. They attempted to force the minority shareholders to invest their money in different kind of business against their will. The minority had invested their money in a life insurance business with all its safeguards and statutory protections. But they were being forced to invest where there would be no such protections or safeguards.'

1.2.2 Application to Tribunal for relief in cases of oppression, etc (Section 241).

Section 241 of the Act provides the relief in case of oppression and mismanagement. Further, the Central Government may also file application to the Tribunal, if it is satisfied that the affairs of the company are being conducted in a manner prejudicial to the public interest. According to this Section:

- (a) Any member of a company who complains that:

- (g) Subject to the provisions of Sub-Section (1), the alterations made by the order in the memorandum or articles of a company shall, in all respects, have the same effect as if they had been duly made by the company in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the said provisions shall apply accordingly to the memorandum or articles so altered. [Sub-Section 6]
- (h) A certified copy of every order altering, or giving leave to alter, a company's memorandum or articles, shall within thirty days after the making thereof, be filed by the company with the Registrar who shall register the same. [Sub-Section 7]

THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013

PART – K : CORPORATE WINDING UP AND DISSOLUTION

This Study Note Includes:

- K : 1.1 Modes of Winding Up
- K : 1.2 Winding up by the Tribunal
- K : 1.3 Voluntary Winding Up
- K : 1.4 Provisions applicable to every mode of winding up
- K : 1.5 Official Liquidators

Chapter XX of the Companies Act, 2013 deals with Corporate Winding-Up. Under this Chapter, Part-I deals with Winding-Up by the Tribunal; Part-II deals with Voluntary Winding-Up; Part-III contains the provisions applicable to every mode of winding up and Part- IV deals with Official Liquidators.

CORPORATE WINDING UP AND DISSOLUTION

Right to do business and quit business is fundamental right. Therefore any person can start a business and stop the business. However, one cannot start any business and in the manner he likes. He has to follow the laws and restrictions made by Government. Similarly when he decides to stop a business or close down a company, he has to do it legally and most important is paying of third party liabilities.

The Companies Act, 2013, provides various strategies to deal with such business failures such as arrangement, reconstruction, amalgamation and winding-up. Winding-up of a company is a process of putting an end to the life of a company. It is a proceeding by means of which a company is dissolved and in the course of such dissolution its assets are collected, its debts are paid off out of the assets of the company or from contributions by its members, if necessary. If any surplus is left, it is distributed among the members in accordance with their rights.

Winding up of a company is the stage, whereby the company takes its last breath. It is a process by which business of the company is wound up, and the company ceases to exist anymore. All the assets of the company are sold, and the proceedings collected are used to discharge the liabilities on a priority basis.

Winding-up is the process by which management of a company's affairs is taken out of its directors' hands, its assets are realized by a liquidator and its debts are realized and liabilities are discharged out of proceeds of realization and any surplus of assets remaining is returned to its members or shareholders. At the end of the winding up the company will have no assets or liabilities and it will, therefore, be simply a formal step for it to be dissolved, that is, for its legal personality as a corporation to be brought to an end.

The main purpose of winding up of a company is to realize the assets and pay the debts of the company expeditiously and fairly in accordance with the law. However, the purpose must not be exploited for the benefit or advantage of any class or person entitled to submit petition for winding up of a company. It may be noted that on winding up, the company does not cease to exist as such except when it is dissolved. The administrative machinery of the company gets changed as the administration is transferred in the hands of the liquidator. Even after commencement of the winding-up, the property and assets of the company belong to the company until dissolution takes place. On dissolution the company ceases to exist as a separate entity and becomes incapable of keeping property, suing or being sued. Thus in between the winding up and dissolution, the legal status of the company continues and it can be sued in the court of law.

Chapter XX Sections 270 to 365 of the Companies Act, 2013 deals with the provisions of winding up. The provisions are to be read with Companies (Winding up) Rules 2020 notified on 20th January, 2020 and supersedes all previous Rules on Winding up.

K : 1.1 MODES OF WINDING UP (SECTION 270)

Under Companies Act 2013, the Company may be wound up in any of the following modes:

- (a) By National Company Law Tribunal (the Tribunal).
- (b) Voluntary winding up

K : 1.2 WINDING UP BY THE TRIBUNAL (SECTIONS 271 TO 303)

1.2.1 Circumstances in which company may be wound up by Tribunal (Section 271)

Grounds on which a Company may be wound up by the Tribunal on a petition made under section 272 of the Act. A company under Section 271(1) may be wound up by the tribunal if:

- (a) if the company is unable to pay its debts.
- (b) if the company has, by special resolution, resolved that the company be wound up by the Tribunal.
- (c) if the company has acted against the interests of the sovereignty and integrity of India, the security of the State, friendly relations with foreign States, public order, decency or morality.
- (d) if the Tribunal has ordered the winding up of the company under Chapter XIX(i.e., Revival and Rehabilitation of Sick Companies).
- (e) if on an application made by the Registrar or any other person authorized by the Central Government by notification under this Act, the Tribunal is of the opinion that the affairs of the company have been conducted in a fraudulent manner or the company was formed for fraudulent and unlawful purpose or the persons concerned in the formation or management of its affairs have been guilty of fraud, misfeasance or misconduct in connection therewith and that it is proper that the company be wound up.
- (f) if the company has made a default in filing with the Registrar its financial statements or annual returns for immediately preceding five consecutive financial years, or
- (g) if the Tribunal is of the opinion that it is just and equitable that the company should be wound up.

1.2.2 Petition for winding up (Section 272)

An application for the winding up of a company has to be made by way of petition to the Court. A petition may be presented under Section 272 by any of the following persons:

- (a) the company, or
- (b) any creditor or creditors, including any contingent or prospective creditor or creditors.
- (c) any contributory or contributories.

- (d) all or any of the parties specified above in clauses (a), (b), (c) together
- (e) the Registrar.
- (f) any person authorized by the Central Government in that behalf.
- (g) by the Central Government or State Government in case falling under clause (c) of Section 271 (1) i.e., Company acting against the interest of the sovereignty and integrity of India.

1.2.2.1 Petition by the Company

The company may make a petition through its directors with the authority of a special resolution passed at a general meeting. A petition by the Company for winding up before the tribunal will be admitted only if it is accompanied by the statement of affairs, prescribed in form 4 and shall state the facts upto the date which shall not be a date more than fifteen days prior to the date of making the statement. This statement shall be certified by a Chartered Accountant. (Section 272 (5) read with Rule 5 made under Chapter XX of the Companies Act 2013.

Every contributory or creditor of the company shall be entitled to be furnished, by the petitioner or his authorized representative, with a copy of a petition. The contributory may seek an electronic copy from the registry of tribunal on payment of prescribed fee. (Rule 5 (4) of the rules made under Chapter XX of the Companies Act, 2013.

1.2.2.2 Petition by Creditor

A creditor or creditors (including any contingent or prospective creditor) may make petition before the tribunal would make a winding up order on such petition if the creditor proves that the claims are undisputed debt.

(a) Contingent or prospective Creditor

Section 272(6) states that before a petition for winding up of a company presented by a contingent or prospective creditor is admitted, the leave of the Tribunal shall be obtained for the admission of the petition and such leave shall not be granted, unless in the opinion of the Tribunal there is a prima facie case for the winding up of the company and until such security for costs has been given as the Tribunal thinks reasonable.

(b) Creditor

The expression 'creditors' includes the assignee of debt, a decree holder, a secured creditor, a debenture holder or the trustee for debenture holders. But a creditor whose debt is unliquidated cannot apply for Corporate Restructuring & Insolvency winding up order. A contingent or prospective creditor can present petition on giving security for costs and showing that a prima facie case has arisen. A petition by a secured creditor for winding up may not be allowed by the Court where the security is ample and the petition is not supported by the other creditors.

In the case of State of Andhra Pradesh V Hyderabad Vegetable Products Co Ltd (1962) 32 Comp. Cases 64 (AP), the term creditor as occurring in Section 439 (1) (b) of the 1956 Act (Presently Section 272(1) (b)) is not limited to one to whom a debt is due at the date of the petition and who can demand immediate payment. Every person having a pecuniary claim, whether actual or contingent is a creditor. As per Section 272 (2), a secured creditor, the holder of any debentures, whether or not any trustee or trustees have been appointed in respect of such and other like debentures, and the trustee for the holders of debentures shall be deemed to be creditors.

1.2.2.3 Petition by Contributory

Section 2 (26) defines 'contributory' means a person liable to contribute towards the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up. For the purposes of this clause, it is hereby clarified that a person holding fully paid-up shares in a company shall be considered as a contributory but shall have no liabilities of a contributory under the Act whilst retaining rights of such a contributory.

Section 273 (2) states that a contributory shall be entitled to present a petition for the winding up of a company, notwithstanding that he may be the holder of fully paid-up shares, or that the company may have no assets at all or may have no surplus assets left for distribution among the shareholders after the satisfaction of its liabilities, and shares in respect of which he is a contributory or some of them were either originally allotted to him or have been held by him, and registered in his name, for at least six months during the eighteen months immediately before the commencement of the winding up or have devolved on him through the death of a former holder.

1.2.2.4 Petition by Registrar

(a) The Registrar shall be entitled to present a petition for winding up under sub- Section (1) on any of the grounds specified in Sub-Section (1) of Section 271, except on the grounds specified in clause (b), clause (d) or clause (g) of that Sub-Section.

Accordingly the registrar can present a petition on the following grounds.

- (1) if the company is unable to pay its debts.
- (2) if the company has acted against the interests of the sovereignty and integrity of India, the security of the State, friendly relations with foreign States, public order, decency or morality.

- (4) if the company has made a default in filing with the Registrar its financial statements or annual returns for immediately preceding five consecutive financial years.

The Registrar shall not present a petition on the ground that the company is unable to pay its debts unless it appears to him either from the financial condition of the company as disclosed in its balance sheet or from the report of an inspector appointed under Section 210 that the company is unable to pay its debts:

The Registrar shall obtain the previous sanction of the Central Government to the presentation of a petition: The Central Government shall not accord its sanction unless the company has been given a reasonable opportunity of making representations.

(b) Filing a copy of petition with the registrar

A copy of the petition made under this Section shall also be filed with the Registrar and the Registrar shall, without prejudice to any other provisions, submit his views to the Tribunal within sixty days of receipt of such petition.

(c) Powers of Tribunal on receipt of petition

According to Section 273, the Tribunal may, on receipt of a petition for winding up under Section 272 pass any of the following orders, namely:

- (a) dismiss it, with or without costs.
- (b) make any interim order as it thinks fit.
- (c) appoint a provisional liquidator of the company till the making of a winding up order.
- (d) make an order for the winding up of the company with or without costs, or
- (e) any other order as it thinks fit:

An order under this Sub-Section shall be made within ninety days from the date of presentation of the petition.

Before appointing a provisional liquidator under clause (c), the Tribunal shall give notice to the company and afford a reasonable opportunity to it to make its representations, if any, unless for special reasons to be recorded in writing, the Tribunal thinks fit to dispense with such notice.

The Tribunal shall not refuse to make a winding up order on the ground only that the assets of the company have been mortgaged for an amount equal to or in excess of those assets, or that the company has no assets.

Section 273 (2) states that if a petition is presented on the ground that it is just and equitable that the company should be wound up, the Tribunal may refuse to make an order of winding up, if it is of the opinion that some other remedy is available to the petitioners and that they are acting unreasonably in seeking to have the company wound up instead of pursuing the other remedy.

(d) Directions for statement of affairs if the petition is filed by a person other than a company (Section 274)

Accordingly to Section 274(1) read with the rules made under Chapter XX, when a petition for winding up is filed before the Tribunal by any person other than the company, the Tribunal shall, if satisfied that a prima facie case for winding up of the company is made out, by an order direct the company to file its objections along with a statement of its affairs within thirty days of the order in the prescribed form. The Tribunal may allow a further period of thirty days in a situation of contingency or special circumstances:

Section 274(2) states that a company, which fails to file the statement of affairs as referred to in Sub-Section (1), shall forfeit the right to oppose the petition and such directors and officers of the company as found responsible for such non-compliance, shall be liable for punishment under Sub-Section (4). As per Section 274(4), if any director or officer of the company contravenes the provisions of this Section, the director or the officer of the company who is in default shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with fine which shall not be less than twenty-five thousand rupees but which may extend to five lakh rupees, or with both.

Section 274 (3) read with Rules 7 (2) of Rules made under Chapter XX, states that the directors and other officers of the company, in respect of which an order for winding up is passed by the Tribunal under clause (d) of Sub-Section (1) of Section 273 (i.e., make an order for the winding up of the company with or without costs) shall, within a period of thirty days of such order, submit, at the cost of the company, the books of account of the company completed and audited up to the date of the order, to such liquidator and in the manner specified by the Tribunal.

Section 274 (5) states that the complaint may be filed in this behalf before the Special Court by Registrar, provisional liquidator, Company Liquidator or any person authorised by the Tribunal.

'Relevant date' means:

- (1) in the case of a company being wound up by the Tribunal, the date of appointment or first appointment of a provisional liquidator, or if no such appointment was made, the date of the winding up order, unless, in either case, the company had commenced to be wound up voluntarily before that date, and
- (2) in any other case, the date of the passing of the resolution for the voluntary winding up of the company.

1.4.3 Fraudulent Preference (Section 328)

The expression 'fraudulent preference' may be described to mean the giving of an improper benefit to a few in preference to others, leading to inequality between them [Official Liquidator Vs. Victor] Hire Purchasing Co. (Pvt.) Ltd. [1982] 52 Compo Cas. 88].

The term 'fraudulent preference' has been borrowed from the law of insolvency. According to that law, any transfer of property or payment made by a person who is unable to pay his debts in favour of a creditor with a view to giving him a preference over other creditors is regarded as fraudulent preference.

Section 328 (1) states that when a company has given preference to a person who is one of the creditors of the company or a surety or guarantor for any of the debts or other liabilities of the company, and the company does anything or suffers anything done which has the effect of putting that person into a position which, in the event of the company going into liquidation, will be better than the position he would have been in if that thing had not been done prior to six months of making winding up application, the Tribunal, if satisfied that, such transaction is a fraudulent preference may order as it may think fit for restoring the position to what it would have been if the company had not given that preference.

Sub-Section (2) states that if the Tribunal is satisfied that there is a preference transfer of property, movable or immovable, or any delivery of goods, payment, execution made, taken or done by or against a company within six months before making winding up application, the Tribunal may order as it may think fit and may declare such transaction invalid and restore the position.

1.4.4 Liabilities and rights of certain persons fraudulently preferred (Section 331)

Section 331 (1) states that when a company is being wound up and anything made, taken or done after the commencement of this Act is invalid under Section 328 as a fraudulent preference of a person interested in property mortgaged or charged to secure the company's debt, then, without prejudice to any rights or liabilities arising, apart from this provision, the person preferred shall be subject to the same liabilities, and shall have the same rights, as if he had undertaken to be personally liable as a surety for the debt, to the extent of the mortgage or charge on the property or the value of his interest, whichever is less.

As per Sub-Section (2), the value of the interest of the person preferred under Sub-Section (1) shall be determined as at the date of the transaction constituting the fraudulent preference, as if the interest were free of all encumbrances other than those to which the mortgage or charge for the debt of the company was then subject.

Sub-Section (3) states that on an application made to the Tribunal with respect to any payment on the ground that the payment was a fraudulent preference of a surety or guarantor, the Tribunal shall have jurisdiction to determine any questions with respect to the payment arising between the person to whom the payment was made and the surety or guarantor and to grant relief in respect thereof, notwithstanding that it is not necessary so to do for the purposes of the winding up, and for that purpose, may give leave to bring in the surety or guarantor as a third party as in the case of a suit for the recovery of the sum paid.

Sub-Section(4)states that the provisions of Sub-Section (3) shall apply mutatis mutandis in relation to transactions other than payment of money.

1.4.5 Effect of floating charge (Section 332)

As per Section 332, when a company is being wound up, a floating charge on the undertaking or property of the company created within the twelve months immediately preceding the commencement of the winding up, shall, unless it is proved that the company immediately after the creation of the charge was solvent, be invalid, except for the amount of any cash paid to the company at the time of, or subsequent to the creation of, and in consideration for, the charge, together with interest on that amount at the rate of five per cent. per annum or such other rate as may be notified by the Central Government in this behalf.

Section 340 (1) states that if in the course of winding up of a company, it appears that any person who has taken part in the promotion or formation of the company, or any person, who is or has been a director, manager, Company Liquidator or officer of the company:

- (a) has misapplied, or retained, or become liable or accountable for, any money or property of the company, or

Case Law

1. In the matter of Ajay G Podar v. Official Liquidator of JS & WM & Ors. (2008) 85 CLA 398 (SC), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that section 543(2) of the Companies Act, 1956 [Section 340 under the Companies Act, 2013] deals with the limitation of applications/claims including misfeasance proceedings and prescribes five (5) years period of limitation from the date of the winding up order for filing an application under section 543 (1). However, section 458A of the Companies Act, 1956 [Section 358 under the Companies Act, 2013] provides for the concept of computation of the limitation period. Section 458A being a non obstante clause exclude the period starting from commencement of winding up proceedings till the date on which winding up order is passed and a period of one (1) year thereafter. In view of the above, misfeasance proceedings filed by the OL are well within limitation period.
2. In L.K. Prabhu v. S.M. Ameerul Millath (2002) 40 SCL 385 (Ker HC), it was held that application under Section 543 (for damages for misapplication or misfeasance) [Section 340 under the Companies Act, 2013] is maintainable against Official Liquidator also, as 'liquidator' includes 'Official Liquidator'. Moreover he is 'Officer' of the company as defined in Section 2(30), even if not specifically mentioned in the definition. However there should be prima facie case against him and there is substance in the allegations. If Official Liquidator has acted in good faith, he is entitled to protection under Section 635A [Section 456 under the Companies Act, 2013].
3. In Official Liquidator v. Ashok Kumar, (1976) 46 Comp. Cas. 575 (Pat), it was held that a director who has not been duly elected and has taken his qualification shares shall be liable if he has acted as such. In other words, where a director continued to act de facto without being validly elected, he shall be liable for misfeasance.
4. The extent of liability of the Legal Representative: In the case of death of the director, it was held by the Supreme Court that the proceedings commenced against the delinquent director of a liquidated company can be continued against his legal representatives and the amount declared to be due in such misfeasance proceeding can be realized from the estate of the deceased on the hands of his legal representatives. The Court further held that the legal representatives would not, however, be liable for any sum beyond the value of the estate of the deceased in their hands [Official Liquidator, Supreme Bank Ltd. V.P.A. Tendolkar (1973) 43 Comp. (Case 382)] and [Official Liquidator vs. Parthasarthy Sinha (1983) 53. Comp. Case (SC) (3c)].

Study Note - 1

THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013

PART – M : OFFENCE AND PENALTIES

This Study Note Includes:

- M : 1.1 Types of Penalties
- M : 1.2 Offences to be non-cognizable
- M : 1.3 Application of fines

The Companies Act, 2013 provides the provisions as to Offences and Penalties in Chapter XXVIII.

1.1.1 Offence

Offence is defined as an act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force. An offence is constituted as soon as it is found that the acts which constitute that offence have been committed by the accused. An act or omission is an offence only if it is made punishable by any law for the time being in force and not otherwise. Offences are of three kinds:

- (a) Bailable or non-bailable offences
- (b) Cognizable or non-cognizable offences and
- (c) Compoundable or non-compoundable offences.

There is an essential distinction between an offence and the prosecution for an offence. The former forms parts of the substantive law while the latter of procedural law.

The offences and penalties are of different types. The penalty depends upon the nature and gravity of offence. The penalty may be simple imprisonment or fine or both, it depends upon the offence committed by the party. The Companies Act, 2013 also contains the provisions with regard to the offences and penalties there upon. The Contravention of the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 is considered as offence.

(a) Bailable or Non-Bailable Offences

Bailable offence' means an offence (i) which is mentioned as bailable in the First Schedule of the Indian Penal Code or (ii) which is made bailable by any other law for the time being in force. 'Non-bailable offence' means any other offence. Bailable offences are considered less serious than non-bailable offences. In bailable offences, bail can be claimed as of right and is granted as a matter of course by the police officer or by the court. It does not, however, mean that in case of a non-bailable offence, bail can never be granted. It simply means that the accused cannot ask for bail as of right in such cases. The Police officer or the court has discretion to grant bail after considering the facts and circumstances of each case. Again, bailable and non-bailable offences should not be confused with bailable and non-bailable warrants. In appropriate cases, a non-bailable warrant may be issued by a court for bailable offences. The matter is entirely in the discretion of the court. Schedule I specifies which offences are bailable offences and which are non-bailable offences under the Indian Penal Code and under other Statutes.

(b) Cognizable offence and Non-Cognizable Offences

'Cognizable offence' is an offence and 'Cognizable case' is a case for which a police officer may arrest without warrant, while 'Non-cognizable offence' is an offence and 'Non-cognizable case' is a case for which a police officer has no authority to arrest without warrant. Schedule I specifies which offences are cognizable and which are non-cognizable under the Indian Penal Code and under other statutes. Non-cognizable cases are considered less grave than cognizable cases. Likewise, non-cognizable offences are considered less serious than cognizable offences. A police officer can investigate a cognizable case without an order of a magistrate, but he cannot investigate without such order if the case is non-cognizable one. If a case involves one or more cognizable offence it would be a cognizable case even if other offence or offences may be non-cognizable

(c) Compoundable and Non-Compoundable Offences

A composition is an arrangement or settlement of different between the injured party and the person against whom the complaint is made. Ordinarily, it is the State that has the right or power to punish offenders, although individuals might be directly and personally aggrieved by the commission of the offences. The Criminal Law regards the punishment imposed by the law at the instance of the State on the offender as the proper and sufficient satisfaction not only for the society as a whole, but also for individual or individuals personally aggrieved by the offence. But in case of certain offences the law permits aggrieved person himself to agree to receive satisfaction other than actual punishment in substitution of the punishment.

1.1.2 Types of Penalties

(a) There are five types of penalties that have been contemplated under the Companies Act, 2013. They are:

- (1) Fine only
- (2) Imprisonment or fine
- (3) Imprisonment or fine or with both
- (4) Imprisonment and fine and
- (5) Imprisonment only

Of the above, the offences referred to in (1) to (3) are compoundable and others are not compoundable.

(b) The persons who may be made liable for the offences and punished under the Act are:

- (1) the company
- (2) directors and officers of the company; and
- (3) any person committing an offence

1.1.3 Officer who is in Default

According to this section "officer who is in default", for the purpose of any provision in this Act which enacts that an officer of the company who is in default shall be liable to any penalty or punishment by way of imprisonment, fine or otherwise, means any of the following officers of a company, namely:

1.2.2 Offences triable by Special Courts (Section 436)

This Section provides a new provision as to offences triable by Special Courts, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal procedure, 1973.

Under this Section:

- (a) all offences under this Act shall be triable only by the Special Court established for the area in which the registered office of the company in relation to which the offence is committed or where there are more Special Courts than one for such area, by such one of them as may be specified in this behalf by the High Court concerned.

When trying an offence under this Act, a Special Court may also try an offence other than an offence under this Act with which the accused may, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 be charged at the same trial.

The Special Court may try in a summary way any offence if it is punishable with imprisonment up to 3 years.

1.2.3 Appeal and revision(Section 437)

Section 437 of the Act contains the provisions as to Appeal and revision. According to this Section:

The High Court may exercise, so far as may be applicable, all the powers conferred by Chapters XXIX and XXX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 on a High Court, as if a Special Court within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the High Court were a Court of Session trying cases within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the High Court.

1.2.4 Application of Code to proceedings before Special Court (Section 438)

Section 435 of the Act contains the provisions as to Establishment of Special Courts. According to this Section:

According to this Section, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall apply to the proceedings before a Special Court and for the purposes of the said provisions, the Special Court shall be deemed to be a Court of Session or the Court of Metropolitan Magistrate or Judicial Magistrate of First Class and the person conducting a prosecution before a Special Court shall be deemed to be a Public Prosecutor.

1.2.5 Offences to be non-cognizable (Section 439)

According to this Section, subject to the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, every offence under this Act except the offences referred to in Sub-Section (6) of Section 212 shall be deemed to be non-cognizable within the meaning of the said Code.

Further, no court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act which is alleged to have been committed by any company or any officer thereof, except on the complaint in writing of the Registrar, a shareholder of the company or of a person authorised by the Central Government in that behalf.

Section 439 deals with the offences that are considered of non-cognizable nature under the Companies Act, 2013.

The term 'Non-cognizable offence' as defined under Section 4 of the Cr.PC. is an offence for which a police officer may not arrest without warrant.

- (a) Offences under the Companies Act, 2013 deemed as non-cognizable: Overriding the provisions given under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, every offence under this Act except the offences referred to in Section 212 (6) of the Companies Act, 2013, which deals with the investigation into affairs of company by Serious Fraud Investigation Office (SIFO), shall be deemed to be non-cognizable within the meaning of the said Code.

Therefore, the offences as covered under Section 212 (6) shall now be deemed to be cognizable where police officer may arrest person without warrant and are non-bailable. The Companies Act, 2013 establishes the offence covered under the Section 212 (6) as a public wrong which has to be prevented and controlled. This non-bailable nature of the offences deters the offender and the others from committing further and similar offences.

- (b) Cognizance of offence: A court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act which is alleged to have been committed by any company or any officer thereof only on the written complaint of:

- (1) The Registrar.
- (2) A shareholder of the company, or
- (3) Of a person authorised by the Central Government in that behalf.

Provided that the court may take cognizance of offences relating to issue and transfer of securities and non-payment of dividend, on a complaint in writing, by a person authorised by the Securities and Exchange Board of India.

Provided that nothing in this Sub-Section shall apply to a prosecution by a company of any of its officers.

However, in case of government companies as per the Notification no. G.S.R. 463 (E) dated 5th June 2015, court shall take cognizance of any offences under this Act which is alleged to have been committed by any company or any officer thereof on the complaint in writing of a person authorized by the Central Government in that behalf.

- (c) Attendance of complainant: Where the complainant is the Registrar or a person authorised by the Central Government as given under Sub-Section (2), the presence of such officer before the Court trying the offences shall not be necessary unless the court requires his personal attendance at the trial.

- (d) Non-application of Sub-Section (2) on the action of the liquidator: The provisions of Sub-Section (2) shall not apply to any action taken by the liquidator of a company in respect of any offence alleged to have been committed in respect of any of the matters in Chapter XX or in any other provision of this Act relating to winding up of companies.

The liquidator of a company shall not be deemed to be an officer of the company within the meaning of Sub-Section (2).

1.2.6 Transitional provisions (Section 440)

Under this Section, any offence committed under this Act, which is triable by a Special Court shall, until a Special Court is established, be tried by a Court of Session or Metropolitan Magistrate or Judicial Magistrate of First Class exercising jurisdiction over the area.

1.2.7 Compounding of certain offences (Section 441)

This Section contains the provisions as to compounding of offences. In terms of this Section, subject to the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, any offence punishable under this Act not being an offence punishable with imprisonment only or imprisonment and fine, may, either before or after the institution of any prosecution, be compounded by:

- (a) the Tribunal, or
- (b) where the maximum amount of fine which may be imposed for such offence does not exceed five lakh rupees, by the Regional Director or any officer authorised by the Central Government, on payment or credit, by the company or, as the case may be, the officer, to the Central Government of such sum as that Tribunal or the Regional Director or any officer authorised by the Central Government, as the case may be, may specify.

1.2.8 Mediation and Conciliation Panel (Section 442)

Alternative dispute resolution in India is not new and it was in existence even under the previous Arbitration Act, 1940. The Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 has been enacted to accommodate the harmonisation mandates of UNCITRAL Model. To streamline the Indian legal system the traditional civil law known as Code of Civil Procedure (CPC), 1908 has also been amended and Section 89 has been introduced. Section 89 (1) of CPC provides an option for the settlement of disputes outside the court. It provides that where it appears to the court that there exist elements, which may be acceptable to the parties, the court may formulate the terms of a possible settlement and refer the same for arbitration, conciliation, mediation or judicial settlement. Due to extremely slow judicial process, there has been a big thrust on Alternate Dispute Resolution mechanisms in India.

'Alternative Dispute Resolution' (ADR) refers to any means of settling disputes outside the courtroom. Normally ADRs are Cost Effective, Fast, Flexible and Fair. ADR includes dispute resolution processes and techniques that act as a means for disagreeing parties to come to an agreement short of litigation. It is informal. There are various forms or ways of resolving disputes under ADR and generally classified into at least four types: (1) Negotiation (2) Mediation (3) Collaborative Law and (4) Arbitration. Despite historic resistance, ADR has gained widespread acceptance among both the general public and the legal profession in recent years.

1.2.9 Mediation and Conciliation

Section 442 of the Companies Act, 2013 provides for maintenance of Mediation and Conciliation Panel. It states that the Central government shall maintain a panel of experts for mediation between the parties. Such panel may to be called Mediation and Conciliation Panel. The parties during the pendency of any proceedings before the Central Government or the Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal under the Act may resort to mediation under these provisions.

After receiving application for referring the matter to Mediation and Conciliation Panel, the Central Government or Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal, as the case may be, shall appoint one or more experts from such Panel. The matter is required to be disposed off within a period of three months from the date of such reference. The Panel is required to forward its recommendations to the Central Government or Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal, as the case may be, within that period.

The aggrieved party may file its objections to the Central Government or Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal, as the case may be. The Central Government or Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal, may, suo motu, refer any matter pertaining to such proceedings to experts from the Panel.

Difference between Mediation and Conciliation

The meaning of these words as understood in India appears to be similar. 'Mediation' is a way of settling disputes by a third party who helps both sides to come to an agreement, which each considers acceptable. Mediation can be 'evaluative' or 'facilitative'. 'Conciliation', is a procedure like mediation but the third party, the conciliator, takes a more interventionist role in bringing the two parties together and in suggesting possible solutions to help achieve a settlement. The difference lies in the fact that the 'conciliator' can make proposals for settlement, 'formulate' or 'reformulate' the terms of a possible settlement while a 'mediator' would not do so but would merely facilitate a settlement between the parties.

From the very wording it appears that the 'Mediation and Conciliation Panel' as contemplated under Section 442 (as the name suggests) will adopt dual approach of 'Mediation' as well as 'Conciliation' in settling the disputes.

1.2.10 Power of Central Government to appoint Company Prosecutors (Section 443)

Under this Section:

- (a) The Central Government may appoint (generally, or for any case, or in any case, or for any specified class of cases in any local area) one or more persons, as Company Prosecutors for the conduct of prosecutions arising out of this Act, and
- (b) The persons so appointed as Company Prosecutors shall have all the powers and privileges conferred on Public Prosecutors appointed under Section 24 of the Cr. PC.

1.2.11 Appeal against acquittal (Section 444)

According to this Section:

The Central Government may, in any case arising under this Act, direct:

- (a) any Company Prosecutor, or
- (b) authorise any other person either by name or by virtue of his office, to present an appeal from an order of acquittal passed by any court, other than a High Court.

Appeal presented by such prosecutor or other person shall be deemed to have been validly presented to the appellate court.

1.2.12 Compensation for accusation without reasonable cause (Section 445)

According to this Section, the provisions of Section 250 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall apply 'mutatis mutandis' (with such changes as may be necessary) to compensation for accusation without reasonable cause before the Special Court or the Court of Session.

1.2.13 Application of fines (Section 446)

Under this Section, the court imposing any fine under this Act may direct that the whole or any part thereof shall be applied in or towards payment of the costs of the proceedings, or in or towards the payment of a reward to the person on whose information the proceedings were instituted.

1.2.14 Factor for determination of punishment

The Court or the Special Court, shall, while deciding the amount of fine or imprisonment under the Act, shall have due regards to the factors like size of the company, nature of business, injury to public interest, nature of default and repetition of default.

SEBI LAWS AND REGULATIONS

PART – A : THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE BOARD OF INDIA ACT, 1992

This Study Note Includes:

A : 2.1 The Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992

A : 2.1 THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE BOARD OF INDIA ACT, 1992

2.1.1 Introduction

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) was constituted as the regulator of capital markets by the Government of India on 12th April 1988 under a resolution of the Government of India. Initially SEBI was a non-statutory body without any statutory power.

During this period, the securities markets in India were governed three principal Acts:

- (a) The Capital Issues (Control) Act, 1947, which restricted issuer's access to the securities market and controlled the pricing of issues.
- (b) The Companies Act, 1956 (now the Companies Act, 2013), which sets out the code of conduct for the corporate sector in relation to issue, allotment and transfer of securities, and disclosures to be made in public issues, and
- (c) The Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, which provides for regulation of transactions in securities through control over stock exchanges.

The Capital Issues (Control) Act, 1947 had its origin during the war in 1943 when the objective was to channel resources to support the war effort. The Act was retained with some modifications as a means of controlling the raising of capital by companies and to ensure that national resources were channeled in to proper lines, i.e., for desirable purposes to serve goals and priorities of the government, and to protect the interests of investors. Under the Act, any firm wishing to issue securities had to obtain approval from the Central Government, which also determined the amount, type and price of the issue.

Major part of the liberalization process was the repeal of the Capital Issues (Control) Act, 1947 in May 1992. With this, Government's control over the issue of capital, pricing of the issues, fixing of the premia and rates of interest on debentures etc., ceased. The office which administered the Act was abolished to allow the market to allocate resources to competing uses.

However to ensure effective regulation of the market, SEBI Act, 1992 was enacted to empower SEBI with statutory powers for:

- (1) protecting the interests of investors in securities,

2.1.2 Securities Exchange Board of India (SEBI)

Securities and Exchange Board of India has functions similar to the SEC or Securities Exchange Commission in the USA. In other words, the SEBI regulates the working of the financial markets in India, vis-à-vis investor protection and laying down of ethical standards for the working of the financial markets in India. That is how SEBI is also called as the watchdog of the Indian Markets.

The Preamble of the Securities and Exchange Board of India describes the basic functions of the Securities and Exchange Board of India as:

".....to protect the interests of investors in securities and to promote the development of, and to regulate the securities market and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto."

In 1995, the SEBI was given additional statutory power by the Government of India through an amendment to the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992. SEBI has to be responsive to the needs of three groups, which constitute the market:

- (i) the issuers of securities.
- (ii) the investors, and
- (iii) the market intermediaries.

SEBI has three functions rolled into one body: quasi-legislative, quasi-judicial and quasi-executive. It drafts regulations in its legislative capacity, it conducts investigation and enforcement action in its executive function and it passes rulings and orders in its judicial capacity. Though this makes it very powerful, there is an appeal process to create accountability. There is a Securities Appellate Tribunal which is a three member tribunal. A second appeal lies directly to the Supreme Court.

Chapter II of the SEBI Act deals with the establishment of the Securities and Exchange Board of India. Section 3 says about the establishment and incorporation of Board. The Chairman shall also have powers of general superintendence and direction of the affairs of the Board and may also exercise all powers and do all acts and things which may be exercised or done by that Board. While choosing, the central government draw two members, i.e., Officers from Union Finance Ministry; One member from the Reserve Bank of India. Further, the remaining five members are also nominated by the Central Government out of them at least three shall be whole time members. The Chairman and the other member shall be persons of ability, integrity and standing who have the capacity in dealing with problems relating to securities market or have special knowledge or experience of law, finance, economics, accountancy, administration or in any other discipline which, in the opinion of the Central Government, shall be useful to the Board.

Section 5 says about term of office and conditions of service of Chairman and members of the Board. The term of office and other conditions of service of the Chairman and members shall be as prescribed by the Board. The Central Government shall have the right to terminate the services of the Chairman or a member appointed under Section 4 at any time before the expiry of the period prescribed, by giving him notice of not less than three months in writing or three months salary and allowances in lieu thereof, and the Chairman or a member, as the case may be, shall also have the right to relinquish his office at any time before the expiry of the period prescribed by giving to the Central Government notice of not less than three months in writing.

The removal of the office has been mentioned in Section 6. The Central Government shall remove a member from the office if he:

- (iv) in the opinion of the Central Government the member has abused his position as to tender his continuation detrimental to the public interest. It is also provided that no member shall be removed under this Section unless he has been given an opportunity of being heard.

Regarding meetings, Section 7 says that the Board shall meet at such places and shall observe such rules of procedure in regard to the transaction of business at its meetings, including quorum as may be provided by the regulations. If the Chairman is unable to attend any of the meetings of the Board, any other member chosen by the members present from amongst themselves at the meeting shall preside at the meeting. All questions which come up to any meeting of the Board shall be decided by the majority votes of the members present and voting and in the event of equality of votes, the Chairman or in his absence, the person presiding shall have a second or casting vote.

2.1.2.4 Prohibition of Manipulative and Deceptive Devices, Insider Trading and Substantial Acquisition of Securities or Control (Section 12A)

Insider trading can be defined as securities trading by insiders based on material non-public information in violation of a fiduciary or similar duty of trust and confidence to the company issuing the security to the company's shareholders or to the source of information. The main benefit of the insider trading goes to the insider. An insider can be the directors, officers, shareholders holding substantial number of shares, persons who are not employed by the corporation but receive confidential information from a corporation while providing services to the corporation like professional advisors, lawyers, investment bankers. In other words, the knowledge of unpublished price sensitive information in hands of persons connected to the companies which put them in an advantageous position over others who lack it, such information can be used to make gains by buying shares a cheaper rate anticipating that it might rise and it can be used to insulate themselves against losses by selling shares before the prices fall down, such kind of transaction entered into by persons having access to any unpublished information is called Insider Trading.

Recently, SEBI (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations, 2015 were notified vide notification dated 15th January, 2015. The regulations came into effect from May 15th, 2015.

Similarly, substantial acquisition of shares and take-overs has also been prohibited by SEBI (Substantial Acquisition of Shares and Takeovers) Regulations, 1997.

Section 12A of the Act provides that: No person shall directly or indirectly:

- (a) use or employ, in connection with the issue, purchase or sale of any securities listed or proposed to be listed on a recognised stock exchange, any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in contravention of the provisions of this Act or the rules or the regulations made there under.

PART – E : THE SECURITIES CONTRACTS (REGULATION) ACT, 1956

This Study Note Includes:

E : 2.1 THE SECURITIES CONTRACTS (REGULATION) ACT, 1956

2.1.1 Securities Laws in India

The earliest legislation remotely touching the stock market was introduced in 1865 by the Government of Bombay to deal with the situation arising out of the Share Mania of 1860-65. Subsequently, Atlay Stock Exchange Enquiry Committee was appointed in September, 1923 which stressed and emphasised the need for the stock exchange to frame and maintain systematic and settled rules and regulations in the interest of general investing public and the trade. Pursuant to these recommendations, the Government of Bombay offered charter to Bombay Stock Exchange (BSE) in July, 1925 and the Government assumed authority to control the rule making power of the exchange and granted BSE monopoly to organise trading in securities but the exchange turned down the offer. Subsequently, a special legislation namely, Bombay Securities Contracts Act, 1925 for controlling stock exchange came into force w.e.f. January 1, 1926.

Today, the legislative framework dealing with securities markets comprises of Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, Depositories Act, 1996 and various regulations and guidelines issued by Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) under the SEBI Act, 1992 including listing agreement of the Stock Exchanges. In the year 2002 the Government amended SEBI Act, 1992 empowering SEBI to inspect listed companies in the case of insider trading or fraudulent and unfair trade practices; to order suspension of trading of security, restrain person from accessing securities market, impound proceeds of securities, attach property etc.; to prohibit any company from issuing prospectus or offer document or advertisement; and to issue, cease and desist orders. The amendment Act also enhanced the penalty substantially to rupees one lakh per day up to ceiling of rupees one crore and heavy penalty up to three times of profit or ₹ 25 crores in case of insider trading or fraudulent and unfair practices. Amendment Act has made the Securities Appellate Tribunal a three member Tribunal presided over by sitting/retired Supreme Court Judge/Chief Justice of High Court and provides for appeal against the order of SAT only to Supreme Court on question of law.

The amendments to the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 (SCRA), proposed under the Act include defining the corporatisation and demutualisation; limiting the organisational form of a stock exchange to a corporate entity; specifying the procedure for corporatisation and demutualisation (including approval of scheme for corporatisation and demutualisation by the Securities and Exchange Board of India); specifying the time limit within which the shares shall be disinvested by stock brokers under the scheme of corporatisation and demutualisation; restricting the voting rights of brokers as shareholders, and brokers' participation on governing boards of stock exchanges so as to plug the loopholes inherent in governance of stock exchanges whose organisational form is mutual.

The Act also proposes to make certain provisions in the SCRA, similar to those contained in the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Amendment) Act, 2002, such as, conferring powers upon the Securities and Exchange Board of India to issue directions to stock exchanges and the companies whose securities are listed or proposed to be listed, providing appeal from the orders of the Securities Appellate Tribunal to the Supreme Court, enhancing the penalties specified under the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, and adjudication by an adjudicating authority to impose monetary penalties, making provision for compounding of offences and crediting of amount of penalties to the Consolidated Fund of India, etc.

Securities Laws (Amendment) Act, 2014

Securities Laws (Amendment) Act, 2014 is provided the securities market regulator Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) with new powers to effectively pursue fraudulent investment schemes, especially ponzi schemes.

2.1.2 The Securities Contract (Regulation) Act, 1956

The Act defines various terms in relation to securities and provides the detailed procedure for the stock exchanges to get recognition from Government / SEBI, procedure for listing of securities of companies and operation of the brokers in relation to purchase and sale of securities on behalf of investors.

However, the provisions of this Act shall not apply to:

If the Central Government is satisfied that in the interest of trade and commerce or the economic development of the country, it is necessary or expedient so to do, it may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify any class of contracts as contracts to which this Act or any provision contained therein shall not apply, and also the conditions, limitations or restrictions, if any, subject to which it shall not so apply.

- (2) transfer of the securities by the depository from the account of a beneficial owner to the account

2.1.2.3 Meaning and Definition of Stock Exchange

The stock exchange is really an essential pillar of the private sector corporate economy. It discharges three essential functions:

- (a) Firstly, the stock exchange provides a market place for purchase and sale of securities viz. shares, bonds, debentures etc. It, therefore, ensures the free transferability of securities which is the essential basis for the joint stock enterprise system.
- (b) Secondly, the stock exchange provides the linkage between the savings in the household sector and the investment in the corporate economy. It mobilizes savings, channelises them as securities into these enterprises which are favoured by the investors on the basis of such criteria as future growth prospects, good returns and appreciation of capital.
- (c) Thirdly, by providing a market quotation of the prices of securities a sort of collective judgment simultaneously reached by many buyers and sellers in the market the stock exchange serves the role of a barometer, not only of the state of health of individual companies, but also of the nation's economy as a whole.

In Union of India vs. Allied International Products Ltd. [(1971) 41 Comp Cas 127 SC]; (1970) 3 SCC 5941; the Supreme Court of India has enunciated the role of the Stock Exchanges in these words:

"A Stock Exchange fulfills a vital function in the economic development of a nation; its main function is to 'liquify' capital by enabling a person who has invested money in, say a factory or railway, to convert it into cash by disposing off his shares in the enterprise to someone else. Investment in Joint stock companies is attractive to the public, because the value of the shares is announced day after day in the stock exchanges, and shares quoted on the exchanges are capable of almost immediate conversion into money. In modern days a company stands little chance of inducing the public to subscribe to its capital, unless its shares are quoted in an approved stock exchange. All public companies are anxious to obtain permission from reputed exchanges for securing quotations of their shares and the management of a company is anxious to inform the investing public that the shares of the company will be quoted on the stock exchange".

(1) 'Stock Exchange' means [Section 2(j)]:

- a) Any Body of individuals, whether incorporated or not, constituted before corporatization and demutualization under Sections 4A and 4B, or
- b) a body corporate incorporated under the Companies Act, 2013 whether under a scheme of corporatization or otherwise, for the purpose of assisting, regulating or controlling the business of buying, selling or dealing in securities.

(2) 'Member' [Section 2 (c)] means a member of recognised stock exchange.

(3) 'Government Security' [Section 2 (b)] means a security created and issued whether before or after the commencement of this Act, by the Central Government or a State Government for the purpose of raising a public loan and having one of the forms specified in Section 2(2) of the Public Debt Act, 1944.

Section 2A provides that Words and expressions used herein and not defined in this Act but defined in the Companies Act, 1956 (now Companies Act, 2013) or the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 or the Depositories Act, 1996 shall have the same meanings respectively assigned to them in those Acts.]

2.1.2.4 Recognised Stock Exchanges in India

Recognised Stock Exchange means a stock exchange which is for the time being recognised by the Central Government. No person shall, except with the permission of the Central Government, organize or assist in organizing or be a member of any stock exchange (other than a recognised stock exchange) for the purpose of assisting in, entering into or performing any contracts in securities.

- (2) that the stock exchange is willing to comply with any other conditions (including conditions as to the number of members) which the Central Government, after consultation with the governing body of the stock exchange and having regard to the area served by the stock exchange and its standing and nature of the securities dealt with by it, may impose for the purpose of carrying out the objects of this Act, and
- (3) that it would be in the interest of the trade and also in the public interest to grant recognition to the stock exchange.
- (4) It may grant recognition to the stock exchange subject to the conditions imposed upon it as aforesaid and in such form as may be prescribed. During July, 2016 the Government has increased the limit for foreign investment in Stock Exchanges from 5% to 15%; in pursuance of implementation of the Budget Announcement while presenting the Union Budget 2016-17 regarding reforms in FDI Policy with respect to enhancement of investment limit for foreign entities in Indian stock exchanges.

- b) require prior permission from the respective stock exchanges if so stipulated by the stock exchanges with prior approval of Securities and Exchange Board of India (Section 13).

A stock exchange may establish additional trading floor with the prior approval of the Securities and Exchange Board of India in accordance with the terms and conditions stipulated by the said Board (Section 13A).

- (2) Any contract entered into in any State or area specified in the notification under Section 13 which is in contravention of any of the bye-laws specified in that behalf under clause (a) of Sub-Section(3) of Section 9 shall be void:
  - a) as respects the rights of any member of the recognised stock exchange who has entered into such contract in contravention of any such bye-laws, and also
  - b) as respects the rights of any other person who has knowingly participated in the transaction entailing such contravention.

Nothing in Sub-Section (1) shall be construed to affect the right of any person other than a member of the recognised stock exchange to enforce any such contract or to recover any sum under or in respect of such contract if such person had no knowledge that the transaction was in contravention of any of the bye-laws specified in clause (a) of Sub-Section (3) of Section 9 (Section 14)

No member of a recognised stock exchange shall in respect of any securities enter into any contract as a principal with any person other than a member of a recognised stock exchange, unless he has secured the consent or authority of such person and discloses in the note, memorandum or agreement of sale or purchase that he is acting as a principal.

Provided that where the member has secured the consent or authority of such person otherwise than in writing, he shall secure written confirmation by such person or such consent or authority within 3 days from the date of contract.

Provided further that no such written consent or authority of such person shall be necessary for closing out any outstanding contract entered into by such person in accordance with the bye-laws, if the member discloses in the note, memorandum or agreement of sale or purchase in respect of such closing out that he is acting as a principal (Section 15).

(b) Options in securities

An option contract conveys the right to buy or sell a specific security of commodity at specified price within a specified period of time. The right to buy is referred to as a call option whereas the right to sell is known as a put option. An option contract comprises of its type a put or call, underlying security or commodity expiry date, strike price at which it may be exercised. Options are generally described by the nature of underlying commodity. An option on common stock is said to be stock option; an option on a bond, a bond option; an option on a foreign currency, a currency option, an option on future contract, a future option; and so on. The specified price at which the underlying commodity may be bought (in the case of call) or sold (in the case of put) is called exercise price or the striking price of the option. To buy or sell the underlying commodity pursuant to option contract is to exercise the option. Most of the option may be exercised at any time, up to and including the expiration date.

It is of two different kinds such as calls and puts. Those who take calls option, they are not obligated to purchase given quantity of the underlying variable, at a mentioned price on or prior to a scheduled future date. On the other hand, buyers in case of puts option may not necessarily sell a mentioned quantity of the underlying variable at a mentioned price on or prior to a given date.

The buyer of an option pays the option writer (seller) an amount of money called the option premium or option price. In return, the buyer receives the privilege, but not the obligation, of buying (in the case of call) or selling (in the case of a put) the underlying commodity for the exercise price. In the case of a call option, if the price of the commodity exceeds the exercise price, the call option is said to be in the money and the call option buyer could exercise the option, thereby earning the difference between the two prices-the exercise value or intrinsic value. On the other hand, if the price of the commodity is below the exercise price, the call option is out-of the money and will not be exercised, its intrinsic value is zero. In the case of a put option, if the price of the commodity is below the exercise price, the put option is said to be in-the-money. The put option buyer could exercise the option to earn the difference between the exercise price and the price of the commodity. A put option is said to be out of the money when the commodity price exceed the exercise price.

An Option provides investors with the opportunity to hedge investments in the underlying shares and share portfolios and can thus reduce the overall risk related to the investments significantly.

2.1.2.6 Listing of Securities

Listing of securities with stock exchange is a matter of great importance for companies and investors, because this provides the liquidity to the securities in the market.

The prices at which the securities are traded in the stock exchange are published in the News papers. Some TV channels telecast actual price movements Compared to listed securities the trading of unlisted securities is difficult. The price trends in respect of unlisted securities are seldom known to the investors and the contract between the seller and buyer takes places mostly on one to one basis.

Thus, in order to avail of the benefit of listing the company seeking such listing should be applied as per conditions of listing agreement entered into with stock exchange. It is open to companies to get their securities listed in their Recognised Stock Exchanges and one or more of the other stock exchanges in the country under this Act. Company seeking listing with stock exchanges in other countries shall have to follow the rules and regulations of those exchanges.

Only public companies are allowed to list their securities in the stock exchange. However, debt securities of Private companies could be listed in stock exchanges.

Section 17A provides for public issue and listing of securities referred to in clause (h) of Section 2.

No securities of the nature referred to in clause (h) of Section 2 shall be offered to the public or listed on any recognised stock exchange unless the issuer fulfils such eligibility criteria and complies with such other requirements as may be specified by regulations made by the Securities and Exchange Board of India.

Every issuer referred to in clause (h) of Section 2 intending to offer the certificates or instruments referred therein to the public shall make an application, before issuing the offer document to the public, to one or more recognised stock exchanges for permission for such certificates or instruments to be listed on the stock exchange or each such stock exchange.

Where the permission applied for under Sub-Section (2) for listing has not been granted or refused by the recognised stock exchanges or any of them, the issuer shall forthwith repay all moneys, if any, received from applicants in pursuance of the offer document, and if any such money is not repaid within eight days after the issuer becomes liable to repay it, the issuer and every director or trustee thereof, as the case may be, who is in default shall, on and from the expiry of the eighth day, be jointly and severally liable to repay that money with interest at the rate of fifteen percent per annum.

(a) Types of Listing

Listing of securities falls under 5 groups:

- (1) Initial listing: If the shares or securities are to be listed for the first time by a company on a stock exchange is called initial listing.
- (2) Listing for Public Issue: When a company whose shares are listed on a stock exchange comes out with a public issue of securities, it has to list such issue with the stock exchange.
- (3) Listing for Rights Issue: When companies whose securities are listed on the stock exchange issue further securities to existing share holders on rights basis, it has to list such rights issues on the concerned stock exchange.

- (4) Listing of Bonus Shares: Companies issuing shares as a result of capitalization of profits through bonus issue shall list such issues also on the concerned stock exchange.
- (5) Listing for merger or amalgamation: When new shares are issued by an amalgamated company to the share holders of the amalgamating company, such shares are also required to be listed on the concerned stock exchange.

(b) Benefits of Listing

The following benefits are available when securities are listed by a company in the stock exchange:

- (a) public image of the company is enhanced.
- (b) the liquidity of the security is ensured making it easy to buy and sell the securities in the stock exchange.
- (c) tax concessions are made available both to the investors and the companies.
- (d) listing procedure compels company management to disclose important information to the investors enabling them to make crucial decisions with regard to holding or disposing of such securities.
- (e) Shares of listed companies command better credibility as they could be offered as security for loans from Banks and FIs.

(c) Multiple Listing

A company with a paid up capital of over ` 5 crores should list its securities or have its securities permitted for trading, on at least one stock exchange having nationwide Trading Terminals. Multiple listing provides arbitrage opportunities to the investors, whereby they can make profit based on the difference in the prices prevailing in the said exchanges.

(d) Legal Provisions on listing

As per Section 40 of the Companies Act, 2013, every company intending to offer shares or debentures to the public for subscription by the issue of a prospectus is required to make an application to one or more recognised stock exchanges before such issue for permission for the securities intending to be so offered to be dealt with in the stock exchange(s).

As per Section 40 of the Companies Act, 2013, prospectus should state the names of the stock exchanges where application for listing has been made and any allotment of securities made on the basis of such prospectus should be void if permission of listing is not granted by the stock exchange(s) before the expiry of 10 weeks from the closure of the issue.

As per Section 4 of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, every recognised stock exchange has the powers to make bye-laws for the listing of securities on the stock exchange, inclusion of any security for the purpose of dealings and suspension or withdrawal of securities and the prohibition of trading in any specified security, subject to SEBI approval.

Every company while submitting its application for listing with the stock exchange(s) should produce a number of documents as enclosures to satisfy the requirements of the concerned stock exchange. It should also give a number of under takings as a condition precedent before listing as a sought by the concerned stock exchange. Finally when the stock exchange(s) agree(s) to list the securities, the company shall execute a listing agreement with the stock exchange(s). The listing agreements of different stock exchanges have clauses ranging from 50 to 60.

When a company signs a listing agreement with a stock exchange, it means it has entered a legally binding contract with that exchange and it has to ensure compliance of each and every term and condition in the listing agreement. For failure to ensure such compliance the stock exchange can take an action against the company after giving an opportunity of being heard.

Listing of securities on Indian Stock Exchanges, thus, is essentially governed by the provisions in the Companies Act, 2013, the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, the Securities Contracts (Regulations) Rules, 1957, Rules, Bye-laws, regulations of concerned stock exchange, the listing agreement entered into by the issuer and stock exchange and circulars / guidelines issued by the Central Government and SEBI.

F : 2.1 SEBI (PROHIBITION OF INSIDER TRADING) REGULATIONS, 2015

2.1 SEBI (PROHIBITION OF INSIDER TRADING) REGULATIONS, 2015

These regulations have been issued in repeal of the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations, 2015. These are effective from 15th January, 2015. These regulations have enjoined a role upon the “Compliance Officer” of the company to ensure compliance with the requirements. Some of the important definitions are :

2.1.1 Regulation 2 (d) : “Connected Person”

“Connected Person” means (i) any person who is or has during the six months prior to the concerned act been associated with a company, directly or indirectly, in any capacity including by reason of frequent communication with its officers or by being in any contractual, fiduciary or employment relationship or by being a director, officer or an employee of the company or holds any position including a professional or business relationship between himself and the company whether temporary or permanent, that allows such person, directly or indirectly, access to unpublished price sensitive information or is reasonably expected to allow such access.

Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, the persons falling within the following categories shall be deemed to be connected persons unless the contrary is established,;

- a. an immediate relative of connected persons specified in clause (i); or
- b. a holding company or associate company or subsidiary company; or
- c. an intermediary as specified in section 12 of the Act or an employee or director thereof; or
- d. an investment company, trustee company, asset management company or an employee or director thereof; or

2.1.2 Regulation 2(g): “Insider”

“Insider” means any person who is:

- (i) A connected person; or
- (ii) in possession of or having access to unpublished price sensitive information.

2.1.3 Regulation 2(n): "Unpublished price sensitive information"

"unpublished price sensitive information" means any information, relating to a company or its securities, directly or indirectly, that is not generally available which upon becoming generally available, is likely to materially affect the price of the securities and shall, ordinarily including but not restricted to, information relating to the following:

- (i) financial results;
- (ii) dividends;
- (iii) change in capital structure;
- (iv) mergers, de-mergers, acquisitions, delistings, disposals and expansion of business and such other transactions;
- (v) changes in key managerial personnel; and
- (vi) material events in accordance with the listing agreement.

"Generally available information" means information i.e., accessible to the public on a non-discriminatory basis.

It must be understood that the definition of "connected person" as above brings into its ambit the relatives as well as a host of other persons and the persons in the know of things inside the company are required to be quite careful about divulging of information which may turn price sensitive if it gets to a market intermediary. While the regulation 3(1) is specific that no insider shall communicate, provide or allow access to any unpublished price sensitive information relating to a company or securities listed or proposed to be listed, to any person including other insiders except where such communication is in furtherance of legitimate purposes, performance of duties or discharge of legal obligations, regulation 3(2) states that no person shall procure or cause the communication by any insider of unpublished price sensitive information. An explanatory note under sub-regulation (2) states that inducement and procurement of unpublished price sensitive information not in furtherance of one's legitimate duties and discharge of obligations would be illegal under this provision. The Board of Directors of the company are required to get executed agreements to ensure confidentiality and non-disclosure obligations on the part of functionaries who handle price sensitive information and when in possession of such information. Regulation 4 states that when in possession of Unpublished price sensitive information, no insider shall trade in securities that are listed or proposed to be listed on a stock exchange subject to certain exceptions where the innocence may be proved by the insider. In the case of connected persons, the onus of establishing that they were not in possession of unpublished price sensitive information shall be upon them and the Boards of Companies are expected to specify standards as may be deemed necessary.

"Compliance Officer" referred above, means any senior officer, designated so and reporting to Board of Director, who is financially literate and capable of appreciating the legal provisions and compliance thereof. Normally the Company Secretary of the Company is designated as Compliance Officer.

An insider is entitled to formulate a trading plan and present it to the compliance officer for approval and public disclosure pursuant to which trades may be carried out on his behalf in accordance with such plan. The same has to be in compliance with sub-regulation (2) of Regulation 5. The trading plan once approved by the compliance officer shall be irrevocable and the insider shall mandatorily have to implement the plan. Upon approval of the trading plan, the compliance officer shall notify the plan to the stock exchanges on which the securities are listed. Initial disclosures have been prescribed at the time of notification of the regulations and further continual disclosures have also been prescribed within 2 trading days if the value of the securities traded whether in one transaction or a series of transactions over a calendar quarter aggregating to a value in excess of ₹ 10 lakhs or such other value as may be specified. This requirement is applicable to every promoter, key managerial personnel and director of every company whose securities are listed on any recognized stock exchange and as and when a new key managerial personnel or director takes over. The companies are also required to disclose the same within 2 trading days of receipt of disclosure.

The Board of Directors of a listed company are required to formulate and publish a code of fair disclosure containing the practices and procedures in the company's official website. The Board of Directors of a market intermediary too shall formulate a code of conduct for its employees to regulate, monitor and report trading towards achieving compliance with the regulations. The market intermediaries too shall have a compliance despite their being not listed companies.

THE COMPETITION ACT, 2002

This Study Note Includes:

- 3.1 Competition - Meaning, objectives, extent and applicability
- 3.2 Competition Commission of India
- 3.3 Areas affecting competition

3.1 COMPETITION - MEANING, OBJECTIVES, EXTENT AND APPLICABILITY

3.1.1 Introduction

In India the first competition law was enacted in 1969 i.e. Monopolies and Restrictive Trade Practices Act, 1969 ['MRTP Act, 1969']. The enactment of MRTP Act, 1969 was based on the socio – economic philosophy enshrined in the Directive Principles of State Policy contained in the Constitution of India. The MRTP Act, 1969 underwent amendments in the 1974, 1980, 1982, 1984, 1986, 1988 and 1991.

In the wake of liberalization and privatization that was triggered in India in early nineties, a realization gathered momentum that the existing Monopolistic and Restrictive Trade Practices Act, 1969 ("MRTP Act") was not equipped adequately enough to tackle the competition aspect of the Indian economy. With starting of the globalization process, Indian enterprises started facing the heat of competition from domestic players as well as from global giants, which called for level playing field and investor-friendly environment. Hence, need arose with regard to competition laws to shift the focus from curbing monopolies to encouraging companies to invest and grow, thereby promoting competition while preventing any abuse of market power.

In line with the international trend and to cope up with the changing realities India, consequently, enacted the Competition Act, 2002. The Competition Act, 2002 was amended by the Competition (Amendment) Act, 2007 and again by the Competition (Amendment) Act, 2009.

3.1.2 What Constitutes Competition Law and Policy?

Competition law and policy is defined as those Government measures that affect the behaviour of enterprises and structure of the industry with a view to promote efficiency and maximize welfare.

The two elements of such Government measures are:

Competition Policy: Set of policies, such as liberalized trade policy, relaxed FDI policy, de-regulation, etc., that enhances competition in the markets.

Competition Law: To prevent anti-competitive practices with minimal intervention.

3.1.3 Competition - Meaning

A broad definition of Competition is a situation in a market in which firms or sellers independently strike for the buyers' patronage in order to achieve a particular business objective, for example profit, sales or market share (World Bank, 1999). A pre-requisite for a good competition is trade, trade is the unrestricted liberty of every man to buy, sell and barter, when, where and how, of whom and to whom he pleases. For a free market to be in existence the handicap is that for a given distribution of income of those who can pay the highest price will most be able to purchase the goods regardless their relative needs. However, the real culprit is income distribution system and not the competitive system. In an unregulated free market, in certain circumstances it could be of greater benefit to the owner to withhold goods from market in order to extract a higher price. Despite the efforts to regulate prices which have been unsuccessful, the caution in a free market as compared to the problems in an unregulated market can be overcome by posturing competition by which the ultimate raison d'être of competition, namely the, interest of the consumer can be protected.

3.1.4 Need for Competition

Competition is now almost universally acknowledged as the best means of ensuring that consumers have access to the broadest range of services at the most competitive prices. Producers will have maximum incentive to innovate, reduce their costs and meet consumer demand. Competition thus promotes allocative and productive efficiency. But all this requires healthy market conditions and governments across the globe are increasingly trying to remove market imperfections through appropriate regulations to promote competition.

3.1.5 Unfair Competition

Unfair competition means adoption of practices such as collusive price fixing, deliberate reduction in output in order to increase prices, creation of barriers to entry, allocation of markets, tie-in sales, predatory pricing, discriminatory pricing, etc. In fact, anything which not pro consumer or free trade is included in some way or other as unfair under the Act.

3.1.6 Objectives of the Competition Act, 2002

Keeping in view of the economic development of the country, the Competition Act, 2002 was laid down to provide for an establishment of a Commission seeks to achieve the following objectives:

- (a) to prevent practices having adverse effect on competition.
- (b) to promote and sustain competition in markets.
- (c) to protect the interests of consumers.
- (d) to ensure freedom of trade carried on by other participants in markets in India and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

The objectives of the Act are sought to be achieved through the instrumentality of the Competition Commission of India (CCI) which has been established by the Central Government with effect from 14th October, 2003.

3.1.7 Extent and applicability of the Act

The Competition Act, 2002 extends to whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir. The Act do not feature under 37 Central Acts which have been made applicable to Jammu & Kashmir. It is a tool to implement and enforce competition policy and to prevent and punish anti-competitive business practices by firms and unnecessary Government interference in the market. It may be relevant to point out an order of Competition Commission in the case of Belaire Owners Association vs. DLF Limited 109SCL 655 (CCI) (case nos. 18 and 19 of 2010) where a penalty of 7% of average of turnover for last three preceding years was levied in exercise of the powers under section 27(b). The penalty amount worked out to ` 630 crores and the appeal of the Company before the Competition Appellate Tribunal was partially decided in favour of the company that the Competition Commission could not direct modification of agreements entered into before the commencement of the section 4 but the CAT held that the company abused its dominant position being in Gurgaon which is the relevant market and directed the deposit of the penalty. As of now, the matter is before the Hon'ble Supreme Court for final hearing and the company has deposited the penalty amount with the Supreme Court. ## 3.3 AREAS AFFECTING COMPETITION

(a) The focus of the competition law is towards the following areas affecting competition namely:

- (1) Prohibition of certain agreements, which are considered to be anti-competitive in nature. Such agreements [namely tie in arrangements, exclusive dealings (supply and distribution), refusal to deal and resale price maintenance] shall be presumed as anti-competitive if they cause or are likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition within India.
- (2) Prohibition of Abuse of dominant position by imposing unfair or discriminatory conditions or limiting and restricting production of goods or services or indulging in practices resulting in denial of market access or through in any other mode are prohibited.
- (3) Regulation of combinations which cause or are likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition within the relevant market in India is also considered to be void.

(b) The Competition Act, 2002 (as amended), [the Act], follows the philosophy of modern competition laws and aims at fostering competition and protecting Indian markets against anti-competitive practices. The Act prohibits anti-competitive agreements, abuse of dominant position and regulates combinations (mergers and acquisitions) with a view to ensure that there is no adverse effect on competition in India. The provisions of the Act relating to regulation of combinations have been enforced with effect from 1st June, 2011.

The important concepts incorporated in the Competition Act, 2002 have been defined under Section 2 of the Act. These are discussed below:

(1) Acquisition

Under Section 2(a) the term acquisition has been specifically defined. It means directly or indirectly, acquiring or agreeing to acquire:

- a) shares, voting rights or assets of any enterprise.
- b) control over management or control over assets of any enterprise.

The terms 'acquiring' or 'acquisition' are relevant for Regulation of Combinations.

(2) Agreement

Under Section 2(b) the term 'agreement' includes arrangement or understanding or action in concert.

- a) whether or not, such arrangement, understanding or concert is in formal or in writing. or
- b) whether or not such arrangement, understanding or concert is intended to be enforceable by legal proceedings.

It implies that an arrangement need not necessarily be in writing. The term is relevant in the context of Section 3, which envisages that anti-competitive agreements shall be void and thereby prohibited by the law.

(3) Cartel

According to Section 2(c) Cartel includes an association of producers, sellers or distributors, traders or service providers who, by agreement amongst themselves, limit control or attempt to control the production, distribution, sale or price of or, trade in goods or provision of services.

The nature of a cartel is to raise price above competitive levels, resulting in injury to consumers and to the economy. For the consumers, cartelisation results in higher prices, poor quality and less or no choice for goods or/and services. An international cartel is said to exist, when not all of the enterprises in a cartel are based in the same country or when the cartel affects markets of more than one country. An import cartel comprises enterprises (including an association of enterprises) that get together for the purpose of imports into the country.

3.3.1 Prohibition of certain agreements

- (a) Chapter II of the Competition Act, 2002 deals with Prohibition of certain Agreements along with Abuse of Dominant Position and Regulation of Combinations.

An anti-competitive agreement is an agreement having appreciable adverse effect on competition. Anti-competitive agreements include, but are not limited to:

- (1) agreement to limit production and/or supply.
- (2) agreement to allocate markets.
- (3) agreement to fix price.
- (4) bid rigging or collusive bidding.
- (5) conditional purchase/sale (tie-in arrangement).
- (6) exclusive supply/distribution arrangement.
- (7) resale price maintenance. and
- (8) refusal to deal.

- (b) Section 3(1) of the Competition Act provides that no enterprise or association of enterprises or person or association of persons shall enter into any agreement in respect of production, supply, distribution, storage, acquisition or control of goods or provision of services, which causes or is likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition. Section 3(2) further declares that any anti-competitive agreement within the meaning of sub-Section 3(1) shall be void. Under the law, the whole agreement is construed as void if it contains anti-competitive clauses having appreciable adverse effect on competition. Section 3(3) provides that following kinds of agreements entered into between enterprises or association of enterprises or persons or associations of persons or person or enterprise or practice carried on, or decision taken by any association of enterprises or association of persons, including cartels, engaged in identical or similar goods or services which:

- (1) directly or indirectly determines purchase or sale prices.
- (2) limits or controls production, supply, markets, technical development, investment or provision of services.
- (3) shares the market or source of production or provision of services by way of allocation of geographical area of market, or type of goods or services, or number of customers in the market or any other similar way, and
- (4) directly or indirectly results in bid rigging or collusive bidding, shall be presumed to have an appreciable adverse effect on the competition and onus to prove otherwise lies on the defendant. The explanation appended to the Section 3 defines the term 'bid rigging' as any agreement between enterprises or persons which has the effect of eliminating or reducing competition for bids or adversely affecting or manipulating the process for bidding. Efficiency enhancing joint ventures entered into by parties engaged in identical or similar goods or services, shall not be presumed to have appreciable adverse effect on competition but judged by rule of reason. The term 'cartel' used in the Section is the most severe form of entering into 'anti competitive agreements' and has been defined in Section 2(c). Bid rigging takes place when bidders collude and keep the bid amount at a pre-determined level. Such pre-determination is by way of intentional manipulation by the members of the bidding group. Bidders could be actual or potential ones, but they collude and act in concert.

3.3.2 Prohibition of Abuse of dominant position

- (a) Dominance refers to a position of strength which enables an enterprise to operate independently of competitive forces or to affect its competitors or consumers or the market in its favour. Abuse of dominant position impedes fair competition between firms, exploits consumers and makes it difficult for the other players to compete with the dominant undertaking on merit. Abuse of dominant position includes:
  - (1) imposing unfair conditions or price,
  - (2) predatory pricing,
  - (3) limiting production/market or technical development ,
  - (4) creating barriers to entry,
  - (5) applying dissimilar conditions to similar transactions,
  - (6) denying market access, and
  - (7) using dominant position in one market to gain advantages in another market.
- (b) Section 4 of the Competition Act, 2002 expressly prohibits any enterprise or group from abusing its dominant position, meaning thereby a position of strength, enjoyed by an enterprise or group, in the relevant market, in India, which enables it to:
  - (1) operate independently of competitive forces prevailing in the relevant market. or
  - (2) affect its competitors or consumers or the relevant market in its favour.

In line with the latest global trend, the dominance shall not be determined with reference to assets, turnover or market share. As per Section 2(r) 'relevant market' means the market, which may be determined by the Commission with reference to the 'relevant product market' or 'relevant geographic market' or with reference to both the markets. Thus, for determining dominance, these are relevant concepts. The term 'enterprise' means a person or a department of the Government, who or which is, or has been, engaged in any activity, relating to the production, storage, supply, distribution, acquisition or control of articles or goods, or the provision of services, of any kind, or in investment, or in the business of acquiring, holding, underwriting or dealing with shares, debentures or other securities of any other body corporate, either directly or through one or more of its units or divisions or subsidiaries, whether such unit or division or subsidiary is located at the same place where the enterprise is located or at a different place or at different places, but does not include any activity of the Government relating to the sovereign functions of the Government including all activities carried on by the departments of the Central Government dealing with atomic energy, currency, defence and space.

- (c) For the purposes of this clause, activity includes profession or occupation. article includes a new article and service includes a new service. unit or division, in relation to an enterprise, includes:
- (1) a plant or factory established for the production, storage, supply, distribution, acquisition or control of any article or goods.
  - (2) any branch or office established for the provision of any service. Section 4(2) states that there shall be abuse of dominant position, if an enterprise or group directly or indirectly imposes unfair or discriminatory.
    - a) condition in purchase or sale of goods or services, or
    - b) price in purchase or sale (including predatory price) of goods or service.

Explanation appended to Section 4 (2) clarifies that the unfair or discriminatory condition in purchase or sale of goods or services shall not include any discriminatory condition or price which may be adopted to meet the competition. Section 4(2)(b) includes in abuse of dominant position an enterprise or group limiting or restricting:

- 1) production of goods or provision of services or market therefore, or
  - 2) technical or scientific development relating to goods or services to the prejudice of consumers.
- (d) Similarly Section 4 (2) (c), (d) and (e) specify three other forms of abuses namely, if any person indulges in practice or practices resulting in denial of market access in any manner. or makes conclusion of contracts subject to acceptance by other parties of supplementary obligations which, by their nature or according to commercial usage, have no connection with the subject of such contracts and also, if any person uses dominant position in one relevant market to enter into, or protect, other relevant market. The term predatory price has been defined as the sale of goods or provision of services, at a price which is below the cost, as may be determined by regulations, of production of goods or provision of services, with a view to reduce competition or eliminate the competitors. Thus, the two conditions precedent to bring a case within the ambit of predatory pricing are:
- (1) selling goods or provision of service at a price which is below its cost of production, and
  - (2) that practice is resorted to eliminate the competitors or to reduce competition.

The Competition Commission of India has been empowered under Section 19(4) of the Act to determine whether any enterprise or group enjoys a dominant position or not, in the 'relevant market' and also to decide whether or not there has been an abuse of dominant position. It may be noted that mere existence of dominance is not to be frowned upon unless the dominance is abused.

3.3.3 Combinations

Broadly, combination under the Act means acquisition of control, shares, voting rights or assets, acquisition of control by a person over an enterprise where such person has direct or indirect control over another enterprise engaged in competing businesses, and mergers and amalgamations between or amongst enterprises when the combining parties exceed the thresholds set in the Act. The thresholds are specified in the Act in terms of assets or turnover in India and abroad. The words combination and merger are used interchangeably in this booklet. Entering into a combination which causes or is likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition within the relevant market in India is prohibited and such combination shall be void.

3.3.4 Thresholds for Combinations

India is one of the fastest growing economies in the world. The growth process is driven both by organic and inorganic (through the mergers and acquisition route) growth of enterprises. It is neither feasible nor advisable to review all the mergers and acquisitions. It is natural to presume that in the case of small size combinations there is less likelihood of appreciable adverse effect on competition in markets in India. The Act provides for sufficiently high thresholds in terms of assets/turnover, for mandatory notification to the Commission.

The Act also provides for revision of the threshold limits every two years by the government, in consultation with the Commission, through notification, based on the changes in Wholesale Price Index (WPI) or fluctuations in exchange rates of rupee or foreign currencies. Vide notification S.O. 675 (E) dated 4th March, 2016, the Government has enhanced the value of assets and turnover mentioned in Section 5, by fifty percent. The current thresholds for the combined assets/turnover of the combining parties are as follows:

Individual: Either the combined assets of the enterprises would value more than (₹) 2,000 crores in India or the combined turnover of the enterprise is more than (₹) 6,000 crores in India. In case either or both of the enterprises have assets/turnover outside India also, then the combined assets of the enterprises value more than US$ 1 billion, including at least (₹) 1,000 crores in India, or turnover is more than US$ 3 billions, including at least (₹) 3,000 crores in India.

Group: The group to which the enterprise whose control, shares, assets or voting rights are being acquired would belong after the acquisition or the group to which the enterprise remaining the merger or amalgamation would belong has either assets of value of more than (₹) 8,000 crores in India or turnover more than (₹) 24,000 crores in India. Where the group has presence in India as well as outside India then the group has assets more than US$ 4 billion including at least ₹ 1,000 crores in India or turnover more than US$ 12 billion including at least ₹ 3,000 crores in India.

The term Group has been explained in the Act. As per Notification S.O. 634(E) dated 4th March, 2016, the exemption to the "group" exercising less than fifty percent of voting rights in other enterprise from the provisions of Sec. 5 of the Act under Notification No. S.O. 481(E) dated 4th March, 2011, has been continued for a further period of 5 years.

	APPLICABLE TO	ASSETS		TURNOVER
In India	Individual	₹ 2,000 cr.		₹ 6,000 cr.
	Group	₹ 8,000 cr.		₹ 24,000 cr.
In India and outside		ASSETS		TURNOVER
		Total	Minimum Indian Component	Total	Minimum Indian Component
	Individual parties	$ 1 bn.	₹1,000 cr.	$ 3 bn.	₹ 3,000 cr.
	Group $	$ 4 bn.	₹1,000 cr.	$ 12 bn.	₹ 3,000 cr.

The turnover shall be determined by taking into account the values of sales of goods or services. The value of assets shall be determined by taking the book value of the assets as shown in the audited books of account of the enterprise, in the financial year immediately preceding the financial year in which the date of proposed merger falls, as reduced by any depreciation. The value of assets shall include the brand value, value of goodwill, or Intellectual Property Rights etc., referred to in explanation (c) to Section 5 of the Act.

3.3.5 Exemption Notifications

In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (a) of Section 54 of the Act, the Central Government, in public interest, has exempted:

- (a) an enterprise, whose control, shares, voting rights or assets are being acquired has either assets of the value of not more than ₹ 350 crore in India or turnover of not more than ₹ 1,000 crore in India from the provisions of Section 5 of the said Act for a period of five years.
- (b) a banking company in respect of which the Central Government has issued a notification under Section 45 of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949, from the application of the provisions of Sections 5 and 6 of the Act for a period of five years.
- (c) Exemption to all combinations u/s 5 of the Act involving the CPSEs operating in the oil and gas sectors along with subsidiaries of CPSEs in this sector. (Notification in Nov. 2017)

3.3.6 Combination Notice

The review process for combination under the Act involves mandatory pre-combination notification to the Commission. Any person or enterprise proposing to enter into a combination shall give notice to the Commission in the specified form disclosing the details of the proposed combination within 30 days of the approval of the proposal relating to merger or amalgamation by the board of directors or of the execution of any agreement or other document in relation to the acquisition, as the case may be. In case, a notifiable combination is not notified, the Commission has the power to inquire into it within one year of the taking into effect of the combination.

The Commission also has the power to impose a fine which may extend to one per cent of the total turnover or the assets of the combination, whichever is higher, for failure to give notice to the Commission of the combination.

Any combination for which notice has been filed with the Commission would not take effect for a period of 210 days from the date of notification or till the Commission passes an order, whichever is earlier. If the Commission does not pass an order during the said period of 210 days, the combination shall be deemed to have been approved.

3.3.7 Acquisition or financing facility by PFIS, VCFS etc.

In case of share subscription or financing facility or any acquisition, inter alia, by a public financial institution, foreign institutional investor, bank or venture capital fund, pursuant to any covenant of a loan agreement or investment agreement, details of such acquisition are required to be filed with the Commission within seven days from the date of acquisition.

3.3.8 Procedure for Investigation of Combinations

As per the Combination Regulations, the Commission shall form its prima facie opinion as to whether the combination is likely to cause or has caused appreciable adverse effect on competition within the relevant market in India within 30 days from the receipt of the notice. If the Commission is prima facie of the opinion that a combination has caused or is likely to cause adverse effect on competition in Indian markets, it shall issue a notice to show cause to the parties as to why investigation in respect of such combination should not be conducted. On receipt of the response, if the Commission is of the prima facie opinion that the combination has or is likely to have appreciable adverse effect on competition, the Commission shall deal with the notice as per the provisions of the Act.

3.3.9 Evaluation of 'appreciable adverse effect on competition'

The Act envisages appreciable adverse effect on competition in the relevant market in India as the criterion for regulation of combinations. In order to evaluate appreciable adverse effect on competition, the Act empowers the Commission to evaluate the effect of Combination on the basis of factors mentioned in sub Section (4) of Section 20. Factors to be considered by the Commission while evaluating appreciable adverse effect of Combinations on competition in the relevant market:

- (a) actual and potential level of competition through imports in the market.
- (b) extent of barriers to entry into the market.
- (c) level of concentration in the market .
- (d) degree of countervailing power in the market.
- (e) likelihood that the combination would result in the parties to the combination being able to significantly and sustainably increase prices or profit margins.
- (f) extent of effective competition likely to sustain in a market.
- (g) extent to which substitutes are available or are likely to be available in the market.
- (h) market share, in the relevant market, of the persons or enterprise in a combination, individually and as a combination.
- (i) likelihood that the combination would result in the removal of a vigorous and effective competitor or competitors in the market.
- (j) nature and extent of vertical integration in the market.
- (k) possibility of a failing business.
- (l) nature and extent of innovation.
- (m) relative advantage, by way of the contribution to the economic development, by any combination having or likely to have appreciable adverse effect on competition.
- (n) whether the benefits of the combination outweigh the adverse impact of the combination, if any.

3.3.10 Consequence of failure to give notice

The Commission also has the power to impose a fine which may extend to one per cent of the total turnover or the assets of the combination, whichever is higher, for failure to give notice to the Commission of the combination.

3.3.11 Appeals

Study Note - 4

FOREIGN EXCHANGE MANAGEMENT ACT, 1999

This Study Note Includes:

- 4.1 Introduction
- 4.2 Broad structure of the FEMA
- 4.3 Important definitions
- 4.4 Regulation and management of foreign exchange
- 4.5 Authorised person

4.1 INTRODUCTION

Under Article 246 of the Constitution of India, the Parliament has exclusive power to make laws with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the Union List in the Seventh Schedule. Entry 16 of the Union List deals with Foreign jurisdiction; Entry 36 deals with Currency, coinage and legal tender, foreign exchange; Entry 37 deals with Foreign loans and Entry 41 deals with Trade and commerce with foreign countries; import and export across customs frontiers; definition of customs frontiers.

When a business enterprise imports goods from other countries, exports its products to them or makes investments abroad, it deals in foreign exchange. Therefore, the management of foreign exchange is very important in the present day business.

A system of exchange control was first time introduced through a series of rules under the Defence of India Act, 1939 on temporary basis. The foreign exchange crises persisted for a long time and finally it got enacted in the statute under the title 'Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1947'. Subsequently, this act was replaced by the Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1973 (FERA) which came into force with effect from January 1, 1974 and regulating foreign exchange for more than 26 years under this Act.

In 1991 Government of India initiated the policy of economic liberalization. After this foreign investment in many sectors were permitted in India. In 1997, Tarapore Committee on Capital Account Convertibility, constituted by the Reserve Bank of India, recommended change in the legislative framework governing foreign exchange transactions. Accordingly, the Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1973 was repealed and replaced by the new Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (FEMA) with effect from June 01, 2000. Under FEMA the emphasis was on management of foreign exchange.

4.1.1 Objective of the Act

The main objective of FERA was conservation and proper utilization of the foreign exchange resources of the country. It also sought to control certain aspects of the conduct of business outside the country by Indian companies and in India by foreign companies. When a business enterprise imports goods from other countries, exports its products to them or makes investments abroad, it deals in foreign exchange. Foreign exchange means 'foreign currency' and includes deposits, credits and balances payable in any foreign currency and secondly drafts, travelers cheques, letters of credit or bills of exchange, expressed or drawn in Indian currency but payable in any foreign currency.

4.1.2 Extent

This Act extends to the whole of India and also applies to all branches, offices and agencies outside India owned or controlled by a person resident in India. It is also applicable to any contravention committed outside India by any person to whom this Act is applicable. Accordingly, FEMA does not apply to citizens of India who are outside India unless they are resident of India.

4.1.3 Purpose of the Act

The preamble to FEMA lays down the purpose of the Act is to consolidate and amend the law relating to foreign exchange with the objective of facilitating external trade and payments and for promoting the orderly development and maintenance of foreign exchange market in India. Rationale for strict regulations under FERA 1973, after independence India was left with little forex reserves and during the oil Crisis of seventies ballooning oil import bills further drained foreign exchange reserves.

The Act has assigned an important role to the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) in the administration of FEMA. The rules, regulations and norms pertaining to several sections of the Act are laid down by the Reserve Bank of India, in consultation with the Central Government. The Act requires the Central Government to appoint as many officers of the Central Government as Adjudicating Authorities as required for holding inquiries pertaining to contravention of the Act. There is also a provision for appointing one or more Special Directors (Appeals) to hear appeals against the order of the Adjudicating authorities. The Central Government has also established an Appellate Tribunal for Foreign Exchange to hear appeals against the orders of the Adjudicating Authorities and the Special Director (Appeals). The FEMA provides for the establishment, by the Central Government, of a Directorate of Enforcement with a Director and such other officers or class of officers as it thinks fit for taking up for investigation of the contraventions under this Act.

4.1.4 Benefits of the Act

In the FERA regime accent was to regulate everything that was specified, relating to foreign exchange whereas FEMA lay down that 'everything other than what is expressly covered is not controlled'. The overriding objective of FERA was to regulate and minimize dealings in foreign exchange and foreign securities while FEMA on the other hand aims to aid in creation of a liberal foreign exchange market in India. It is also to be understood that the foreign exchange reserves started increasing after the liberalization regime and foreign exchange was started to be allowed more freely in contrast to the earlier FERA regime.

This difference in terminology reflects seriousness of government towards deregulation of foreign exchange and promotion of free flow of international trade. To facilitate external trade, section 5 of the Act removes restrictions on withdrawal of foreign exchange for the purpose of current account transactions. As external trade i.e., imports/export of goods & services involve transactions on current account, there is no need for seeking RBI permissions in connection with remittances involving external trade. All transactions which fall within the category current account transactions are deemed permitted unless expressly specified and in respect of capital account transactions, they need to be expressly permitted to be transacted,

4.1.5 The difference between the title, FERA and FEMA of legislations

In view of the stated change, the title of the legislation has rightly been changed from 'Foreign Exchange Regulation Act' to 'Foreign Exchange Management Act'. The main change that has been brought is that FEMA is a civil law, whereas the FERA was a criminal law. In simple word, for contravention of provisions under the FEMA arrest and imprisonment would not be resorted whereas it was the norm under the previous act. Drastic tenor of FERA can be gauged from the fact that it provided for imprisonment for violation of even very minor offenses. In FERA, the presumption was upon the accused to defend himself as he was deemed guilty, whereas in FEMA, the onus is upon the Enforcement Directorate to prove the guilt of the accused. In other words the stringent stipulations under FERA have been relaxed in FEMA.

The FDI policy provides that the price/conversion formula of convertible capital instruments should be determined upfront at the time of issue of the instruments. The price at the time of conversion should not in any case be lower than the fair value worked out, at the time of issuance of such instruments, in accordance with the extant FEMA regulations [valuation as per any internationally accepted pricing methodology on arm's length basis for the unlisted companies and valuation in terms of SEBI (ICDR) Regulations, for the listed companies] without any assured return.

Case Law

In Policy decisions; there will be no Judicial intervention. [Prof. Krishnaraj Goswami vs. Reserve Bank of India; (2008) 83 SCL 133 (BOM)]: The Government of India took a policy decision to permit FDI in infrastructure companies in securities market viz., stock exchanges, depositories and clearing corporation. SEBI issued a circular in this regard. RBI also issued a circular A.P.(DIR Series) Circular No. 25 dated 22.12.2006 giving certain directions to authorized dealers.

In this case, the petitioner challenged the RBI Circular as invalid in as much as it restricts the trade activities of general corporate sector. Bombay High Court observed that the RBI had issued the impugned circular dated 22.12.2006 by way of directions as contemplated under section 10(4) and 11(1) of the FEMA. A bare reading of the provisions of these sections clearly shows that RBI has power to issue directions to authorized persons and this power is wide enough to cover any kind of directions so far it provides for regulation of foreign exchange management. The contention of petitioner, that RBI had no jurisdiction to issue such circulars, cannot be accepted. Section 10(4) clearly stipulate that an authorized person, in all dealings, is bound by the directions, general, or special, issued by RBI. Similarly, section 11(1) provides that RBI may, for the purpose of securing compliance of the provisions of the FEMA and of any rules, regulations and directions made thereunder, give to the authorized persons any direction in regard to making of payment or the doing or desist from doing of any act relating to foreign exchange or foreign security.

The petitioner had not challenged the policy decision of the Central Government, but had merely questioned the incidental act i.e. the impugned circular. In any event, these are policy decisions which fall within the domain of the authorities concerned in the Central Government. The effect and repercussions of such policy decision can hardly be subject matter of judicial review. Policy decision unless and until are reversed or inconsistent with the constitutional mandate or a patent abuse of power, judicial intervention will normally be not necessitated. Petition dismissed.

4.5.2 Power of Reserve Bank to inspect authorised person (Section 12)

- (a) The Reserve Bank may, at any time, cause an inspection to be made by any officer of the Reserve Bank specially authorised in writing by the Reserve Bank in this behalf, of the business of any authorised person as may appear to it to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of:
  - (1) verifying the correctness of any statement, information or particulars furnished to the Reserve Bank.

- (2) obtaining any information or particulars which such authorised person has failed to furnish on being called upon to do so.
  - (3) securing compliance with the provisions of this Act or of any rules, regulations, directions or orders made thereunder.
- (b) It shall be the duty of every authorised person, and where such person is a company or a firm, every director, partner or other officer of such company or firm, as the case may be, to produce to any officer making an inspection under sub-section (1), such books, accounts and other documents in his custody or power and to furnish any statement or information relating to the affairs of such person, company or firm as the said officer may require within such time and in such manner as the said officer may direct.

LAW RELATED TO BANKING SECTOR

PART – A : THE BANKING REGULATION ACT, 1949

This Study Note Includes:

A : 5.1 Introduction

A : 5.2 About Banking Regulation Act, 1949

A : 5.3 Salient features of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949

A : 5.1 INTRODUCTION

Banking in India in the modern sense originated in the last decades of the 18th century. Among the first banks were the Bank of Hindustan, which was established in 1770 and liquidated in 1829-32 and the General Bank of India, established in 1786 but failed in 1791.

The largest bank, and the oldest still in existence, is the State Bank of India (S.B.I). It originated as the Bank of Calcutta in June 1806. In 1809, it was renamed as the Bank of Bengal. This was one of the three banks funded by a presidency government, the other two were the Bank of Bombay and the Bank of Madras. The three banks were merged in 1921 to form the Imperial Bank of India, which upon India's independence, became the State Bank of India in 1955. For many years the presidency banks had acted as quasi-central banks until the Reserve Bank of India was established in 1935, under the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934.

In 1960, the State Bank of India was given control of eight state-associated banks under the State Bank of India (Subsidiary Banks) Act, 1959. These are now called its associate banks. As of now, all the associate Banks of State Bank of India and the lately established Bharatiya Mahila Bank Limited are under merger with the State Bank of India. In 1969 the Indian government nationalised 14 major private banks. In 1980, 6 more private banks were nationalised. These nationalised banks are the majority of lenders in the Indian economy. They dominate the banking sector because of their large size and widespread networks.

The Indian banking sector is broadly classified into scheduled banks and non-scheduled banks. The scheduled banks are those which are included under the 2nd Schedule of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934. The scheduled banks are further classified into: Nationalised banks, State Bank of India and its associates, Regional Rural Banks (RRBs), foreign banks, and other Indian private sector banks. Private Sector Banks could also be categorized into older Private Sector Banks and the newer Private Sector Banks. The term commercial bank refers to both scheduled and non-scheduled commercial banks which are regulated under the Banking Regulation Act, 1949.

Currently, 74% FDI is permitted in the private sector banking, of which up to 49% is allowed under the automatic route and beyond that through the approval of the Government. However, portfolio investments in the banking sector can go up to 49% with 10% cap of single investor FDI in state owned bank is capped at 20%.

Business of Banks

The Banks in general accept the deposits from public by way of different categories – e.g. savings bank accounts, current accounts and fixed deposits as well as recurring deposits, cash certificates etc. The deposits could be categorized in two broad groups i.e. savings bank and current account where withdrawals are based on demand by the account holders and fixed deposits which are time deposits for a specific period of time. Since the banks are expected to be ready with cash or honour cheques drawn on them by savings bank customers as well as current account customers, the rate of interest payable on such categories (CASA) is lower than the interest paid on fixed deposits. Banks are required to maintain the reserves in accordance with the stipulations in Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) and Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) and after meeting the reserve requirements and also for the day to day liability for payments to customers in the form of cash balances, the remainder is generally lent by way of advances to various borrowers. The banks are required to earn a minimum interest spread on the advances which should provide for the administrative overheads and meet the cost of deposits too.

As of now, the commercial banks have been facing the persistent problem of increasing non-performing assets for which they are forced to make provisions in accordance with the regulations of the Reserve Bank of India and declare losses. In order to tackle the problem of growing Non Performing Assets, a new step worth mention is the passing of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016. The first step in the implementation of the Act by notifying the sections of the Act dealing with the establishment of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India. In view the need to be updated with this code, a write up about the Bureaucracy and Insolvency code is also provided at the end of the Chapter. The code proposes to consolidate and amend the law relating to Corporate Insolvencies and also individual bankruptcies. The jurisdiction for adjudication of cases of corporate insolvency is with the National Company Law Tribunal and in respect of individual bankruptcies the jurisdiction would rest with the Debt Recovery Tribunals. It is expected that the implementation of this new code would be a game changer in the corporate scenario.

A : 5.2 ABOUT BANKING REGULATION ACT, 1949

Parliament has the power to legislate on banking through entry 45 of Union List. The Banking Regulation Act, 1949 is a central legislation that regulates all banking firms in India. Initially, the law was applicable only to banking companies.

The Act provides a framework using which commercial banking in India is supervised and regulated. The Act supplements the Companies Act, 1956. Primary Agricultural Credit Society and cooperative land mortgage banks are excluded from the Act.

The Act gives the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to power to license banks, have regulation over shareholding and voting rights of shareholders, supervise the appointment of the boards and management, regulate the operations of banks, lay down instructions for audits, impose moratorium, mergers and liquidation, issue directives in the interests of public good and on banking policy and impose penalties.

In 1965, the Act was amended to include cooperative banks under its purview by adding the Section 56. Cooperative banks, which operate only in one state, are formed and run by the state government. But, RBI controls the licensing and regulates the business operations. The Banking Act was a supplement to the previous acts related to banking. The last amendment was made in September 2020 to bring Co-operative banks under supervision of RBI.

The Legal Framework of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 is as follows:

The above list of activities is exhaustive but not comprehensive. Of the several kinds of services listed above both under main business as well as ancillary business, some are 'agency services' and some are general utility services.

5.3.2 Board of Directors to include persons with professional and other experience (Section 10A)

Every company is required to ensure that the composition of the Board of Directors complies with this section. Not less than 51% of the total number of the Board of Directors shall consist of persons who shall have specialized knowledge or practical experience in accountancy, agriculture and rural economy, banking, co-operation, finance, law, small scale industry or any other field which in the opinion of the Reserve Bank of India would be useful to the Banking company. Of these, there shall be minimum two persons with special knowledge or experience in agriculture and rural economy, co-operation and small scale industry. Persons in the categories herein stated shall not have substantial interest or be connected with corporate / companies (not being section 8 Companies or companies engaged in small scale industry) or with trading, commercial or industrial concerns as employees, manager or managing agents. They could however, be connected with small industrial concern firms. The intention behind this provision is that the Board should be perfectly balanced with specialists drawn from various streams should form part of the Board and can provide a broad spectrum of experience. The directors of a banking company other than Chairman and Whole time director shall hold office for a period of 8 years.

5.3.3 Banking company to be managed by whole time Chairman [Section 10B]

Every banking company in existence on the commencement of the Banking Regulation (Amendment) Act, 1994 or which comes into existence thereafter shall have one of its Directors, who may be appointed on a whole-time or a part-time basis, as Chairman of its board of Directors, and where he is appointed on a whole-time basis, as Chairman of its board of Directors, he shall be entrusted with the management of the whole of the affairs of the banking company.

The Chairman of the Board of Directors of a Banking Company shall hold office for a period of five years.

5.3.5 Requirements regarding minimum paid up capital and reserves [Sections 11 & 12]

Section 11 of the Banking Companies Act lays down the requirements regarding the minimum standard of paid up capital and reserves as a condition for the commencement of business.

Under the provisions of Section 12, the subscribed capital of the company is not less than half of its authorized capital and the paid up capital is not less than half of its subscribed capital, provided when the capital is increased this proportion may be permitted to be secured within a period to be determined by the Reserve Bank not exceeding two years from the date of increase.

While the concept of minimum capital as above is a statutory prescription, in the current context, Capital adequacy ratio is very much relevant to be understood as the banks have now been forced to provide for the non performing assets (NPAs) in their books of account while announcing the results. The banks are now compared on an international rating and no banks can today operate without having sufficient capital as banks are required to engage with other banks for their business relationship and the erosion of capital in one bank could impact the other banks with which it has relationship. The subject matter of capital adequacy in commercial banks has been discussed and recommended by the Basel Committee guidelines. As of now, Indian commercial banks are required to be compliant with the Basel

III Recommendations. The major features of Basel III are as under:

No person can exercise voting rights of more than 10% regardless of his holding which may be increased to 20% in phased manner.

(i) The three pillars upon which the edifice of capital structure stands are :

Minimum Regulatory Capital requirements based on risk weighted assets (RWAs) maintaining capital worked out through credit, market and operational risk areas Supervisory Review Process – regulating tools and frameworks for dealing with peripheral risks that bank face Market discipline specifying the disclosures that banks need to make to increase the transparency of banks

(ii) The banks are expected to have better capital quality and buffers (capital conservation and counter cyclical) and specifications for Minimum common Equity tier I and Tier II.

(iii) The banks are required to be compliant with Basel III norms on January 1, 2019 and a minimum total capital of 9% of total risk weighted assets is to be ensured.

It may be informed that during the last two quarters, the public sector banks in general have declared lower net profits or ran into losses in comparison to the previous years in compliance with the stipulations of the Reserve Bank of India. The rising non-performing assets of the Banks is a matter of concern for the banks as well as regulators.

5.3.6 Restriction on commission, brokerage, discount, etc. on sale of shares [Sections 13]

No banking company shall pay out directly or indirectly by way of commission, brokerage, discount or remuneration in any form in respect of any shares issued by it, any amount exceeding in the aggregate two and one-half per cent of the price at which the said shares are issued.

5.3.7 Prohibition of charge on unpaid capital [Section 14]

According to Section 14, no banking company shall create any charge upon its unpaid capital, and any such charge if created, shall be invalid.

5.3.8 Limiting the payment of dividends [Section 15]

Section 15 prohibits every banking company from paying any dividend on its shares unless it has completely written off the capitalized expenses specified therein.

According to this section no banking company shall pay any dividend on its shares until all its capitalized expenses such as Preliminary Expenses, Brokerage and Commission on issue of shares, etc., have been completely written off.

However, as per the Banking Companies (Amendment) Act 1959, Banking Company may pay dividend on its shares without writing off the following:

- (a) The depreciation in the value of investments in the approved securities provided such depreciation has not been actually capitalized or accounted for a loss.
- (b) The depreciation in the value of its investments in shares, debentures, bonds, etc., (other than approved securities) where adequate provision has been made for such depreciation. The auditor of the banking company should approve such provision.
- (c) The bad debts where the adequate provision has been made in this behalf and the auditor of the banking company should approve such provision.
- (d) Banks pay dividends after taking specific approval of the Reserve Bank of India.

5.3.9 Transfer to Reserve Fund [Section 17]

Under Section 17, Banking companies incorporated in India are obligated to transfer to the reserve fund a sum equivalent to not less than 20% of the profit each year, unless the amount in such fund together with the amount in the share premium account is more than or equal to its paid-up capital.

However, vide its notification dated 20.09.2006, RBI has notified the following:

All scheduled commercial banks operating in India (including foreign banks) should transfer not less than 25 per cent of the 'net profit' (before appropriations) to the Reserve Fund.

5.3.10 Maintenance of cash reserve by non-scheduled banks [Section 18]

PART – B: THE SECURITIZATION AND RECONSTRUCTION OF FINANCIAL ASSETS AND ENFORCEMENT OF SECURITY INTEREST ACT, 2002

This Study Note Includes:

B : 5.1 Introduction

B : 5.2 Important Definitions

B : 5.3 Regulation of Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets of Banks and Financial Institutions

B : 5.4 Enforcement of Security Interest

B : 5.1 INTRODUCTION

The Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 was enacted with a view to regulate securitisation and reconstruction of financial assets and enforcement of security interest and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The Act, 2002 came into force on the 21st day of June, 2002. The Act enables the banks and financial institutions to realise long-term assets, manage problems of liquidity, asset liability mis-match and improve recovery by exercising powers to take possession of securities, sell them and reduce non-performing assets by adopting measures for recovery or reconstruction.

The Act further provides for setting up of asset reconstruction companies which are empowered to take possession of secured assets of the borrower including the right to transfer by way of lease, assignment or sale and realise the secured assets and take over the management of the business of the borrower. The Securities and Reconstruction of Financial assets and enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 was amended in 2004 and 2012 respectively.

The preamble to the Act provides that it is an Act to regulate securitisation and reconstruction of financial assets and enforcement of security interest and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The legal framework for securitisation in India emerged with the above enactment. Its purpose is to promote the setting up of asset reconstruction/securitisation companies, which are supposed to take over the Non Performing Assets (NPA) accumulated with the banks and public financial institutions. Special powers under the Act have been given to lenders and securitisation/ asset reconstruction companies, to enable them to take over assets of borrowers without first resorting to courts.

The constitutional validity of the SARFAESI Act was challenged in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. Vs. the Union of India [2004] 59 CLA 380 (SC) in the Supreme Court of India and the Supreme Court upheld the constitutional validity of the Act but declared that portion of section 17 of the Act requiring deposit of 75% of the disputed amount before filing the appeal with the Debt Recovery Tribunal under section 17(2) as unconstitutional.

Student may note that with the introduction of Insolvency Code, the relevance of this Act has diminished. However, a financial creditor has option to recover dues or exercise any other right either through this Act or Insolvency Code.

C : 5.1 THE PREVENTION OF MONEY LAUNDERING ACT, 2002

5.1.1 Overview

The globalization process, driven by advancements in communications and information technology, have made the international system more interactive, integrated, interrelated, and interconnected. This dynamic has unleashed the floodgates of opportunities for criminals to expand, widen and deepen their reach, become more sophisticated in their operations, and intensify their level and pace of transactions.

Because of the opportunities and needs created by the global dimension of business, crimes such as fraud, counterfeiting, corruption and embezzlement have opportunities to shift from individual or family ambit to more organized and competitive global structures.

The problem of money-laundering is no longer restricted to the geo political boundaries of any country. It is a global menace that cannot be contained by any nation alone. In view of this, India has become a member of the Financial Action Task Force and Asia Pacific Group on money-laundering, which are committed to the effective implementation and enforcement of internationally accepted standards against money-laundering and the financing of terrorism.

The Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002 was enacted in January, 2003. The Act along with the Rules framed thereunder have come into force with effect from 1st July, 2005. The Act extends to the whole of India including the state of Jammu & Kashmir. The Act was amended by the Prevention of Money Laundering (Amendment) Act 2009 w.e.f. 01.06.2009. The Act was further amended by the Prevention of Money - Laundering (Amendment) Act, 2012 w.e.f. 15-02-2013.

The Prevention of Money-laundering Act, 2002 addresses the international obligations under the Political Declaration and Global Programme of Action adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations to prevent money laundering.

5.1.2 Objects of the Act

As per the Preamble to the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, the objects sought to be achieved under the Act are:

- (a) To prevent and control money laundering.
- (b) To confiscate and seize the property obtained from the laundered money. and

- (c) To deal with any other issue connected with money laundering in India.

The Directorate of Enforcement in the Department of Revenue, Ministry of Finance is responsible for investigating the cases of offence of money laundering under Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002. Financial Intelligence Unit - India (FIU-IND) under the Department of Revenue, Ministry of Finance is the central national agency responsible for receiving, processing, analysing and disseminating information relating to suspect financial transactions to enforcement agencies and foreign FIUs.

5.1.3 Scheme of the Act

The Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 consists of ten chapters containing 75 sections and one Schedule divided into five parts. Chapter I containing section 1 and 2 deals with short title, extent and commencement and definitions. Chapter II containing sections 3 and 4 provides for offences and punishment for money laundering. Chapter III (Section 5-11) provides for attachment, adjudication and confiscation and Chapter IV (Sections 12-15) deals with obligations of banking companies, financial institutions and intermediaries. Chapter V (Sections 16-24) relates to Summons, Searches and Seizures etc.

The Act provides for establishment of Appellate Tribunal and thus sections 25-42 under Chapter VI provides for composition, procedure, power, jurisdiction etc. of the Appellate Tribunal. Chapter VII (Sections 43-47) deals with Special Courts, and Chapter VIII (Sections 48-54) provides for various authorities under the Act, their appointment, powers, jurisdiction etc. Chapter IX (Sections 55-61) deals with reciprocal arrangement for assistance in certain matters and procedure for attachment and confiscation of property. Chapter X containing Sections 62-75 deals with miscellaneous provisions including punishment for, vexatious search, false information etc., cognizance of offences, and offences by companies, among others.

5.1.4 What is Money Laundering?

The goal of a large number of criminal activities is to generate profit for an individual or a group. Money laundering is the processing of these criminal proceeds to disguise their illegal origin. Illegal arms sales, smuggling, and other organized crime, including drug trafficking and prostitution rings, can generate huge amounts of money. Embezzlement, insider trading, bribery and computer fraud schemes can also produce large profits and create the incentive to "legitimize" the ill-gotten gains through money laundering. The money so generated is tainted and is in the nature of 'dirty money'. Money Laundering is the process of conversion of such proceeds of crime, the 'dirty money', to make it appear as 'legitimate' money.

In the PMLA, 2002, money laundering has been defined as "any process or activity connected with proceeds of crime including its concealment, possession, acquisition or use and projecting or claiming it as untainted property".

5.1.5 How does Money Laundering actually take place?

The process of Money Laundering generally involves the following three stages:

- (a) Placement: The Money Launderer, who is holding the money generated from criminal activities, introduces the illegal funds into the financial systems. This might be done by breaking up large amount of cash into less conspicuous smaller sums which are deposited directly into a Bank Account or by purchasing a series of instruments such as Cheques, Bank Drafts etc., which are then collected and deposited into one or more accounts at another location.
- (b) Layering: The second stage of Money Laundering is layering. In this stage, the Money Launderer typically engages in a series of continuous conversions or movements of funds, within the financial or banking system by way of numerous accounts, so as to hide their true origin and to distance them from their criminal source. The Money Launderer may use various channels for movement of funds, like a series of Bank Accounts, sometimes spread across the globe, especially in those jurisdictions which do not co-operate in anti Money Laundering investigations.

(c) Integration: Having successfully processed his criminal profits through the first two stages of Money Laundering, the Launderer then moves to this third stage in which the funds reach the legitimate economy, after getting inseparably mixed with the legitimate money earned through legal sources of income. The Money Launderer might then choose to invest the funds into real estate, business ventures & luxury assets, etc. so that he can enjoy the laundered money, without any fear of law enforcement agencies.

The above three steps may not always follow each other. At times, illegal money may be mixed with legitimate money, even prior to placement in the financial system. In certain cash rich businesses, like Casinos (Gambling) and Real Estate, the proceeds of crime may be invested without entering the mainstream financial system at all.

5.1.6 What is the offence of Money Laundering?

Sec. 3 of PMLA defines offence of money laundering as whosoever directly or indirectly attempts to indulge or knowingly assists or knowingly is a party or is actually involved in any process or activity connected with the proceeds of crime including its concealment possession, acquisition or use or projecting or claiming as untainted property shall be guilty of offence of money-laundering. It prescribes obligation of banking companies, financial institutions and intermediaries for verification and maintenance of records of the identity of all its clients and also of all transactions and for furnishing information of such transactions in prescribed form to the Financial Intelligence Unit-India (FIU-IND). It empowers the Director of FIU-IND to impose fine on banking company, financial institution or intermediary if they or any of its officers fails to comply with the provisions of the Act as indicated above.

5.1.7 What is a 'scheduled offence'?

The offences listed in the Schedule to the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 are scheduled offences in terms of Section 2(1)(y) of the Act. The scheduled offences are divided into two parts - Part A & Part C.

In part A, offences to the Schedule have been listed in 28 paragraphs and it comprises of offences under Indian Penal Code, offences under Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances, offences under Explosive Substances Act, 1908, offences under Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967, offences under Arms Act, 1959, offences under Wild Life (Protection) Act, 1972, offences under the Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956, offences under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, offences under the Explosives Act, 1884 and offences under Antiquities & Arts Treasures Act, 1972 etc.

Part 'B' of the Schedule are offences with total value involved is ₹1 crore or more.

Part 'C' deals with trans-border crimes, and is a vital step in tackling Money Laundering across International Boundaries.

5.1.8 What is a Predicate Offence?

Every Scheduled Offence is a Predicate Offence. The Scheduled Offence is called Predicate Offence and the occurrence of the same is a pre requisite for initiating investigation into the offence of money laundering.

5.1.9 Punishment for the Offence of Money Laundering

Chapter II comprises of Sections 3 and 4. Section 3 deals with the offence of money laundering which has been discussed in the definition part above. Section 4 provides for the punishment for Money-Laundering. Whoever commits the offence of money-laundering shall be punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than three years but which may extend to seven years and shall also be liable to fine. But where the proceeds of crime involved in money-laundering relate to any offence specified under paragraph 2 of Part A of the Schedule, the maximum punishment may extend to ten years instead of seven years.

Act, 2015' to specifically and effectively tackle the issue of black money stashed away abroad. This has, inter alia, provided for more stringent provisions of penalties and prosecutions in respect of black money stashed away abroad. Further, under this law, for the first time the offence of willful attempt to evade tax, etc. in relation to undisclosed foreign income/assets has been made a Scheduled Offence for the purposes of the Prevention of Money-laundering Act, 2002 (PMLA). This enables attachment and confiscation of the proceeds of crime of willful attempt to evade such tax, etc., eventually leading to recovery of such undisclosed foreign income and assets/black money stashed away abroad. The new law came into force w.e.f. 01.07.2015. Thus, the first assessment year (A.Y.) in respect of the new law is A.Y. 2016-17 which began only on 01.04.2016.

There is no official estimation regarding black money of Indians stacked abroad. However, before the cases involving black money stashed away abroad were subjected to more stringent provisions of the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015, a one-time three months' compliance window closing on 30th September 2015 was provided under the new law wherein 648 declarations involving undisclosed foreign assets worth `4164 crore were made. The amount collected by way of tax and penalty in such cases is about `2476 crore.

Sharing of information of black money by foreign countries

Under the provisions of direct taxes laws, the Government has entered into tax treaties with a number of countries/ jurisdictions which obliges them to provide information for tax purposes. These tax treaties are:

- (a) Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements (DTAAs).
- (b) Tax Information Exchange Agreements (TIEAs).
- (c) Multilateral Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters (Multilateral Convention).
- (d) SAARC Multilateral Agreement. India has tax treaties with 139 countries/jurisdictions as on 30.06.2016.

Besides the above, the Common Reporting Standards (CRS), developed in response to the G20 request and approved by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Council, calls on jurisdictions to obtain information from their financial institutions and automatically exchange that information with other jurisdictions on an annual basis. A key element of successful implementation of CRS is putting in place an international framework that allows automatic exchange of CRS information between jurisdictions. This framework is known as CRS Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement (MCAA). While over 100 jurisdictions have committed to exchanging information under the CRS, 83 jurisdictions have signed the MCAA till June 2016.

Appropriate action against tax evasion including in respect of unaccounted income stashed in foreign countries, is an on-going process. Such action under direct tax laws includes searches, surveys, enquiries, assessment of income, levy of taxes, penalties, etc. and filing of prosecution complaints in criminal courts, wherever applicable.

The Government has taken several steps to effectively tackle the issue of black money, particularly black money stashed away abroad. Such measures include policy-level initiatives, more effective enforcement action on the ground, putting in place robust legislative and administrative frameworks, systems and processes with due focus on capacity building and integration of information and its mining through increasing use of information technology. Recent major initiatives in this regard include:

- (1) Constitution of the Special Investigation Team (SIT) on Black Money under Chairmanship and Vice-Chairmanship of two former Judges of Hon'ble Supreme Court,

- (2) Enactment of a comprehensive law; 'The Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015' which has come into force w.e.f. 01.07.2015 to specifically and more effectively deal with the issue of black money stashed away abroad,
- (3) Constitution of Multi-Agency Group (MAG) consisting of officers of Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT), Reserve Bank of India (RBI), Enforcement Directorate (ED) and Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) for investigation of recent revelations in Panama paper leaks,
- (4) Proactively engaging with foreign governments with a view to facilitate and enhance the exchange of information under Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements (DTAAs)/Tax Information Exchange Agreements (TIEAs)/Multilateral Conventions,
- (5) According high priority to the cases involving black money stashed away abroad for investigation and other follow-up actions including prosecutions in appropriate cases,
- (6) While focusing upon non-intrusive measures, due emphasis on enforcement measures in high impact cases with a view to prosecute the offenders at the earliest for credible deterrence against tax evasion/black money,
- (7) Proactively furthering global efforts to combat tax evasion/black money, inter alia, by joining the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement in respect of Automatic Exchange of Information (AEOI) and having information sharing arrangement with USA under its Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA),
- (8) Renegotiation of DTAAs with other countries to bring the Article on Exchange of Information to International Standards and expanding India's treaty network by signing new DTAAs and TIEAs with many jurisdictions to facilitate the exchange of information and to bring transparency,
- (9) Enabling attachment and confiscation of property equivalent in value held within the country where the property/proceeds of crime is taken or held outside the country by amending the Prevention of Money-laundering Act, 2002 through the Finance Act, 2015,
- (10) Introduction of the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Bill, 2015 to amend the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Act, 1988 with a view to, inter alia, enable confiscation of Benami property and provide for prosecution,
- (11) Initiation of the information technology based 'Project Insight' by the Income Tax Department for strengthening the non-intrusive information driven approach for improving tax compliance and effective utilization of available information.

These measures have equipped the Government better in curbing the menace of black money stashed away abroad. Further, sustained and prompt action taken by the Income Tax Department in various cases involving black money has resulted into assessment of substantial amounts of undisclosed income, levy of concealment penalty and filing of criminal prosecution complaints for various offences in appropriate cases.

C : 5.2 ROLE OF COST ACCOUNTANTS IN ANTI- MONEY LAUNDERING (AML) AUDITS TO CHECK TAX EVASION AND TRANSFER OF FUNDS

5.2.1 Background

Twin issues of corruption and black money have attracted unprecedented public attention in the past few months in India. Political debates in Parliament and outside, media news and campaigns, public demonstrations, dharnas and fasts, Hon'ble Supreme Court's attention and observations and the general public discourse, has been focused on these issues for more than past two years now. A host of cases relating to corruption have surfaced, such as 2G spectrum allocation, CWG, Medical Council of India, illegal mining in Jharkhand, Karnataka, Odisha, etc. While in many of these cases, action was taken suo motu by the law enforcement agencies, in some cases action came after Hon'ble Supreme Court intervened in Public Interest Litigations (PILs) filed before it. A number of cases relating to money kept abroad also surfaced, such as Hassan Ali Khan and associates, accounts in LGT Bank of Liechtenstein (information received from German tax authorities), and recently accounts in HSBC Bank (information received from the Government of France) which are still under investigation.

Keeping these developments in view, government has taken various steps. The government announced its five-pronged strategy formulated to deal with the problem of black money kept abroad. A study was commissioned by the government, after a gap of 25 years, to estimate the quantum of black money inside and outside the country. The study is being conducted by three top national-level institutions viz. National Institute of Public Finance and Policy (NIPFP), National Institute of Financial Management (NIFM) and National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER). Law enforcement agencies have investigated several high-profile corruption cases, putting an unprecedented number of persons charged of offences behind bars.

Here, the Cost Accountants play an important role while conducting the Cost Audits and Anti-Money Laundering (AML) Audits to check tax evasion and transfer of funds. He should be well versed with the process of money laundering and the 'modus operandi' involved in transfer of funds, so that he may be in a position to report while conducting anti-money laundering (AML) audits for tackling the black money and to check tax evasion and transfer of funds.

5.2.2 Causes and Methods Adopted for Generation of Black Money

- (a) Suppression of receipts, inflation of expenditure, etc.
- (b) Land and real estate transactions
- (c) Corruption
- (d) Financial market transactions
- (e) Bullion & jewellery transactions
- (f) Cash economy and use of counterfeit currency
- (g) NPO Sector
- (h) Participatory Notes
- (i) Trade Based Money Laundering

5.2.3 Trade Based Money Laundering

- (a) Financial Action Task Force (FATF) defines Trade Based Money Laundering (TBML) as the process of disguising the proceeds of crime and moving value through the use of trade transactions in an attempt to legitimize their illicit origins. In simpler terms, TBML is the process of transferring / moving money through trade transactions. In practice, this can be achieved through the misrepresentation of the price, quantity or quality of imports or exports.

The international trade system is subject to a wide range of risks and vulnerabilities, which provide unscrupulous entities the opportunity to launder money. The relative attractiveness of the international trade system is associated with:

- (1) The enormous volume of trade flows, which obscures individual transactions and provides abundant opportunity to transfer value across borders.
- (2) The complexity associated with (often multiple) foreign exchange transactions and recourse to diverse financing arrangements.
- (3) The additional complexity that can arise from the practice of mingling illicit funds with the cash flows of legitimate businesses.
- (4) The limited recourse to verification procedures or programmers in order to exchange customs data between countries, and
- (5) The limited resources that most customs agencies have to detect illegal trade transactions.

Differing tax rates create incentives for corporations to shift taxable income from jurisdictions with relatively high tax rates to jurisdictions with relatively low tax rates in order to minimize income tax payments. For example, a foreign parent company could use internal "transfer prices" to overstate the value of the goods and services that it exports to its foreign affiliate in order to shift taxable income from the operations of the affiliate in a high-tax jurisdiction to its operations in a low-tax jurisdiction. Similarly, the foreign affiliate might understate the value of the goods and services that it exports to the parent company in order to shift taxable income from its high-tax jurisdiction to the low-tax jurisdiction of its parent. Both of these strategies would shift the company's profits to the low-tax jurisdiction and, in doing so, reduce its worldwide tax payments. It could also be attributed to anonymity to avoid overpricing due to identification of interest of large corporate in new business area.

Companies and individuals also shift money from one country to another to diversify risk and protect their wealth against the impact of financial or political crises. A common technique used to circumvent currency restrictions is to 'over-invoice' imports or 'under-invoice' exports. The primary method used is the falsification of import and export invoices. By comparing discrepancies between the value of exports reported by a country and the value of imports reported by its key trading partners, the quantum of money transferred from that country through the use of the international trade system can be estimated.

In the case of transfer pricing, the reference to over- and under-invoicing relates to the legitimate allocation of income between related parties, rather than customs fraud. In many cases, this can also involve abuse of the financial system through fraudulent transactions involving a range of money transmission instruments, such as wire transfers. In practice, strategies to 'launder' money usually combine several different techniques. Often these involve abuse of both the financial and international trade systems.

(b) The basic techniques of trade-based money laundering include:

- (1) 'Over-Invoicing' and 'Under-Invoicing' of Goods and Services: Money laundering through the over-invoicing and under-invoicing of goods and services, which is one of the oldest methods of fraudulently transferring value across borders, remains a common practice today. The key element of this technique is the misrepresentation of the price of the good or service in order to transfer additional value between the importer and exporter. Over-invoicing of exports is one of the most common trade-based money laundering techniques used to move money. This reflects the fact that the primary focus of most customs agencies is to stop the importation of contraband and ensure that appropriate import duties are collected.
- (2) Multiple-Invoicing of Goods and Services: Another technique used to 'launder' funds involves issuing more than one invoice for the same trade transaction. By invoicing the same good or service more than once, a money launderer or terrorist financier is able to justify multiple payments for the same shipment of goods or delivery of services. Unlike over-invoicing and under-invoicing, it should be noted that there is no need for the exporter or importer to misrepresent the price of the good or service on the commercial invoice.
- (3) Over-Shipment and Under-Shipment of Goods and Services: In addition to manipulating export and import prices, a money launderer can overstate or understate the quantity of goods being shipped or services being provided. In the extreme, an exporter may not ship any goods at all, but simply collude with an importer to ensure that all shipping and customs documents associated with this so called "phantom shipment" are routinely processed. Banks and other financial institutions may unknowingly be involved in the provision of trade financing for these phantom shipments.
- (4) Falsely Described Goods and Services: In addition to manipulating export and import prices, a money launderer can misrepresent the quality or type of a good or service. For example, an exporter may ship a relatively inexpensive good and falsely invoice it as a more expensive item or an entirely different item. This creates a discrepancy between what appears on the shipping and customs documents and what is actually shipped. The use of false descriptions can also be used in the trade in services, such as financial advice, consulting services and market research.

5.2.4 Measures to Tackle Black Money

There are two dimensions of the issue of black money – first, its generation and, second, its consumption and use, including laundering of black money back to mainstream economy. Dealing with this menace has to cover both these aspects. So far as generation of black money from crime or corruption is concerned, its remedy does not lie merely in legislative or enforcement domains but also in finding much deeper socio-economic solutions. We have touched upon some of these aspects. However, generation of black money from legitimate activities has been dealt with extensively, and we make several recommendations in this regard.

Further, consumption and laundering of black money, if effectively tracked and controlled, may have the 'squeeze effect' on the overall activities resulting in creation and sustenance of black economy. While there may not be any need to have new law to especially deal with black money and black economy, various existing laws need to be comprehensively reviewed by the concerned administrative ministries on a regular basis keeping in view the changing economic scenario, and provisions dealing with violations need to be strengthened accordingly.

5.2.5 Strategy to tackle black money

The Committee has identified following strategy to tackle black money:

- (a) Preventing generation of black money.
- (b) Discouraging use of black money.
- (c) Effective detection of black money.
- (d) Effective investigation & adjudication.
- (e) Other steps.

5.2.6 Preventing generation of black money

India must ensure transparent, time-bound & better regulated approvals / permits, single window delivery of services to the extent possible and speedier judicial processes. The Electronic Delivery of Services Bill, 2011 that seeks to provide for electronic delivery of public services by the government to all persons to ensure transparency, efficiency, accountability, accessibility and reliability in delivery of such services has been tabled before the Parliament in December, 2011.

The fight against the monstrosity of black money has to be at ethical, socio-economic and administrative levels. At the ethical level, we have to reinforce value / moral education in the school curriculum and build good character citizens, particularly highlighting the ills of tax evasion and black money. At the socio-economic level, the thrust of public policy should be to discourage conspicuous & wasteful consumption / expenditure, encourage savings, frugality and simplicity, and reduce the gap between the rich and the poor.

The Government is also considering legislating public procurement law. The Public Procurement Bill, 2012 intends to regulate public procurement by all ministries and central government departments. It aims at ensuring transparency, fair and equitable treatment of bidders, promote competition, and enhance efficiency and economy in the public procurement process.

In order to ensure transparent and efficient allocation of natural and man-made resources, oversight in the form of comprehensive regulations and ombudsman for grievance redressal, particularly for scarce resources as in land, minerals, forests, telecom, etc. – need to be introduced and implemented expeditiously.

Social sector schemes involving huge public expenditure under various programmes reportedly suffer from possible manipulations and leakages. Direct transfers to the accounts of beneficiaries can provide a solution, as it would prevent manipulations like bogus muster rolls, etc. While efforts such as UID and direct transfer of subsidies will stop leakages in some sectors, in other sectors the problem will have to be addressed differently. We, accordingly, recommend that social audit be made mandatory for all social sector schemes that do not involve direct transfer of credit to the bank account of the beneficiary, at the district / field level, and a second and subsequent AG audit at the HQ level. We also recommend that a system of random inspections by teams of sponsoring Ministry / Department / Agency may monitor utilization of public funds for social sector schemes.

There should be a dedicated training center for all law enforcement agencies dealing with financial crimes and offences, as this requires special skills.

Oversight in the private sector is almost absent, except for some professionally managed companies. It mainly consists of self-regulation, and audit under the Company and Income Tax laws. That the system of professional audit may be quite ineffective even in professionally managed enterprises is aptly demonstrated by the Satyam case. We are of the view that the burden of dual audit should be reduced to single audit (for both company and tax law) and the audit system be detached from the management and control of the business. We, therefore, recommend that the central government establish a regulator (under Company law / Income Tax law) to empanel auditors in different grades and randomly assign them to the private sector firms, based on category and payment capacity, with mandatory rotation and maximum tenure of two years.

The proposed national level GST regime should be expeditiously implemented, as the spin-off from its implementation would provide adequate resources to more than compensate the loss apprehended by certain state governments.

At present, no government agency has complete database of nonprofit organizations (NPOs). CBDT has the largest database about this sector. There may be information with other agencies such as Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA), Central Economic Intelligence Bureau (CEIB), etc. It is desirable that CBDT be assigned the role of a centralized agency with which every NPO would require to be registered and would be allotted a unique number. This would be in line with the decision taken by the Government in the light of possible misuse of the sector in undesirable activities. There are suggestions made by the NPO Sector Assessment Committee, an Inter-ministerial body, which should be accepted and the office of DGIT (Exemption) appropriately strengthened in terms of manpower, infrastructure and capacity building.

The Central Government has recently tightened the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, by restricting receipt and use of foreign inward remittance.

Accountability of both public and private offices needs to be enhanced. As we are mainly concerned here with public sector accountability, we recommend that apart from good practices being followed such as Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management (FRBM) Act and outcome budget, performance-linked appraisal system of rewards and punishments, already under consideration, should be expeditiously implemented.

To reduce the element of black money in transactions relating to immovable properties, provision for NOC should be introduced in the Income Tax law with safeguards to reduce administrative complications and increased ease of compliance, so that an appropriate and uniform data-base is also set up, and a proper national-level regulation is put in place. The new system should be computer driven with minimal interface between the tax authorities and the tax-payer, and enforced by a dedicated unit within the investigative machinery of the Income Tax Department on the basis of pre-determined parameters and standard operating procedures. The electronically generated NOC, within a specified period, would also act as a tax clearance certificate.

The Accounting Standard No.7 should be modified by the ICAI to be made applicable to real estate developers also. AS-7 and AS-9 should be notified under the Income Tax Act, 1961.

There is no uniformity in the matter of levy of agricultural income tax among states. Agriculture generates around 14 per cent of the country's GDP. Giving credit to agricultural income for income tax purposes without verification of claim allows an avenue for bringing black money into the financial system as agricultural income. State governments may consider levy of agricultural income tax with facility for computerized processing and selective verification. This will on the one hand enhance revenues of state governments, and on the other hand prevent laundering of black money in the garb of agricultural income.

5.2.7 Effective detection of black money

The regulation and enforcement of KYC norms in the co-operative sector may be strengthened by the State Governments as well as the Central Government. Responsibility may be fixed for any lapse in this regard, as well as for any subsequent failure to alert authorities as regards any suspicious transactions in such accounts.

The RBI could consider stricter implementation of KYC norms and limit number of accounts that can be introduced by a single person, the number of accounts that can be maintained in the same branch by any entity and alerts about same address being used for opening accounts in different names. Stricter adherence to, and enforcement of, KYC norms is needed for ensuring proper compliance by banks and financial institutions. The Government, as well as the RBI, also need to put a better regulatory framework in place and act promptly against errant persons / institutions.

The Ministry of Corporate Affairs, which already has a centralized data-base of all companies, may examine placing a cap on the number of companies operating from the same premises and number of companies in which a person can become director.

The government may consider introducing alternative financial instruments to reduce the attraction of gold as savings instrument. It may also consider revising customs duties, as also graded wealth tax, on gold and jewellery to discourage investments in unproductive assets. The taxation structure on bullion and jewellery, including VAT / Sales Tax should be harmonized.

Better reporting / monitoring systems are to be put in place to trace the dealings in bullion / jewellery through the Income Tax / Customs / Sales Tax Acts. While the Income Tax Department has made it mandatory to obtain PAN or Form-60 / Form-61 for purchase of bullion above `5 lakh, similar rules should be framed for purchase / sale of bullion / jewellery, and collection of tax at source on purchases especially in cash.

Use of banking channels and credit / debit cards should be encouraged, while trade practices such as cheque discounting should be discouraged. The validity period of cheques / DDs has been reduced from 6 to 3 months w.e.f. 1st April 2012, which will discourage discounting of negotiable instruments. Payments by debit / credit cards through e-service intermediaries will simplify and encourage payments in these modes and reduce the cash economy. It is imperative that payment of wages and salaries in the private sector should also be through banking channels and become cash-less, in line with the government objective of financial inclusion.

Income Tax Department, which has a large data-base of financial transactions, should immediately set up the Directorate of Risk Management for proper data mining and risk analysis. The third-party reporting mechanism of the Income Tax Department should be made computer-driven and cover most high-value transactions in the financial sector.

Foreign remittances using corporate structures and the formal financial sector instruments may be a popular method of transferring funds (even of illegal origin) to foreign jurisdictions or for routing back to India through Foreign Institutional Investors (FII). There is a need to create a robust database of such remittances and carry out an analysis of their backward and forward linkages in order to understand the nature and legitimacy of the transmitted funds. FIU-IND may be empowered by law to receive reports (similar to other reports submitted to FIU-IND) on all international fund-transfers through the Indian financial system. The FIUs of Australia and Canada are already mandated to receive such reports.

SEBI by a circular issued in January 2011 has introduced changes in the reporting formats that capture details of downstream issuances of PNs during the month. From March 2012, these detailed reports are to be filed on a monthly basis but have a lag of six months. Though such details would be useful in identifying suspicious transactions, the six month lag in the information available is likely to reduce the strength of corrective action that can be taken by SEBI.

Foreign entities, banks, financial institutions, fund transfer entities, etc., have set up businesses in India. It has been found that Indian tax residents have been having substantial monetary transactions through these entities or with their branches abroad. Some countries have implemented laws to make it obligatory to furnish information of all transactions undertaken abroad. We recommend that India may also insist on entities operating in India to report all global transactions above a threshold limit. For this purpose, appropriate law, rules or contractual / licensing arrangement with these entities may be framed and implemented.

In India, there is no law to protect informants / whistle-blowers, nor does any department have effective witness protection program. As a result, credible information is not forthcoming and witnesses either do not turn up or turn hostile resulting in acquittals in prosecution cases. Apparently, the National Investigative Agency runs a program, and the recently created Directorate of Criminal Investigation (DCI) in the CBDT has been empowered to run such a program. Accordingly, we recommend that a witness protection law may be enacted expeditiously and witness protection program should be implemented by all law enforcement agencies.

Institutions of the Lok Pal and Lokayukta may be put in place at the earliest, in the centre and states, respectively, to expedite investigations into cases of corruption and bring the guilty to justice.

While on the lengthy discussion with regard to black money, mention must be made of the scheme announced by the Government of India for declaration of black money or unaccounted money upto 30th September, 2016 under Income Declaration Scheme 2016 upon payment of taxes of 45%. This is an attempt to unearth black money. The declaration is required to be made latest by 30th September 2016 and the taxes to be paid in 3 instalments upto 30th September, 2017.

5.2.8 Effective investigation & adjudication

Government must consider ways to mitigate the manpower shortage issues which are seriously hampering the functioning of various agencies particularly the CBDT and CBEC. Further, both Boards have submitted proposals for restructuring of their respective field formations. These need to be taken up and implemented on a fast track basis to show the Government's resolve to tackle the issue of black money.

Simultaneously, more administrative and financial autonomy must be expeditiously devolved on CBDT and Central Board of Excise and Customs (CBEC) for formulating tax policies in keeping with the overall government views on economic growth and development, for better tax administration and for providing tax-payer services as per best international practices. This has consistently been recommended by many earlier Committees and Commissions on Tax Administration.

With the emergence of complex legal matrix, infraction of one law invariably leads to infraction of another. Inter-agency coordination is critical in the fight against black money. There is a need to evolve an effective coordination mechanism that identifies the laws violated, the law violators, and a permanent joint mechanism to investigate all such cases. Some developed countries have an approach of joint task force and de-confliction programs to deal with this issue. It is time we study how this approach and program functions, adapt it to Indian conditions and implement it.

Intelligence sharing is one of the most critical areas for effective law enforcement. For this purpose, there should be a platform for more effective sharing of intelligence/information between central and state agencies. Information exchange among various economic law enforcement / intelligence organizations should become technology driven, preferably through a common technology platform. At the same time data-security should be ensured to prevent unauthorized access to information both technologically and through access control, and periodical security audit.

Diverse activities are covered by 'primary' enactments to regulate sale receipts, actual production, charging amount in excess of statutory amounts, etc. In some cases, investigation by income tax authorities reveals infringement of state laws. In such cases, the courts admit evidence 'accepted' by state authorities. Provision may be considered for enactment in the law of evidence or the income-tax law to the effect that even if evidence is produced under the primary law, where no independent verification is made, it will not be conclusive proof for tax purposes.

As taxation is a highly specialized subject, most reversals in court rulings are to be found in tax jurisprudence. Government may consider creating an all-India judicial service for specialized judiciary in different laws to achieve uniformity of application.

The National Tax Tribunal is yet to come into existence. Rapidly developing specialized institutions with requisite domain knowledge, to deal with complex problems confronting the country, is a priority. A professional National Tax Tribunal, with representation from the tax administration also, should be immediately formed to deal with all tax litigation.

Improvements in the matter of reporting, analysis and communication need to be achieved by further upgrading the computerization programme of the judicial system. It will enable the law enforcement agencies in taking well informed decisions.

We further recommend that for criminal trial of economic offences, the High Courts may consider setting up exclusive economic offences courts with special summary procedure. Judicial officers posted in these courts could take refresher courses in taxation laws to properly equip them in dealing with complex tax cases.

Under economic laws, different punishments are prescribed for different offences. Minimum punishments should also be prescribed for economic offences, to have greater deterrence. Different law enforcement agencies may consider lowering the punishment of 3 years to 2 years to facilitate speedier trial through summary procedure. Maximum punishments under the NDPS Act are 10 and 20 years. Under the NDPS Act, a second serious offence is punishable with death. Certainly, corruption cannot be treated as less diabolical than drug-related offences or money-laundering. Therefore, maximum punishment in serious cases of corruption should be enhanced to 10 years. Similarly, the minimum punishment for different offences of corruption should be enhanced from present 6 months, 1 year and 2 years to 1 year, 2 years and 3 years – at par with PMLA or Customs Act. Enhanced punishment, at par with other serious economic offences, is likely to provide more effective deterrence against corruption.

5.2.9 Other steps

Directorate of Currency (DoC) may be strengthened to introduce coins and currencies that would be machine readable, to enable routing of cash transactions through banks easy, user friendly and reduce the menace of FICN. This will go a long way in enabling the banks to not discourage cash deposits, thus reducing cash economy. The DoC needs to be strengthened to achieve these objectives.

To prevent misuse of 'off-market', and 'Dabba-trading' or trading outside the recognized stock exchanges, amendment to income tax law may be introduced to allow losses in off-market share transactions to be set off only against profits derived from such transactions.

As housing finance companies and the property buyers are provided fiscal incentives, it also leads to speculation and flipping transactions. To prevent this, Section 54 of the Income Tax Act should be amended to provide for availing this benefit only twice by a taxpayer in his lifetime.

The period of limitation for reopening income tax assessments should be enhanced from present six years to sixteen years for bringing to tax undisclosed assets held abroad.

One of the ways to get assets / money held abroad into the national mainstream is through a compliance scheme. The Committee is of the view that if the above recommendations are implemented properly, it would be possible to get information regarding assets held abroad as well as check the generation of black money within the country and its illicit transfer abroad. Already there are provisions in the Income Tax Act to waive prosecution and reduce penalties in genuine cases of inadvertent infraction of tax laws. Such taxpayers can always avail of the benefits under these provisions and declare any undisclosed income/assets in India or abroad.

5.2.10 Reporting of frauds by auditors [Section 143(12)]

In terms of Section 142 of the Companies Act, 2013 if an auditor of a company in the course of performance of his duties as auditor, has reason to believe that an offence of fraud involving such amount or amounts as may be prescribed, is being or has been committed in the company by its officers or employees, the auditor shall report the matter to the Central Government immediately but not later than 60 days of his knowledge and after following the procedure as prescribed in Rule 13 of the Companies (Audit and Auditors) Rules, 2014.

Auditor shall forward his report to the Board or the Audit Committee, as the case may be, immediately after he comes to knowledge of the fraud, seeking their reply or observations within 45 days;

On receipt of such reply or observations the auditor shall forward his report and the reply or observations of the Board or the Audit Committee along with his comments (on such reply or observations of the Board or the Audit Committee) to the Central Government within 15 days of receipt of such reply or observations;

In case the auditor fails to get any reply or observations from the Board or the Audit Committee within the stipulated period of 45 days, he shall forward his report to the Central Government along with a note containing the details of his report that was earlier forwarded to the Board or the Audit Committee for which he failed to receive any reply or observations within the stipulated time.

The report shall be sent to the Secretary, Ministry of Corporate Affairs in a sealed cover by Registered Post with Acknowledgement Due or by Speed post followed by an e-mail in confirmation of the same.

The report shall be on the letter-head of the auditor containing postal address, e-mail address and contact number and be signed by the auditor with his seal and shall indicate his Membership Number.. The report shall be in the form of a statement as specified in Form ADT-4.

According to Section 143 (14) of the Companies Act, 2013 the provision of section 143 shall 'mutatis mutandis' apply to the cost accountant in practice conducting cost audit under section 148.

5.2.11 Penalty for non compliance of section 143(12)

If any auditor, the cost accountant in practice conducting cost audit under section 148 do not comply with the provisions of section 143(12) (reporting about the offence to the Central Government), he shall be punishable with fine which shall not be less than ₹ 1 lakhs but which may extend to ₹ 25 lakhs. No duty to which an auditor of a company may be subject to shall be regarded as having been contravened by reason of his reporting the matter referred above if it is done in good faith.

A : 6.1 INTRODUCTION

The Concept of Insurance

Insurance is a method of spreading over a large number of persons a possible financial loss too serious to be conveniently borne by an individual. Therefore, the fundamental function of insurance is to shift the loss suffered by a sole individual to a willing and capable professional risk-bearer in consideration of a comparatively small contribution called the premium. Insurance thus reduces the fears of future risk to the individual insured and by capital formation it helps the growth of industry, accelerates production, lubricates the machinery of production and distribution and improves economy of the nation. It mobilizes the resources, accelerates and stabilizes growth and helps in the establishment of a welfare state.

The Constitution of India is federal in nature in as much there is division of powers between the Centre and the States. Insurance is included in the Union List, wherein the subjects included in this list are of the exclusive legislative competence of the Centre. The Central Legislature is empowered to regulate the insurance industry in India and hence the law in this regard is uniform throughout the territories of India.

The concept of insurance has been prevalent in India since ancient times amongst Hindus. Overseas traders practised a system of marine insurance. The joint family system, peculiar to India, was a method of social insurance of every member of the family on his life. The law relating to insurance has gradually developed, undergoing several phases from nationalisation of the insurance industry to the recent reforms permitting entry of private players and foreign investment in the insurance industry.

Prior to 1912, there was no insurance law in India. The Insurance companies were governed by the provisions of the Indian Companies Act 1882. In the beginning of the twentieth century, many companies sprang up but many of them were unsound. So these demanded a legislation to control the insurance companies. In 1912, the Indian Life Insurance Companies Act and the Provident Insurance Societies Act were passed to control life insurance only. The Indian Life Insurance Companies Act 1912, was based on the model of the English Insurance Companies Act of 1909. The Indian legislation dealt with only life insurance while the English Act governed life insurance as well as non-life insurance. The Indian Life Insurance Companies Act, 1912 had some defects. The unhealthy concerns were not checked from the irregularities. There was no restriction imposed on the investment of their funds. The unsound concerns could not be investigated. The foreign companies were exempted from submitting particulars regarding their Indian business.

Persistent demands were made by various important public bodies in the country for statutory provisions which would provide for disclosure and publication of the business carried on in India by foreign companies. In 1925, a comprehensive piece of insurance legislation was to be passed but it was postponed because the Government of India thought it fit to watch the course of new legislation on Insurance Law in England. Mr A.C. Clauson K.C. was appointed to revise the insurance legislation in that country.

The enquiry of the Clauson Committee was not immediately followed by and has not yet resulted in legislation in England. In the meantime, the Government of India passed the legislation in 1928 with the main object of collecting statistics regarding insurance matters so that the information collected would be of value when the time would come to pass a comprehensive Act. The statistics to be collected were pertaining to total business in force, new business, amount of claims paid and a summary of classified assets held by all life insurance companies operating in India. In 1935 the Government decided to proceed with the reform of the insurance law and without waiting for the enactment of legislation in England. Mr. Sushil Chandra Sen, a well-known Calcutta solicitor was assigned a special duty to report on the amendments necessary to modernize insurance legislation in India. An Advisory Committee was also appointed by the Government of India to consider the report of Mr. Sen. The Committee made several changes and the Government of India introduced the Bill in the Legislative Assembly in 1937 which emerged as the Insurance Act of 1938. It was enforced since July 1, 1939. A comprehensive amendment was made in 1950. The life insurance business was nationalized in 1956 and therefore the Life Insurance Corporation of India Act, 1956 was passed. The Life Insurance Corporation of India came into existence from September 1, 1956. This Act is effective and comprehensive to govern the life insurance business in India. The marine Insurance Act of 1963 was enacted to govern and regulate marine insurance in India. The general insurance business has been nationalized in 1972 and an Act to that effect has been passed in 1972 known as The General Insurance Business (Nationalisation) Act, 1972.

FDI in Insurance Sector in India

Insurance market in India was opened up for private sector in 2000 with the enactment of Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) Act, 1999. Before opening up of the sector for the private players, the industry consisted of only two state insurers: Life Insurers (Life Insurance Corporation of India, LIC) and General Insurers (General Insurance Corporation of India, GIC). GIC had four subsidiary companies. Industry has seen a gradual growth over the last 15 years in terms of product innovation, vibrant distribution channels, penetration and density.

As on October, 2020, there are 57 insurance companies operating in India, of which 24 are in the life insurance business and 33 in general insurance. Up to 26 per cent FDI is permitted through the automatic approval route. For FDI up to 49 per cent, the approval of the Central Government is required. 100% FDI is permitted in insurance intermediaries.

However, presently foreign investment proposals up to 49 per cent of the total paid up equity of the Indian insurance company shall be allowed on the automatic route subject to verification by the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India instead of 26 per cent earlier.

The Insurance Laws (Amendment) Act, 2015

The Insurance Laws (Amendment) Act, 2015 received the assent of the President on the 20th March, 2015 paved the way for major reform related amendments in the Insurance Act, 1938, the General Insurance Business (Nationalization) Act, 1972 and the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority (IRDA) Act, 1999. This Act is deemed to have come into force on 26th December 2014.

Highlights of the Insurance Laws (Amendment) Act, 2015

The amendment Act paved way for removing archaic and redundant provisions in the legislations and incorporates certain provisions to provide Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) with the flexibility to discharge its functions more effectively and efficiently. It also provides for enhancement of the foreign investment cap in an Indian Insurance Company from 26% to an explicitly composite limit of 49% in automatic route with the safeguard of Indian ownership and control.

In addition to the provisions for enhanced foreign equity, the amended law will enable capital raising through new and innovative instruments under the regulatory supervision of IRDAI. Greater availability of capital for the capital intensive insurance sector would lead to greater distribution reach to under / un-served areas, more innovative product formulations to meet diverse insurance needs of citizens, efficient service delivery through improved distribution technology and enhanced customer service standards. The Rules to operationalize the new provisions in the Law related to foreign equity investors have already been notified on 19th February 2015 under powers accorded by the Ordinance.

The four public sector general insurance companies, presently required as per the General Insurance Business (Nationalisation) Act, 1972 (GIBNA, 1972) to be 100% government owned, are now allowed to raise capital, keeping in view the need for expansion of the business in the rural and social sectors, meeting the solvency margin for this purpose and achieving enhanced competitiveness subject to the Government equity not being less than 51% at any point of time.

Further, the amendments to the laws will enable the interests of consumers to be better served through provisions like those enabling penalties on intermediaries / insurance companies for misconduct and disallowing multilevel marketing of insurance products in order to curtail the practice of mis-selling. The amended Law has several provisions for levying higher penalties ranging from up to ` 1 Crore to ` 25 Crore for various violations including mis-selling and misrepresentation by agents / insurance companies. With a view to serve the interest of the policy holders better, the period during which a policy can be repudiated on any ground, including mis-statement of facts etc., will be confined to three years from the commencement of the policy and no policy would be called in question on any ground after three years. The amendments provide for an easier process for payment to the nominee of the policy holder, as the insurer would be discharged of its legal liabilities once the payment is made to the nominee. It is now obligatory in the law for insurance companies to underwrite third party motor vehicle insurance as per IRDAI regulations. Rural and Social sector obligations for insurers are retained in the amended laws.

The Act will entrust responsibility of appointing insurance agents to insurers and provides for IRDAI to regulate their eligibility, qualifications and other aspects. It enables agents to work more broadly across companies in various business categories; with the safeguard that conflict of interest would not be allowed by IRDAI through suitable regulations. IRDAI is empowered to regulate key aspects of Insurance Company operations in areas like solvency, investments, expenses and commissions and to formulate regulations for payment of commission and control of management expenses. It empowers the Authority to regulate the functions, code of conduct, etc., of surveyors and loss assessors. It also expands the scope of insurance intermediaries to include insurance brokers, re-insurance brokers, insurance consultants, corporate agents, third party administrators, surveyors and loss assessors and such other entities, as may be notified by the Authority from time to time. Further, properties in India can now be insured with a foreign insurer with prior permission of IRDAI; which was earlier to be done with the approval of the Central Government.

The amendment Act defines 'health insurance business' inclusive of travel and personal accident cover and discourages non-serious players by retaining capital requirements for health insurers at the level of ` 100 Crore, thereby paving the way for promotion of health insurance as a separate vertical.

The amended law enables foreign reinsurers to set up branches in India and defines „re-insurance to mean “the insurance of part of one insurer’s risk by another insurer who accepts the risk for a mutually acceptable premium”, and thereby excludes the possibility of 100% ceding of risk to a re-insurer, which could lead to companies acting as front companies for other insurers. Further, it enables Lloyds and its members to operate in India through setting up of branches for the purpose of reinsurance business or as investors in an Indian Insurance Company within the 49% cap.

The Life Insurance Council and General Insurance Council have now been made self regulating bodies by empowering them to frame bye-laws for elections, meetings and levy and collect fees etc. from its members. Inclusion of representatives of self-help groups and insurance cooperative societies in insurance councils has also been enabled to broad base the representation on these Councils.

Appeals against the orders of IRDAI are to be preferred to SAT as the amended Law provides for any insurer or insurance intermediary aggrieved by any order made by IRDAI to prefer an appeal to the Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT).

A : 6.2 PRINCIPLES OF INSURANCE LAW

Where there is a positive enactment of the Indian legislature, the language of the statute is applied to the facts of the case. However, the common law of England is often relied upon in consideration of justice, equity and good conscience.

6.2.1 Good Faith

A contract of insurance is a contract 'uberrime fidei' i.e., a contract of utmost good faith. This is a fundamental principle of insurance law. Both the parties to the contract are required to observe utmost good faith and should disclose every material fact known to them. There is no difference between a contract of insurance and any other contract except that in a contract of insurance there is a requirement of utmost good faith [General Assurance Society Ltd. v. Chandumull Jain AIR 1966 SC 1644]. The burden of proof to show non-disclosure or misrepresentation is on the insurance company [Life Insurance Corporation of India v. Smt. G.M.Channabasamma (1991) 1 SCC 357] and the onus is a heavy one [Life Insurance Corporation of India v. Parvathavardhini Ammal AIR 1965 Mad 357]. The duty of good faith is of a continuing nature in as much no material alteration can be made to the terms of the contract without the mutual consent of the parties [United India Insurance co. Ltd v. M.K.J Corpn. (1996) 6 SCC 428.] Just as the assured has a duty to disclose all the material facts, the insurer is also under an obligation to do the same. The insurer cannot subsequently demand additional premium [Hanil Era Textiles Ltd. v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. (2001) 1 SCC 269] nor can he escape liability by contending that the situation does not warrant the insurance cover [United India Insurance Co Ltd. v. M.K.J. Corporation (1996) 6 SCC 428].

6.2.2 Misrepresentation

Representations are statements, made by one party to the other, either prior to or while entering into an insurance contract, of some matter or circumstances relating to it and which is not an integral part of the contract [Behn v. Burness, (1863) 3 B&S 751]. These statements are said to have fulfilled their obligations when the final acceptance on the policy is conveyed [Pawson v. Watson, (1778) 98 ER 1361].

A mere recital of representations made at the time of entering into the contract will not make them warranties. [Wheulton v. Haristy, (1857) 8 E and B 232]. However, if representations are made an integral part of the contract they become warranties, and, in case of their being untrue, the policy can be avoided, even if the loss does not arise from the fact concealed or misrepresented. A policy of life insurance cannot be called in question on the ground of misrepresentation after a period of two years from the commencement of the policy.

In dealing with representations as circumstances invalidating a contract, consideration should be paid as to whether such representations are wilful or innocent and whether they are preliminary or for part of the contract. The Insurance Act lays down three conditions to establish that the misrepresentation was wilful; (a) the statement must be on a material matter or must suppress facts which it was material to disclose; (b) the suppression must be fraudulently made by the policy holder; and (c) the policy- holder must have known at the time of making the statement that it was false or that it suppressed facts which it was material to disclose.

6.2.3 Warranties

A warranty may be distinguished from a representation in as much a representation may be equitably and substantially answered but a warranty must be strictly complied with. A breach of warranty will avoid the policy, although it may not relate to a matter material to the risk insured. Warranties may be express or implied, if it is condition implied by law. However, implied warranties are mostly confined to marine insurance. The Marine Insurance Act defines a warranty as a promise whereby the assured undertakes that some particular thing shall or shall not be done, or that some condition shall be fulfilled, or affirms or negatives the existence of a particular state of facts.

The statements must be true in fact without any qualification of judgment, opinion or belief [New Castle Fire Insurance Company v. Mac Morram and Co., (1815) 3 ER 1057]. The warranty should be in the policy or must be incorporated by reference. If any of the statements or representations made by the assured in the proposal have been made the "basis" of the contract and they are found to be untrue, the contract of insurance would be void and unenforceable in law, irrespective of the question whether the statement, concerned is of a material nature or not.

However, non-compliance of a warranty is excused when, by reason of a change of circumstances, the warranty ceases to be applicable to the circumstances of the contract, or when compliance with the warranty is rendered unlawful by any subsequent law or when such a warranty has not been mentioned in the policy.

6.2.4 Conditions

Conditions are terms which prescribe the limitations under which an insurance policy is granted and which specify the duties of the assured. They can be either conditions precedent or subsequent. Conditions precedent are those, which are essential for the creation of a valid contract, the non-satisfaction of which makes the contract void ab initio. Conditions subsequent relate to the continuance of a valid contract, the non-fulfilment of which leads to the avoidance of the contract from the date of the breach.

They can be further classified into express conditions and implied conditions. Implied conditions are those, which are implied by law to apply to every contract of insurance irrespective of any specific inclusion or reference to them such as insurable interest, good faith etc. A condition, which seeks to reduce or curtail the period of limitation and prescribes a shorter period than that prescribed by law is void. However, the insured is absolved once it is shown that he has done everything in his power to keep, honour and fulfil the promise and he himself is not guilty of a deliberate breach. An insurer cannot take recourse to a condition, which has not been mentioned in the policy to reduce his liability [Modern Insulators Ltd. v. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. (2000) 2 SCC 1014]. However, an insurance policy may not curtail the right but may merely provide for forfeiture or waiver of any such right and such a right would be enforceable against either party [National Insurance Company Ltd. v. Sujir Ganesh Nayak and Company, AIR 1997 SC 2049].

6.2.5 Indemnity and Subrogation

Most kinds of insurance policies other than life and personal accident insurance are contracts of indemnity whereby the insurer undertakes to indemnify the insured for the actual loss suffered by him as a result of the occurring of the event insured against. Even within the maximum limit, the insured cannot recover more than what he establishes to be his actual loss [Vania Silk Mills (P) Ltd. v. CIT (1991) 4 SCC 22]. A contract of marine insurance is an agreement whereby the insurer undertakes to indemnify the insured to the extent agreed upon.

Although the insured is to be placed in the same position as if the loss has not occurred, the amount of indemnity may be limited by certain conditions:

- (a) Injury or loss sustained by the insured has to be proved.
- (b) The indemnity is limited to the amount specified in the policy.
- (c) The insured is indemnified only for the proximate causes.
- (d) The market value of the property determines the amount of indemnity.

6.2.6 Proximate Cause

The doctrine of proximate cause is expressed in the maxim 'Causa Proxima non remota spectator', which means that the proximate and not the remote cause, shall be taken as the cause of loss. The insurer is thus has to make good the loss of the insured that clearly and proximately results, whether directly or indirectly, from the event insured against in the policy [Stanley V. Western Insurance company (1868) L.R. 371]. The burden of proof that the loss occurred on account of the proximate cause, lies on the insured.

As per the Marine Insurance Act, unless the insurance policy states otherwise, the insurer is liable for any loss proximately caused by a peril insured against, but he is not liable for any loss which is not proximately caused by a peril insured against. An insurer would therefore be exempted from liability when the cause of loss falls within the exceptions of the policy. The Marine Insurance Act further states that the insurer is not liable for any wilful misconduct of the insured i.e. the assured cannot recover for a loss where his own deliberate act is the proximate cause of it. Further, in the event of loss caused by the delay of the ship, the insurer cannot be held liable, irrespective of the proximity of the cause.

6.2.7 Insurance and Consumer Protection

economic legislation for the protection of consumers in India. The provisions of this Act are compensatory in nature, unlike other laws, which are either punitive or preventive. Insurance services fall within the purview of the Consumer Protection Act, in as much, any deficiency in service of the insurance company would enable the aggrieved to make a complaint. Disputes between policyholders and insurers generally pertain to repudiation of the insurance claim or the matters connected with admission of the claim or computation of the amount of claim. In the case of assignment of all rights by the insured to the insurer, the consumer forum and the courts generally refuse to accept the 'locus standi' of the insured.

The courts have held that insurance companies do not fall under the definition of "consumer" under the Consumer Protection Act, as no service is rendered to them directly. Neither the subrogation nor the transfer of the right of action would confer the legal status of a 'consumer' on the insurer, nor can the insurer be regarded as any beneficiary of any service [New India Assurance Company Ltd. v. B. N. Sainani (1997) 6 SCC 383]. Therefore, the remedy available to the insurer is to file a suit in a civil court for recovery of the loss.

However, if a company/individual taken insurance to hedge his risk, he will be considered to be a consumer under the Consumer Protection Act, even when he is a doing business (commercial purpose).

6.2.8 Insurable Interest

To constitute insurable interest, it must be an interest such that the risk would by its proximate effect cause damage to the assured, that is to say, cause him to lose a benefit or incur a liability. The validity of an insurance contract, in India, is dependent on the existence of an insurable interest in the subject matter. The person seeking an insurance policy must establish some kind of interest in the life or property to be insured, in the absence of which, the insurance policy would amount to a wager and consequently void in nature.

The test for determining if there is an insurable interest is whether the insured will in case of damage to the life or property being insured, suffer pecuniary loss [New India Insurance Company Ltd. v. G.N. Sainani, (1997) 6 SCC 383]. A person having a limited interest can also insure such interest.

Insurable interest varies depending on the nature of the insurance. The controversy as to the existence of an insurable interest between spouses was settled by the court, which held that such an interest could exist as neither was likely to indulge in any 'mischievous game'. The same analogy may be extended to parents and children. Further, the courts have also held that such an insurable interest would exist for a creditor (in a debtor) and for an employee (in an employer) to the extent of the debt incurred and the remuneration due, respectively.

The existence of insurable interest at the time of happening of the event is another important consideration. In case of life and personal accident insurance it is sufficient if the insurable interest is present at the time of taking the policy. However, in the case of fire and motor accident insurance the insurable interest has to be present both at the time of taking the policy and at the time of the accident. The case is completely different with marine insurance wherein there need not be any insurable interest at the time of taking the policy.

6.2.9 Commencement of policy

The general rule on the formation of a contract, as per the Indian Contract Act, is that the party to whom the offer has been made should accept it unconditionally and communicate his acceptance to the person making the offer. Whether the final acceptance is to be made by the insured or insurer really depends on the negotiations of the policy.

Acceptance should be signified by some act as agreed upon by the parties or from which the law raises a presumption of acceptance. The mere receipt or retention of premium until after the death of the applicant or the mere preparation of the policy document is not acceptance. Nonetheless, acceptance may be presumed upon the retention of the premium. However, mere delay in giving an answer cannot be construed as acceptance. Also, silence does not denote consent and no binding contract arises until the person to whom an offer is made says or does something to signify his acceptance.

When the policy is of a particular date, it would cover the liability of the insurer from the previous midnight preceding the same date [New India Assurance Company. Limited. vs. Ram Dayal & Others, (1990) 2 SCC 680.]. However, where there is a special contract to the contrary in the policy, the terms of the contract would prevail [National Insurance Company Limited. vs. Jikubhai Nathuji Dabhi (Smt) and Others, 1997(1) SCC 66]. Hence where the time of the issue of the insurance policy is mentioned, then the liability would be covered only from the time when it was issued.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

This Study Note Includes:

- 7.1 Overview-Issues and Concepts
- 7.2 Corporate Governance Practices/Codes in India
- 7.3 Corporate governance in family business
- 7.4 Corporate governance in state-owned business – the MOU system

7.1 OVERVIEW-ISSUES AND CONCEPTS

Corporate Governance (CG) refers to the set of policies that are created for directing a company on the tenets of accountability, transparency's and ethical practices. It is an overview of rules and regulations for the people in-charge for regulating the functioning of the company with the objective of enhancing its value.

The state of corporate governance can have an important effect on the availability and cost of capital for companies and good corporate governance of companies is essential for fostering financial stability and healthy economic growth. Good corporate governance frameworks help firms and countries improve accountability, more efficiently use capital and attract quality and long term investors at lower costs. These, in turn, contribute to a country's competitiveness and thereby its development.

Corporate Governance has been gaining momentum across the world due to various corporate failures, unethical business practices and insufficient disclosure etc.

The topic of Corporate Governance has gained attention since the 1980's and more so after the code of corporate governance issued by the Cadbury committee. In line with the Cadbury committee, the Kumara Mangalam Birla Committee in India suggested a code of corporate governance for companies in India. According to the Kumara Mangalam Birla Committee:

"Corporate governance is the system by which companies are directed and controlled. Boards of directors are responsible for the governance of their companies. The shareholders' role in governance is to appoint the directors and the auditors and to satisfy themselves that an appropriate governance structure is in place. The responsibilities of the board include setting the company's strategic aims, providing the leadership to put them into effect, supervising the management of the business and reporting to shareholders on their stewardship. The board's actions are subject to laws, regulations and the shareholders in general meeting."

The governance structure of a country protects the investors from expropriation by managers and large shareholders. In different jurisdictions, rules protecting investors come from different sources, including company, security, bankruptcy, takeover and competition laws and also from stock exchange regulations and accounting standards.

7.1.1 Legal Framework of Corporate Governance

The companies in India have to comply with the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 the SEBI guidelines, the Kumara Mangalam Birla report on corporate governance, the Accounting Standards issued by the ICAI and the listing agreements with the stock exchanges in which they are listed. The Companies Act, 2013 is the relevant statute in India that governs the incorporation and, functioning of the companies. The ordinary business activities like declaration of dividends, appointment of directors, acceptance of the financial statements and appointment of auditors requires the consent of 51% of the shareholders, whereas all other business activities (other than routine business activities) requires the approval of 75% of the shareholders. If a company wants to start a new business it requires the approval of 75% shareholders, which means that the board of a widely held company should be able to persuade the shareholders about their strategy to pass the special resolution. Whereas, the board of a closely held company will not find it difficult to pass such a resolution, because the shareholders are usually the managers in such cases.

However the Kumara Mangalam Birla report (KMB report) required that in case of appointment/reappointment of directors, shareholders should be provided a resume, information regarding functional expertise and number of directorships held in other companies. KMB report mentioned that the board shall consist of at least 50% of non-executive directors. And if the chairman is an executive director then at least half of the board of directors shall be independent and in other case at least one-third of the total directors shall be independent. The KMB report has taken a more stringent view that the directors shall not be members of more than 10 committees or chairman of more than 5 committees across all companies.

The remuneration payable to managerial personnel under the Act, if there is only one such person, shall not exceed 5% of its net profit and in case of more than one managerial personnel it shall not exceed 10% of its net profit except with prior permission of the Central Government. In case of companies, which incurred a loss in the current financial year the limits on the salaries and perquisites to be paid to the Managing personnel.

The minority shareholders are protected under the Act and the members holding at least 10% of the share capital can make an application for relief to the concerned authorities in the cases of oppression and mismanagement. The minority shareholders have a provision to appoint representative director on the board. There is no special provision under the companies to protect the creditors. If the company makes default then the creditors have to move the civil court for realization of dues, which demands more time and money to be spent around the courts.

The Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Securities Act, 2002 [SARFAESI Act] was enacted to regulate securitization and reconstruction of financial assets and enforcement of security interest and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The Institute of Chartered Accountants of India is the concerned authority to issue Accounting Standards, which are mandatory in most of the cases. These Standards provide guidelines for disclosures of financial information to ensure uniformity between companies.

The Securities and Exchange Board of India is the regulatory authority, which issues regulations, rules and guidelines to companies to ensure protection of investors. The companies whose shares are listed on the stock exchanges should comply with additional requirements as mentioned in the listing agreement on a regular basis.

7.1.2 Pre-liberalization

During the initial years Indian organizations were bound by colonial rules and most of the rules and regulations catered to the whims and fancies of the British Employers. The companies act was introduced in the year 1866 and was gradually revised in 1882, 1913 and 1932. Indian Partnership act was introduced for the first time in 1932. The various agendas which were on its focus were managing agency model to corporate affair as individuals/business firms entered into legal contract with joint stock companies. It was characterized by abuse/misuse of responsibilities by managing agent due to dispersed ownership. The issues of profit generation and control were dilapidated leading to various conflicts.

The period of 1950s and 1960s was a period of setting up of industrial activities and cost plus regime. The genesis was the demand for very many products for which the Government administered Fair Prices. This was the time when the Tariff Commission and the Bureau of Industrial Costs and Prices were set up by the Govt. 1951 – India's development Regulation Act 1956 – Companies Act came into existence. Development and Banking institutions came into existence. The period between 70's to mid eighties was an era of Cost, Volume and Profit analysis, as an integral part of the Cost Accounting function.

7.1.3 Post-Liberalization

After liberalization, India has been keenly looked upon by the organizations/companies worldwide for the purpose of creating new markets. Progressive firms in India have made an attempt to put the systems of good corporate governance in place. There have been number of discussions and events leading to the development of Corporate Governance. The basic minimal code for corporate governance was proposed by the Chamber of Indian Industries (CII), 1998. The guiding definition proposed by CII:

“Corporate Governance deals with laws, procedures, practices and implicit rules that determines a company’s ability to take managerial decisions vis-a-vis its claimants – in particular its shareholders, creditors, customers, the state and the employees.”

7.1.4 The First Phase of India’s Corporate Governance Reforms : 1996-2008

India’s corporate governance reform efforts were initiated by corporate industry groups, many of which were instrumental in advocating for and drafting corporate governance guidelines. Following vigorous advocacy by industry groups, SEBI proceeded to adopt considerable corporate governance reforms. The first phase of India’s corporate governance reforms were aimed at making boards and audit committees more independent, powerful and focused monitors of management as well as aiding shareholders, including institutional and foreign investors, in monitoring management. These reform efforts were channeled through a number of different paths with both SEBI and the MCA playing important roles.

7.1.4.1 1998 - Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) - Desirable Corporate Governance – A Code

In 1996, CII took a special initiative on corporate governance, the first institutional initiative in Indian Industry. The objective was to develop and promote a code for companies, be in private sector, public sectors, Banks or financial Institutions, all of which are corporate entities. The initiatives by CII flowed from Public concerns regarding the protection of investor interest, especially the small investor; the promotion of transparency within business and industry; the need to move towards international standards in terms of disclosure of information by the corporate sector, and through all of this to develop a high level of public confidence in business and industry. The completed final draft of this code came out in April 1998.

7.1.4.2 1999- Report of the Committee (Kumar Manglam Birla) on Corporate Governance

SEBI, appointed Kumar Manglam Birla – as chairman to give a comprehensive view of the issues related to insider trading to protect the rights of various stakeholders. The heart of the committee’s report is the set of recommendations which distinguishes the responsibilities and obligations of the board and the management in instituting the systems for good corporate governance and emphasizes the rights of shareholders in demanding corporate governance. Many of the recommendations are mandatory. These recommendations are expected to be enforced on the listed companies for initial and continuing disclosures in a phased manner within specified dates, through the listing agreement. The companies will also be required to disclose separately in their annual reports, a report on corporate governance delineating the steps they have taken to comply with the recommendations of the committee. These will enable shareholders to know, where the companies, in which they have invested, stand with respect to specific initiatives taken to ensure robust corporate governance.

7.1.4.3 November 2000 - Report of the task force on Corporate Excellence through Governance

Department of Company Affairs (now MCA), prepared a report on achieving corporate excellence through governance. Depending upon the size and capabilities of the companies as well the requirements of the market place, the task force recommended phased implementations of the essential measures.

7.1.4.4 2000 - Introduction of Clause 49 of the listing agreement

Shortly after introduction of the CII Code, SEBI appointed the Committee on Corporate Governance (the Birla Committee). In 1999, the Birla Committee submitted a report to SEBI to promote and raise the standard of Corporate Governance for listed companies. The Birla Committee’s recommendations were primarily focused on two fundamental goals improving the function and structure of company boards and increasing disclosure to shareholders. With respect to company boards, the committee made specific recommendations regarding board representation and independence that have persisted to date in Clause 49. The committee also recognized the importance of audit committees and made many specific recommendations regarding the function and constitution of board audit committees. The Birla Committee also made several recommendations regarding disclosure and transparency issues, in particular with respect to information provided to shareholders. Among other recommendations, the Birla Committee stated that a company's annual report to shareholders should contain a Management Discussion and Analysis (MD&A) section and that companies should transmit certain information, such as quarterly reports and analyst presentations, to shareholders.

SEBI implemented the Birla Committee's proposals less than five months later, in February 2000. At that time, SEBI revised its Listing Agreement to incorporate the recommendations of the country's new code on corporate governance. These rules contained in Clause 49, a new section of the Listing Agreement took effect in phases between 2000 and 2003. The reforms applied first to newly listed and large companies, then to smaller companies and eventually to the vast majority of listed companies.

7.1.4.5 March 2001 – RBI – Report of the advisory group on Corporate Governance: Standing Committee on International Financial Standards and Code

The governance mechanism differs in each country and is shaped by its political, economic and social history as also by its legal framework. With keen interest shown by organizations like World Bank, Asian Development Bank etc., Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) developed a set of principles of Corporate Governance which are internationally recognized to serve as good benchmarks.

They are discussed below:

(a) The Basis of an Effective Corporate Governance Framework

The corporate governance framework should promote transparent and efficient markets, be consistent with the rule of law, and clearly articulate the division of responsibilities among different supervisory, regulatory and enforcement authorities.

(b) Rights of Shareholders and Key Ownership Functions

The corporate governance framework should protect and facilitate the exercise of shareholders' rights. Seven core principles in this category spell out the various rights of shareholders and call for effective shareholder participation in key corporate governance decisions.

(c) Equitable Treatment of Shareholders

The corporate governance framework should ensure the equitable treatment of all shareholders, including minority and foreign shareholders. All shareholders should have the opportunity to obtain effective redress for violation of their rights.

(d) Role of Stakeholders in Corporate Governance

The corporate governance framework should recognize the rights of stakeholders established by law or through mutual agreements and should encourage active cooperation between corporations and stakeholders in creating wealth, jobs and sustainability of financially sound enterprises.

(e) Disclosure and Transparency

The corporate governance framework should ensure that timely and accurate disclosure is made on all material matters with respect to the corporation, including the financial situation, performance, ownership, and governance of the company.

(f) Responsibilities of the Board

The corporate governance framework should ensure the strategic guidance of the company, the effective monitoring of management by the board and the board's accountability to the company and the shareholders.

The advisory group on CG attempted to compare the status of corporate governance in India vis-a-vis the internationally recognized best standards and suggested to improve corporate governance standards in India.

7.1.4.6 April 2001 – RBI – Report of the consultative Group of Directors of Banks/Financial Institutions

The Consultative group of directors of banks and financial institutions was set up by reserve bank to review the supervisory role of boards of banks and financial institutions and to obtain feedback on the functioning of the boards vis-a-vis compliance, transparency, disclosures, audit committees etc and make recommendations for making the role of board of directors more effective with a view to minimizing risks and over exposure. Following the best international practices as recommended by Basel Committee on Banking Supervision, the committee recommended a review of the existing framework governing the constitution of the boards of banks and financial institutions.

7.1.4.7 December 2002 –Report of the committee (Naresh Chandra) on Corporate Audit and Governance Committee

The Department of Company Affairs (DCA) under the ministry of finance and company affairs appointed a committee under the chairmanship of Naresh Chandra to examine various corporate governance issues. The committee took upon the task to analyze, and recommend changes in diverse areas like: the statutory auditor, company relationship, procedure for appointment of auditors and determination of audit fee, restrictions, if required on non-auditory fee, measures to ensure that management and companies put forth a 'true and fair' statement of financial affairs of company. It also reflected on other measures such as certification of accounts and financial statement by the management and directors. The committee intended to study and build upon its report following the benchmarks set by Sarbanes Oxley Law (SOX).

7.1.4.8 February 2003 (N. R. Narayan Murthy) – SEBI report on Corporate Governance

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI), in its effort to improve the governance standards constituted a committee to study the role of independent directors, related parties, risk management, directorship and director compensation, codes of conduct and financial disclosures. The committee based its recommendations on various parameters like fairness, accountability, transparency, ease of implementation, verifiability and enforceability.

7.1.4.9 July, 2003 (Naresh Chandra Committee II) Report of the committee on regulation of private companies and partnerships

The Companies Act, 1956 had its base in environment encompassing the license and permit raj in India. The act has undergone amendments more than two dozen occasions, keeping in view the various changes in the business environment. As large number of private sector companies was coming into picture there was a need to revisit the law again. In order to build upon this framework, government constituted a committee in January, 2003, to ensure a scientific and rational regulatory environment. The main focus of this report was on:

- (a) The Companies Act; 1956.
- (b) The Indian Partnership Act, 1932.

The final report was submitted in July 23, 2003.

7.1.4.10 Clause 49 Amendments

The Murthy Committee paid particular attention to the role and responsibilities of audit committees. It recommended that audit committees be composed of financially literate members, provided a greater role for the audit committee and stated that whistleblowers should have access to the audit committee without first having to inform their supervisors. Further, the committee required that companies should annually affirm that they have not denied access to the audit committee or unfairly treated whistleblowers generally.

In 2004, SEBI further amended Clause 49 in response to the Murthy Committee's recommendations.

However, implementation of these changes was delayed until January 1, 2006 due primarily to industry resistance and lack of preparedness to accept such wide-ranging reforms. While there were many changes to Clause 49 as a result of the Murthy Report, governance requirements with respect to corporate boards, audit committees, shareholder disclosure and CEO/CFO certification of internal controls constituted the largest transformation of the governance and disclosure standards of Indian companies.

Clause 49, as currently in effect, includes the following key requirements:

- (a) Board: Independence Boards of directors of listed companies must have a minimum number of independent directors. Where the Chairman is an executive or a promoter or related to a promoter or a senior official, then at least one-half the board should comprise independent directors; in other cases, independent directors should constitute at least one-third of the board size.
- (b) Audit Committees: Listed companies must have audit committees of the board with a minimum of three directors, two-thirds of whom must be independent; in addition, the roles and responsibilities of the audit committee are specified in detail.
- (c) Disclosure: Listed companies must periodically make various disclosures regarding financial and other matters to ensure transparency.
- (d) CEO/CFO certification of internal controls: The CEO and CFO of listed companies must:
  - (i) certify that the financial statements are fair, and
  - (ii) accept responsibility for internal controls.
- (e) Annual Reports: Annual reports of listed companies must carry status reports about compliance with corporate governance norms.

Kotak Committee Recommendation in June, 2017: SEBI had formed a committee for improving standards of corporate governance of listed companies in India under the chairmanship of Shri Uday Kotak. Committee made 80 recommendation in October, 2017, which cover composition, role of Board and its Committee, promoter related agreement, enhancing transparency and disclosure, strengthening financial reporting and audit etc.

SEBI has accepted most of the recommendations, some without and some with modifications. Some recommendations have been referred to other regulatory bodies and the balance have been considered as voluntary compliance. The mandatory compliance coming out of the recommendations are being introduced in phases allowing the companies to implement the changes step by step.

7.1.4.11 OECD Principles of Corporate Governance

- (a) In response to a call by its council, the OECD issued the OECD Principles of Corporate Governance in 1999 after extensive consultations. These were later revised in 2004 following a comprehensive survey of corporate governance practices in and outside the OECD area. Since their launch, the principles have formed the basis for corporate governance initiatives in both OECD and non-OECD countries alike. They represent the minimum standard that countries with different traditions have agreed on, being applicable to countries with a civil and common law tradition without being unduly prescriptive.

The principles have been devised with four fundamental concepts in mind: responsibility, accountability, fairness and transparency and enabling diversity of rules and regulations. They outline the following:

- (1) the basis for an effective corporate governance framework.
- (2) the rights of shareholders.
- (3) equitable treatment of shareholders.
- (4) the role of stakeholders in corporate governance.
- (5) disclosure and transparency, and

- (6) the responsibilities of the board.
- (b) The 2004 revisions covered four main areas:
  - (1) a new set of principles on the development of regulatory framework to underpin corporate governance mechanisms for implementation and enforcements.
  - (2) additional principles to strengthen the exercise of informed ownership by shareholders that call on institutional investors to disclose their corporate governance policies and to strengthen the rights of shareholders when choosing Board members.
  - (3) strengthened principles to reinforce Board oversight and enhance Board members' independent judgment, and
  - (4) new and strengthened principles to contain conflicts of interest through enhanced disclosure and transparency (for example, on related party transactions), thus making auditors more accountable to shareholders and promoting auditors' independence.

7.1.5 The Second Phase of Reform: Corporate Governance After Satyam

India's corporate community experienced a significant shock in January 2009 with damaging revelations about board failure and colossal fraud in the financials of Satyam. The Satyam scandal also served as a catalyst for the Indian government to rethink the corporate governance, disclosure, accountability and enforcement mechanisms in place. As described below, Indian regulators and industry groups have advocated for a number of corporate governance reforms to address some of the concerns raised by the Satyam scandal. Industry response shortly after news of the scandal broke, the CII began examining the corporate governance issues arising out of the Satyam scandal. Other industry groups also formed corporate governance and ethics committees to study the impact and lessons of the scandal. In late 2009, a CII task force put forth corporate governance reform recommendations. In its report the CII emphasized the unique nature of the Satyam scandal, noting that 'Satyam is a one-off incident'. The overwhelming majority of corporate India is well run, well regulated and does business in a sound and legal manner.

In addition to the CII, the National Association of Software and Services Companies (NASSCOM, self-described as the premier trade body and the chamber of commerce of the IT-BPO industries in India) also formed a Corporate Governance and Ethics Committee, chaired by N. R. Narayana Murthy, one of the founders of Infosys and a leading figure in Indian corporate governance reforms. The Committee issued its recommendations in mid-2010, focusing on stakeholders in the company. The report emphasizes recommendations related to the audit committee and a whistleblower policy. The report also addresses improving shareholder rights. The Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI) has also put forth a series of corporate governance recommendations. Government response Satyam prompted quick action by both SEBI and the MCA.

7.1.6 SEBI actions

In September 2009 the SEBI Committee on Disclosure and Accounting Standards issued a discussion paper that considered proposals for:

- (a) appointment of the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) by the audit committee after assessing the qualifications, experience and background of the candidate.
- (b) rotation of audit partners every five years.
- (c) voluntary adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS).
- (d) interim disclosure of balance sheets (audited figures of major heads) on a half-yearly basis, and
- (e) streamlining of timelines for submission of various financial statements by listed entities as required under the Listing Agreement.

In early 2010, SEBI amended the Listing Agreement to add provisions related to the appointment of the CFO by the audit committee and other matters related to financial disclosures. However, other proposals such as rotation of audit partners were not included in the amendment of the Listing Agreement.

7.1.7 MCA actions

Inspired by industry recommendations, including the influential CII recommendations, in late 2009 the MCA released a set of voluntary guidelines for corporate governance. The Voluntary Guidelines address a myriad of corporate governance matters including:

- (a) independence of the boards of directors.
- (b) responsibilities of the board, the audit committee, auditors, secretarial audits.
- (c) mechanisms to encourage and protect whistle blowing.
- (d) Important provisions include: Issuance of a formal appointment letter to directors.
- (e) Separation of the office of chairman and the CEO.
- (f) Institution of a nomination committee for selection of directors.
- (g) Limiting the number of companies in which an individual can become a director.
- (h) Tenure and remuneration of directors.
- (i) Training of directors.
- (j) Performance evaluation of directors.
- (k) Additional provisions for statutory auditors.

In discussing the voluntary nature of the guidelines, the then Corporate Affairs Secretary, R. Bandyopadhyaya, stated that the MCA did not want to enact a rigid, mandatory law. However, the MCA also indicated that the guidelines are first step and that the option remains open to perhaps move to something more mandatory.

7.1.8 Corporate Governance through use of information technology

Most Indian corporate entities have witnessed a heavy penetration of IT in the running of business processes. Corporate majors have gone in for massive state-of-the-art enterprise resource planning (ERP) implementations across their geographically dispersed business locations, reaping in the bargain online recording of transactions and availability of information at the click of the mouse. Major ERP vendors have come out with India-specific versions to service their expanding Indian clientele. Adding momentum to this development is the increasing offshore (and often intercontinental) acquisitions of business units by most of the top business houses over the last year, in services and manufacturing verticals. The cumulative impact of all these developments boils down to the fact that the road to corporate governance definitely lies through achieving IT governance. Many of the Indian corporate entities have started recognizing the importance of having a Chief Information Officer (CIO) working independently and reporting directly to the board of directors, in place of the traditional reporting structure of working under and reporting to the CFO. This has lent a sense of urgency to giving the IT function its rightful place in the management scheme of things.

IT in Corporate Governance (IT Governance) ensures right decisions and accountability framework for encouraging desirable behaviour in the use of IT. IT Governance reflects broader corporate governance principles while focusing on management and use of IT to achieve corporate performance goals. Because IT outcomes are often hard to measure, firms must assign responsibility for desired outcomes and assess how well they achieve them. IT Governance should not be considered in isolation because IT is linked to other key enterprise assets (i.e. human, financial, intellectual property, physical and relationships). Thus, IT Governance might share mechanisms with other governance processes, thereby coordinating enterprise-wise decision making processes. When a carefully designed and implemented governance structure is missing there is no harmony and the enterprise is left to chance. Governance should include an approach to exception handling and continuous improvement.

7.1.9 Benefits of good governance

A good corporate governance regime is central to the efficient use of capital. First, it promotes market confidence; helps to attract additional long term capital, both domestic and foreign; and fosters market discipline through appropriate disclosure and transparency. Second, good corporate governance helps to ensure that corporations take into account the interests of a wide range of constituencies, particularly when the board recognizes that corporate social responsibility can mutually benefit the company and its operating environment. Those actions, in turn, help to ensure that corporations operate for the benefit of society as a whole, and induce stable business development and growth, lower risk, and sustainability. The experiences of economic transition and all too frequent financial crises in developing and emerging market economies have confirmed that a weak institutional framework for corporate governance is incompatible with sustainable financial markets and private sector development. As a result, good governance structures are valued increasingly highly by investors, particularly those seeking to diversify their portfolios to include stakes in developing countries. They also mitigate the risks posed by weak institutions. Furthermore it is expected that poor corporate governance is going to become a critical foreign policy issue as cross border investors and the importance of securing their rights gain more importance.

7.2.1 The Companies Act 2013 - Key Initiatives

The passing of the long awaited Companies Act in 2013 is probably the single most important development in India's history of corporate legislation. While significant improvements have been effected in required standards of corporate governance, there is also some concern regarding overly increasing compliance and regulatory costs and efforts for companies as well as their independent directors. Among the major provisions of the Act are those of restraining voting rights of interested shareholders on related party transactions, recognition of board accountability to stakeholders besides shareholders, and extension of several good governance requirements to relatively large unlisted corporations.

These initiatives are discussed under five thematic categories, those relating to:

- (a) corporations and society.
- (b) absentee shareholder primacy and protection.
- (c) boards and their processes.
- (d) disclosure and transparency in reporting, and
- (e) unlisted company governance.

7.2.1.1 Corporations and Society

Two key themes relating to business and society emerge out of the Initiatives: the first concerns obligations relating to Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) and the second concerns recognition of stakeholders' interests in corporate governance.

(a) Corporate Social Responsibility

The positioning of the business corporation in the larger frame of society has been a subject of contentious debate for decades with views ranging from total denial of any corporate responsibility to society as long as operating under prescribed law through to overriding accountability to society on pain of losing the sanction and license to operate, with several shades of mix in between. It is fair to observe, though, that in recent decades, there have been signs of a measure of corporate recognition of some responsibility towards society, as evidenced by increasing number of corporations reporting on their sustainability Initiatives. The acceptance of social responsibility is arguably embedded in the Indian business psyche although modern day competitive commercialism may have whittled it down in numerous instances; this inherent conviction is reflected in a large number of business people voluntarily engaging in some form of social response based on their perceptions and convictions, even while aggressively pursuing profit objectives and personal gain.

In the arena of government intervention in this domain, virtually every country around the world has a record of activism in varying degrees: this manifests itself in public interest legislation, gentle prodding through guidance for voluntary adoption, or specific mandatory directions imposing an obligation to socially respond as equivalent to taxing business. India has an impressive history of measures in the first two categories and with the 2013 initiatives has also moved towards the third, perhaps the first country to legislate prescriptive social responsibility on corporations.

The Act now requires every company having at least a net worth of ` 500 Crores or sales revenue of ` 1,000 Crores, or a net profit of ` 5 Crores during any year to do the following:

- (1) Spend in every financial year, at least two per cent of the average net profits of the company made during the three immediately preceding financial years, on CSR activities.
- (2) Give preference in spending to the local area and areas around it where it operates.
- (3) In case of failure achieve the spend target, the Board shall, in its annual report to shareholders, explain the reasons why the required obligation to spend was not met.
- (4) The board shall appoint a Corporate Social Responsibility Committee of three or more directors, at least one of them being independent; the Committee, its composition having to be reported in the directors' report to shareholders, is required to:
  - a) formulate and recommend to the Board, a Corporate Social Responsibility Policy which shall indicate the activities to be undertaken by the company.
  - b) recommend the amount of expenditure to be incurred on the activities, and
  - c) monitor the Corporate Social Responsibility Policy of the company from time to time.

(b) The Stakeholder Issue

Closely allied to the CSR debate has been the wider issue of corporate accountability to a range of relevant stakeholders that has been the subject of raging controversy in governance literature. Typical agency theory arguments have always stressed the 'residual claimant' status of shareholders and their risk-bearing as well as rights of allocation of corporate funds among business projects to establish their exclusive primacy in corporate accountability, over other stakeholder claims. On the other hand, protagonists of stakeholder claims have argued that such accountability cannot be the exclusive preserve of the shareholders, given the contribution that others make towards the operations of the corporation.

The 2013 Act makes a significant departure from previous legislative regimes by specific provisions in this regard. Thus, a director of a company is required to act 'in good faith in order to promote the objects of the company for the benefit of its members as a whole and in the best interests of the company, its employees, the shareholders and the community and for the protection of the environment.' This is again reiterated in the Code for Independent Directors which stipulates that independent directors shall 'safeguard the interests of all stakeholders (and) balance the conflicting interest of the stakeholders.'

A company with a financial stakeholder population of more than one thousand shareholders, debenture holders, deposit holders and any other security holders at any time during a financial year is now required to constitute of Stakeholders Relationship Committee as per section 178 of the Companies Act, 2013 chaired by a non-executive director, to address the grievances of security holders of the company. Companies will still have to grapple with identifying their relevant stakeholders with clarity (for example, under the category 'community') in order to satisfactorily comply with these requirements.

Following this trend, the listing agreement also now mandates that the company should recognize 'the rights of stakeholders that are established by law or through mutual agreements are to be respected,' and 'encourage mechanisms for employee participation.'

7.2.1.2 Absentee Shareholder Primacy and Protection

A major downside of the corporate format from the absentee shareholders' viewpoint is their vulnerability to exploitation by those in operational control, notwithstanding the presence of the board of directors with fiduciary responsibility to protect and promote investor interest. This leads to a more compounded principal-principal problem (besides the traditional principal-agent problem) where some shareholders also do the mantle of controlling managers. Since conventional wisdom favored equality of voting at members' meetings despite apparent (but inevitable) inequalities in their proximity to management control and corporate decision making, such shareholders in control could get their way at members' meetings on matters where they may even be beneficiaries. This is further facilitated by the fact that attendance at members' meetings is usually very limited: individual or small investors may have neither the expertise nor the inclination to get involved (further exacerbated by geographical distances between their location and the meeting venue); institutional investors are generally constrained by costs of such monitoring and participation, or other pressures that interfere with their decision making on such matters. In either case, the result is a marked indifference to actively participate in major decisions at members' meetings, a 'rational reticence' that translates into a willingness to respond to governance proposals but not to proactively propose them.

Clearly, such possibilities also weighed on board members with reservations on some of the contentious management proposals that led them to refrain from acting on their concerns since their efforts were inevitably doomed to be in fruitless when such matters were put to vote at members' meetings. Such an approach on the part of directors, although theoretically untenable, cannot be wished away in practice and needed to be addressed through regulation, an objective the 2013 initiatives have largely met.

(a) Restraints on Interested Shareholders' Voting Rights

The most important reform from an investor protection perspective is the salutary provision restraining interested shareholders from voting on resolutions at members' meetings, in which they were interested parties; most related party transactions would fall under this category. First included as a far-ahead-of-its-time recommendation in a 1999 government committee report, this proposal belatedly received laudatory mention (as a "good corporate governance practice") in the Irani Committee report which however stopped short of recommending legislation on the issue. It was to be almost a decade and a half before this incredibly important and eminently equitable proposal for fair governance could find its way into the statute book. Section 188 (1) of the Act dealing with related party transactions now stipulates:

- (1) No contract or arrangement shall be entered into except with the prior approval of the company by a special resolution.
- (2) No member of the company shall vote on such special resolution, to approve any contract or arrangement which may be entered into by the company, if such member is a related party.
- (3) These restrictions do not apply to transactions in the ordinary course of business concluded at an 'arm's length' basis (defined as transactions between two related parties conducted as if they were unrelated, so that there is no conflict of interest).

The implications of these provisions are that in case of related party transactions (which are potentially a major source of tunneling by promoters and executive management), those who stand to benefit would have no say in the voting outcome on such resolutions at members' meetings, and further, a super majority (three-fourths) of the other shareholders would have to vote in favor of such resolutions to have them carried. These are indeed tough conditions and hopefully, will act as effective filters to allow only such proposals as are in the larger interests of the company and all its shareholders to go through to fruition. The concomitant imperative for such measures to succeed in their objective is for all the other shareholders 'negatively impacted' (to borrow a phrase from OECD) to actively participate in the evaluation and voting on such resolutions; institutional shareholders have a key role to perform in this regime, and if they do not measure up to the requirements, they will have only themselves to blame. Proxy advisory services, a rapidly emerging segment in the Indian capital market scene, have also a critical part to play in fairly and impartially counselling and guiding investors on such matters. The category of companies and the threshold materiality levels of such transactions attracting these restraining provisions prescribed by the government cover all listed corporations and other large unlisted public companies. The qualifying thresholds hopefully are such that they would not be too low to inflict disproportionate compliance costs on companies nor too high to allow undue unfair enrichment of a few at the cost of the many.

Not unexpectedly, such far reaching reforms have had their detractors, some of whom have predicted a 'hung scenario' with managements being paralysed and dis-empowered from performing their legitimate executive functions. What is overlooked in such protestations is the imperative need to pre-empt potential corporate incursions and expropriations so that investor protection could be enhanced. Genuine related party transactions in the overall interests of the company are largely unlikely to be blocked by such minority shareholders, especially considering the migration trends in the country towards institutional shareholding away from too widely dispersed individual shareholdings. It should be possible for companies to carry conviction to such institutional block-holders given their smaller numbers and also their business and commercial expertise.

(b) Containing Other Private Benefits of Control

Literature and empirical experience are replete with a breath-taking range of measures and devices that people adopt to benefit themselves from their vantage positions of control, fully justifying the 'invisible hand' prognosis offered by Adam Smith some two-and-a-half centuries ago. While it is impossible to fully eliminate such tunnelling efforts in the corporate format of business, various measures have been adopted from time to time with some limited success. The 2013 Initiatives have added a few more regulatory preventive curbs in this direction. Thus:

- (1) Directors and their connected parties may not acquire from or sell to the company any assets for consideration other than cash unless such purchase or sale is approved by members in general meeting. Clearly, most of these would likely be related party transactions and hence at least three-fourths of the other shareholders would have to be convinced that their interests were not adversely impacted to any material extent before they can be persuaded to vote in support of such transactions.
- (2) Directors and Key Managerial Personnel may not engage in forward transactions in securities of the company, its holding, subsidiary or associate companies. Already there were provisions prohibiting market trading transactions during time windows before, during and immediately after board meetings where price sensitive matters were to be discussed but the Act provisions go much farther and stipulate among the prohibited dealings:
  - a) the right to call for delivery or the right to make delivery at specified prices and within a specified time, of a specified number of relevant shares or a specified amount of relevant debentures.
  - b) the right, at his option, to call for delivery or to make delivery on a similar basis.
- (3) Directors and Key Managerial Personnel may not enter into 'insider trading,' defined as:
  - a) An act of subscribing, buying, selling, dealing or agreeing to subscribe, buy, sell or deal in any securities by any director or key managerial personnel or any other officer of a company either as a principal or agent if such a person can reasonably be expected to have access to any non-public price sensitive information in respect of securities of a company, or

- b) Any act of counselling about procuring or communicating directly or indirectly any non-public price-sensitive information to any person.
- c) 'Price-sensitive information' has been defined to mean any information which relates, directly or indirectly, to a company and which if published is likely to materially affect the price of securities of the company.
- d) Substantial penalties prescribed for breach of these provisions will arguably deter potential defaulters but the task of establishing insider trading evidence required for judicial conviction continue as before. The recent success stories of purposeful prosecution in the US, including in the case involving Rajat Gupta and Raj Rajratnam are useful pointers towards the pressing need for meticulous investigation and committed independent agencies (including experienced prosecutors) as well as suitable enabling legislative sanction to aid them in their efforts.

(c) Containing the Perils of Pyramiding

A common instrument of entrenchment and for enhancement of private benefits of control is the phenomenon of pyramiding that enables control of large economic empires with relatively limited investment and risk at the top. The Act now limits the investment tiers to no more than two layers, thereby limiting the potential for abuse of this structural mechanism. Due provisions have been made to exempt foreign company acquisitions from these restrictions.

Extensive pyramiding comprising constituent entities with varying levels of equity holdings by the promoters exposes corporations to the ills of a range of related party transactions where cash, profits and tangible and intangible assets can be routed away to the disadvantage of absentee shareholders in companies where promoter holdings are comparatively low. This limitation of no more than two layers of investment subsidiaries will help partially in containing the ill effects of tunneling on absentee shareholders.

It has been argued that these provisions are overly restrictive (even draconian) and likely to impair the legitimate freedom of corporations to structure their business operations as they deem appropriate. Clearly, these concerns overlook the basic fact that these restrictions do not apply to business or operational subsidiaries or affiliates, but only to 'investment companies' defined as those 'whose principal business is the acquisition of shares, debentures and other securities.' Besides, several exclusions have already been provided to cater to the specific and compliance needs of different business segments; also, these restrictions do not apply to overseas acquisitions of corporations with more than two layers of investment subsidiaries of their own. It should also be highlighted that non-investment companies in general have the flexibility to invest in other companies up to 60% of their own paid-up capital, reserves and securities premium, or up to 100% of their own free reserves and securities premium whichever is higher. There would thus seem to be substantial flexibility and freedom available to companies even after these restrictions, to structure their investments to their best advantage, but certainly no license as before to engage in unbridled pyramiding to the potential disadvantage of absentee shareholders.

7.2.1.3 Boards and Their Processes

Independent and objective boards committed to the welfare of the company and equitable treatment to all its shareholders is the cornerstone of good corporate governance. The 2013 Initiatives have strengthened many existing regulatory requirements and introduce some new ones too. The overall impact is one of considerably strengthened and more enabled board ambience that should help better performance in the service of the company and all its stakeholders including shareholders.

(a) On Board Chair – CEO Duality

In the context of the different roles and requirements of the two positions of board chair (monitoring) and chief executive (execution), best practice standards stipulate their separation. Notwithstanding the strong advocacy of this separation, the US predominantly continues to combine these two roles (with an independent senior or lead director in place as a compromise), although a glacial movement towards separation is noticeable in recent years. Indian regulation has not so far mandated such a requirement for listed companies though many companies have found it attractive to separate if only to qualify for a lower proportion of independent directors on their boards.

The Initiatives, for the first time, prescribe such separation in future in case of all listed and other large public companies. There is no mention however as to whether the board chair has to qualify as an independent director as well. Rather than including this requirement as part of the sections dealing with boards, directors, committees, and meetings, this separation provision is included as part of the sections dealing with Key Managerial Personnel.

There are exceptions provided for as well: this mandate will not apply if the company's Articles provide otherwise; it will not apply if the company operates several lines of business, each with its own chief executive. This latter exemption is presumably based on the distancing theory: as the respective CEOs of the businesses will be in charge of execution, the managing director will be distanced from operational responsibilities and assume an intermediary monitoring role which may not be wholly incompatible with the oversight role of the board chair. Clearly, this view is debatable: what indeed then is the role of such a managing director if he or she is not personally accountable to the board for the company's (as opposed to each constituent business unit's) performance? If the underlying logic of role separation is accepted (as it seems to have been) the exceptions do not seem defensible.

Evolution of these exceptions from the concept to the consummation stage of the legislative process is indicative of the multiple influences that shape the final product, often resulting in dilution of the original intent.

(b) On Board Composition and Objectivity

- (1) Every listed company (and any other notified class of companies) should have at least three directors qualifying as independent in terms of prescribed criteria.
- (2) For the first time, the Act enumerates the qualifying criteria both in affirmative and negative terms. Thus, the person should, in the board's opinion, be one of integrity and possess relevant expertise and experience or should possess such other prescribed qualifications (in other words, should be a 'fit and proper' person).
- (3) Among the negative disqualifying criteria are the following:
  - a) Should not be (or have been) a promoter of the company or its holding, subsidiary or associate company, or related to promoters or directors of the company, its holding, subsidiary or associate companies; nor should he have (or have had) any pecuniary relationship with the company, its holding or subsidiary or associate companies or their promoters or directors during the current or immediately preceding two financial years.
  - b) None of his relatives should have (or have had) pecuniary relationships or transactions with the company, its holding or subsidiary or associate companies, or directors, amounting to more than 2% or more of its gross turnover or total income or fifty lakhs rupees or such higher amount as may be prescribed, whichever is lower, during the current or immediately preceding two years.
  - c) Neither he nor any of his relatives:
- (4) should be holding (or have held in any of the three immediately preceding financial years) a position of key managerial personnel, or an employee in the company, its holding, subsidiary or associate company.

- (5) should have been an employee, or proprietor or partner in the three immediately preceding financial years, in a firm of auditors, company secretaries in practice, or cost auditors of the company or its holding, subsidiary or associate company; or any legal or consulting firm that has or has had any transaction with the company, its holding, subsidiary or associate company at a remuneration of 10% or more of such firm's gross turnover:
- a) Should not, together with his relatives, hold 2% or more of the of the total voting power of the company.
  - b) Should not have been the CEO or director of any not-for-profit entity that receives 25% or more of its receipts from the company, any of its promoters, directors, its holding, subsidiary or associate company or that holds 2% or more of the total voting power of the company.

These extended criteria are an improvement over the extant requirements, both legislative and regulatory, and will hopefully enhance the objectivity potential of the boards.

Clause 49 of the listing agreement takes these requirements a step further: where the positions of board chair are not separated, and where even when separated the incumbent's non-alignment with the interests of the promoters and their associates is not established, the board is required to have one half of its members qualifying as independent.

(c) On Making Board Independence Count

Populating the board with a good proportion of independent directors, while certainly helpful in maintaining an appropriate balance and diversity, will by itself not be fully effective if their voice did not count for much in board discussions and decision making processes. It is satisfying to note that the presence of at least one independent director is now necessary under the Initiatives for any resolution to be deemed validly approved at a board meeting called at short notice of less than seven days; if none of the independent directors are present at such meetings, the resolutions will need to be circulated to all directors and will be deemed approved only if ratified by at least one independent director.

A major concern associated with the frustration of the institution of independent directors has been that unscrupulous managements and promoters could get important decisions approved by convening board meetings without reasonable notice and consequently with independent directors not being able to attend. This initiative will likely minimise the potential for this abuse to some extent.

(d) On Improving Independent Director Effectiveness

Considering that external independent directors of large corporations are in most cases people in full time occupation as CEOs or senior directors or in professional practice with heavy demands on their time, concern has often been expressed that such directors may not always be able to devote the time and effort required to do justice to their independent directorships on boards.

Although the Initiatives have set a generous upper limit of twenty companies and of which no more than ten may be public companies (including private companies which are holding or subsidiary companies of public companies) on whose board a director may sit, it is arguably an improvement over the extant situation of virtually unlimited number of directorships overall including exempt directorships as alternates, and in private limited companies that are not holding or subsidiary companies of public companies, unlimited companies, and not-for-profit companies. It is noteworthy that the listing agreement requirements in this regard are more rigorous: the maximum number of listed company directorships has been pared down to seven and in case of serving whole time directors in a listed company, this has been further scaled down to three others. The limits set by the Act, it must be mentioned, still do not cover directorships or equivalents in other entities like Trusts, Cooperative Societies, Partnerships and other organisational formats where a person may choose to get involved. Clearly there are limits to which legislative or regulatory provisions can (or even should) mandate; it should be up to the company and the individual concerned to evaluate whether the required time and attention would be possible in the circumstances and take an informed call on offering or accepting an additional directorship.

Independent director should be more and more acquainted with the operation and see people work and interact with them. This will help them to understand the problem of the company.

(e) On Enhancing Board Independence and Objectivity

Ideally, board independence cumulatively should be more than the sum of its constituent parts, building on the synergies of individual members' independence and objectivity. Group interaction dynamics and mutual complementarities generally help in achieving this result which defies arithmetical logic, several components in the Initiatives potentially offer help in achieving this very desirable objective. For example:

- (1) The Act requires listed companies to have at least a third of their board members qualifying as independent Section 149(6) of the Companies Act, 2013. Inclusion of this requirement in the statute enables wider applicability to larger unlisted companies as well. In case of listed companies, the regulatory requirements are even more rigorous and require a minimum of one half of the board to qualify as independent:
  - a) where the board chair and CEO positions are combined in one individual; and,
  - b) even where they are separated, if the non-executive chair happens to be the promoter or his/her relative, or a person related to another person occupying management positions at the board level or one level below:
- (2) The provision to have at least one woman director on board Section 149(1) of the Companies Act, 2013 is a welcome initiative in the interests of board diversity, which should have been addressed by companies even without legislation because of not only its equitable claims but more importantly since such diversity enriches board capacity and leads potentially to better decisions.
- (3) The Act visualises a term-based appointment of independent directors for a period of five years, renewable (by special resolution) for a similar second term, and not subject to retirement by rotation. This certainty of a reasonably long period in office should provide a measure of stability and continuity to this component of the board which can possibly pursue its agenda more consistently and effectively. Listed companies face stricter conditions: Independent directors who have already served for five years or more (as of October 2014) may now serve for only one more term of up to five years after the expiry of the current term. Although this is a transitional measure, the regulator's urgency in getting higher governance standards in place at the earliest is clearly evident.
- (4) An innovative concept has been introduced in the Act to ensure the 'independence' of persons who wish to be re-appointed as such after serving two five year terms. They can be so appointed but only after a 'cool-off' period of three years and, this is important, during the three year break, the independent director 'shall not be appointed in or be associated with the company in any other capacity, either directly or indirectly.' One can only speculate as to why the applicability of this ban was limited to only the 'company' and not to others in the cluster such as 'its holding, subsidiary or associate company, or promoters' and so on as has been specified in so many other sections. If erosion of independence is considered to be a function of proximity and familiarity, as appears to be the case in drafting other sections on independence, it would have been consistent if the same phraseology had been used here as well. Perhaps, this would be covered under the 'directly or indirectly' caveat; maybe, the person would be disqualified anyway under the independence criteria I Section 149 (6) (c), (which holds only for two years and not three) of the Companies Act, 2013.

- (5) The Act settles the vexed issue of the independence status of nominee directors on company boards appointed by financial institutions, government and such other bodies. They will not be deemed independent. With this "grey" element of independence now firmly out of the way, the other independent directors could enhance their effectiveness without any inhibition that may have been occasioned by the presence of their nominee colleagues and their influence on board issues.
- (6) Executive compensation is an issue that corporate boards around the world are grappling with and the Act appropriately mandates a Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) in all listed companies and other prescribed companies Section 178 of the Companies Act, 2013. By requiring at least one half of the NRC membership to be independent directors, the board is now equipped to play a more active and objective role in determination of CEO and other executive directors' pay and perquisites. Unlike before, boards and in particular their independent directors are in a position to influence these pay packages in the best interests of their companies, without being hamstrung by the debilitating realisation that the promoters will be able to get their way in any case at the members' meeting by virtue of their superior voting strength. With the promoter-CEOs and directors as interested parties restrained from voting on such proposals at shareholders' meetings, it is up to the independent directors to decide on such pay proposals as they feel appropriate and recommend to the other shareholders for their super-majority approval. If conscientiously applied in practice, boards would seem to have been unshackled from any real or imaginary inhibitions to their effectiveness in this matter and provided with an opportunity to display their objective assessment and act in the best interests of the company.
- (7) Nomination and Remuneration Committees of listed and other large public companies are required to evolve and disclose their remuneration policies in respect of directors, key management personnel and other employees in Board report and website. Listed companies are required to disclose comprehensive details of remuneration including the break-up between fixed and variable pay, stock options, pension etc. Criteria of compensation to non-executive directors are also required to be published in the Annual Report of the companies. How such statutory and regulatory disclosures measure up to comparable requirements in developed markets like the US can be meaningfully assessed possibly after the first set of such reports by companies become available in mid-to-late 2015.
- (8) The company and independent directors are required to "abide by the provisions specified in Schedule IV" of the Act, which provides a detailed Code for independent directors. This incorporates fundamental legal, ethical and procedural principles and best practices that will be of help to directors in their role as trustees and stewards for the company and its shareholders. Many companies provide their own customised Induction Kit to their newly appointed directors; it will be a good refresher to the more experienced directors as well if they are also provided updated versions, preferably with changes highlighted so that everyone on the board is up to speed on what is expected of them both by statute and regulation, and the company and its values.
- (9) On the flip side of all these improvements to promote the importance and contribution of independent directors, some would argue the Act has overreached itself in making the institution of independent directors very difficult for the directors to do justice to. By definition, independent directors can only be part time contributors, counsellors and controllers. By and large, they are dependent upon executive management for most of their information inputs. While their trusteeship obligations to the company and its shareholders have long been recognised and established in terms of the broad duties of care and loyalty, their interpretation in many jurisdictions have always been principle-based and not bogged down by any set of inflexible rules. Some of the provisions of the Act tend to tilt the balance towards the latter structured format of do's and don'ts which may hinder rather than help independent directors efficient functioning.

Together with some of the provisions already in place and continued in the Act, the doors to more effective board performance appear to have been thrown open to a large extent. It is up to the boards and their directors to capitalise on this long-awaited opportunity and take their companies' governance to higher standards. And equally, it would be in the long term interest of the promoters and managements to buy into these improvements and enhance the reputational and hence the market value of their companies.

7.2.1.4 Disclosure and transparency in reporting

The Act has also introduced and strengthened a number of other governance-related requirements; some of these themes are briefly discussed here:

(a) On Financials, Disclosure and Reporting

There has been a movement to harmonise Indian accounting Standards with the global Financial Reporting Standards (FRS) for some years now. The Act takes this forward. Schedule III of the Act sets out general instructions for preparation of balance sheet and statement of profit and loss of a company.

- (1) Meeting a longstanding demand for overall group financials, holding companies are now mandatorily required to prepare consolidated financials incorporating financials of subsidiaries (including associates and joint ventures), following standard consolidating principles, in addition to their own stand-alone financials; they are also required to attach a separate statement setting out salient features of the financials of the such subsidiaries. There are at least two areas of concern with regard to this otherwise welcome initiative:
  - a) First, this requirement applies to intermediate holding companies as well, inflicting unnecessary additional costs especially if such entities are wholly-owned or with very few outside shareholders. In fact, at the other extreme, there are jurisdictions that do not even require separate independent audited financials of consolidated unlisted subsidiaries. There is perhaps a good case for granting exemptions from consolidation requirements to such intermediate entities, through subordinate legislation, which are fully owned and/or unlisted.
  - b) Second, Indian Tax regime does not as yet recognise the ultimate holding company as the exclusive taxable entity for the entire group; due consideration for concomitant tax reforms to in this regard may now be opportune.
- (2) Recognising the need to formalise acceptable processes for reopening and restating the financials of a company as a fallout of fraud or mismanagement, the Act specifically provides for both voluntary (limited to three preceding years only) and involuntary (no laid down time limitation) revisiting of earlier financials.
- (3) A National Financial Reporting Authority (NFRA) has been created charged with responsibilities for recommending accounting standards and overseeing their compliance by companies. This authority will now subsume the functions of the erstwhile National Advisory Committee on Accounting Standards.<sup>74</sup> The government has retained its authority to prescribe accounting standards recommended by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (the standard setting authority with jurisdiction over its practicing members for compliance) as reviewed and endorsed by the NFRA.
- (4) The financials of the company (including consolidated accounts, if any) are now to be signed by the Chief Financial Officer as well. With this statutory recognition, the CFOs position is vested with both onerous responsibilities and powerful authority to ensure accounting and reporting with integrity and transparency; it would be difficult for a CFO in future to hide behind hierarchical shields such as "acting under instructions of CEO" or "not responsible for certain key aspects of the function," and so on. On the other hand, this provides CFOs a great opportunity to perform according to professional standards and their own value systems in the best interests of the company and all its shareholders.
- (5) Reporting requirements in the Directors' annual report to shareholders have been considerably extended by the Act. Thus, there will have to be a CSR Report, an expanded directors' responsibility statement, a policy statement on criteria of appointment and remuneration of directors, statements on risk management policies and their implementation, on board performance evaluation policy and implementation, on related party transactions, just to mention a few.

(b) On Audits, Auditors and Oversight

Audit independence is an important pillar of good governance. Uninterrupted tenures tend to beget a measure of familiarity and complacency that may be injurious to the required levels of independence and objectivity (not unlike in the case of independent directors). Individuals and firms can now be appointed by shareholders of listed companies (on the recommendation of the audit committee and the board) for a fixed term of five years and two such terms of ten years in all respectively. After the expiry of their maximum terms, individual and firms will have to observe a five-year cool-off period before they can be considered for appointment again. There are certain pre-emptive measures to eliminate circumvention of these tenure prescriptions. For example, no firm will be eligible for appointment if they have one or more common partners in the exiting firm.

- (1) Audit independence is sought to be further strengthened by requiring a super-majority special resolution to remove an auditor before expiry of the term. The Auditor will have an opportunity to be heard before he can be removed. An auditor resigning before his term is required to file with the Registrar a statement explaining the reasons for his resignation. If a retiring audit firm at the end of its first term is not to be reappointed for a second term, the retiring auditor has the right to make a representation that must be circulated to members, or filed with the Registrar.
- (2) As well as protecting the auditor from any victimisation for doing his job, there are also some serious disincentives to pre-empt auditors failing to act professionally and independently as expected. For example, the Company law Tribunal, on its own or on the representation of any concerned person inquire in to and direct the company to change the auditor if it is satisfied that the auditor had acted in a fraudulent manner or abetted and colluded with the directors or the management of the company; in that case, the auditor will be banned from acting as an auditor of any company for a period of five years. The liability for such misdemeanours will impact both the partner concerned and his firm.
- (3) Audit independence criteria, disqualifying a person, have also been tightened. For example:
  - a) A business relationship with the company, or its subsidiary, or its holding or associate company, or subsidiary of the holding company, or an associate company.
  - b) A relative is a director or employed as key management personnel.
  - c) A conviction for an offence within the ten years preceding.
  - d) A subsidiary or associate company or any other form of entity is engaged in prohibited consultancy or specialised services specified in Section 144 of the Act.
- (4) The prohibited services set out to include services such as accounting and book keeping, internal audit, investment banking, internal audit, actuarial, investment advisory, management and outsourced financial services. The important point to note is that provision of such prohibited services even by specified associates of the auditor or audit firm will disqualify them for appointment as auditor of a company. These associates are:
  - a) In case of an individual auditor, his relatives or other person connected or associated with such individual or through any other entity, whatsoever, in which such individual has significant influence or control, or whose name or trade mark or brand is used by the individual.
  - b) In case of a firm, the same connections as above, of the firm or any of its partners or through its parent, subsidiary or associate entity, or through any other entity, whatsoever, in which the firm or any partner has significant influence or control, or whose name or trade mark is used by the firm or any of its partners. The underlying objective behind all these complex provisions is simply that the "independent auditor" should not only be actually free from any economic or other influence that may militate against his ability to truly and fairly discharge his reputational obligations to the shareholders who appoint him but also be seen to be so. As in the case of independent directors, economic dependence on the audited company or group is presumed to be a potential factor eroding independence, whether or not such will be the result in every case. Since audit by itself is the least glamorous and remunerative part of an accountant's practice, over time it has been used more as an entry point to more lucrative services such accountants have the competencies to offer; often, audit revenue is reportedly a minor proportion of the revenues generated by other services. Any impairment of such revenues from a company or a group is thus, in theory, vulnerable to independence erosion, which the Act provisions seek to prevent.

- c) On auditing practices and competencies, the profession has so far been guided by auditing standards issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India and other international standard setting agencies. The Act now has assumed the authority to set these standards (generated by the professional body and reviewed and recommended by the NFRA) so that they are clothed with legislative sanctity to enable the auditor to meaningfully exercise his right of access to documents and information from the company.
- d) NFRA has been vested with the authority to inquire into, and punish if proven, any alleged professional or other misconduct of a chartered accountant or a firm of such chartered accountants. This is a salutary and welcome provision since the extant system of disciplinary jurisdiction over its members being vested in the CA Institute is inherently vulnerable to conflicts of interest, as the Institute was (and is) the authority to conduct qualifying examinations, provide coaching and tuitions to the prospective candidates, certify them as chartered accountants, and also exercise disciplinary jurisdiction over them in case of misconduct. NFRA and its operating bodies by their constitution ought to be independent and broad based (and not limited only to fellow accountants) and hopefully should be able to take unbiased decisions on matters of professional discipline and conduct. In some respects, the concept follows the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) established in the US as a private not-for-profit corporation under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and the Professional Oversight Board (POB) in the UK created by the Financial Reporting Council in 2006. There are of course significant differences between NFRA (jurisdiction not limited to listed companies) and PCAOB (jurisdiction only over publicly traded company accounts and auditors) or POB (with disciplinary action remaining with professional institutes exclusively). It is noteworthy that in the PCAOB, the five-member board is mandated not to have more than two certified public accountants (with no affiliations or practice for at least two years) and if the board chair is a CPA, he should have been away from active practice for at least five years. A clearer picture of NFRA's operating functions and procedural regimes will emerge once related rules and regulations are formulated, but this initiative is certainly to be commended as a step in the right direction.

(c) On Prevention of Oppression and Mismanagement

Extant company legislation already had provisions to protect absentee shareholders against oppression and mismanagement by incumbent management, whether promoter controlled or otherwise. Broadly these protection measures have been retained in the 2013 Initiatives. In addition, for the first time in the country, provision has also been made in the Act for "class" action by affected shareholders against the company, its directors and even against external constituents like statutory auditors or other experts and consultants in respect of any grievances relating to actions or inactions prejudicial to the aggrieved shareholders' interests.

Two key implications of the Act provisions need highlighting:

- (1) This remedy available not only to the shareholders but also to 'depositors' of funds in the company.

Depositors have not been specifically defined but 'deposit' has been defined as "receipt of money by way of deposit or loan or in any other form by a company", subject to any exceptions that may be notified.

- (2) The remedy is not limited to claims against the company, its board and management but is also extended to cover auditors, experts, consultants and any other persons for any incorrect or misleading statement made to the company or for any fraudulent, unlawful or wrongful act or conduct on their part. How this provision will work out in practice will be watched with great interest, especially given its wide import and application.

The minimum number of shareholders or depositors who can prefer such class action suits is one hundred or a percentage of the class as prescribed from time to time.

While these provisions are welcome as a countervailing measure against possible managerial abuse inimical to the shareholders (and depositors) and also as a reiteration of shareholder primacy over management in such abusive circumstances, one will have to wait and watch to see how these pan out in practice. Whether these will overly constrain managerial enterprise and execution of policies of value to the company and its members in general or whether these will lead to the desired objective of minimising managerial misadventures and malpractices to the detriment of the company and its shareholders, the impact of this well-intended experiment will be watched keenly by all concerned.

7.2.1.5 Unlisted Companies Governance

There is generally an incorrect perception that 'unlisted' or 'closely held' companies are small, mostly family-run and relatively insignificant part of the corporate sector when it comes to policymaking and regulation relating to their governance. Undoubtedly, this group includes a vast proportion of such small and medium size entities but it is also home to several very substantial corporations which qualify as unlisted only by virtue of their ownership structures notwithstanding their revenues, profits, employee population, customer and vendor base, and sourcing of funds from banks and financial institutions. Illustratively, a Reserve Bank of India study of finances of select private limited companies (covering 6.8% of the paid up capital of all private limited companies at work) as of March 2012 indicated that the ratio of total borrowings (including both long and short term funds) to equity was 74.1 to 25.9; in other words, three fourths of the finances of these companies were borrowed from banks and financial institutions, and as such there was nothing strictly private about these companies except their ownership that was closely held. Many of these private limited companies would be joint ventures, wholly owned subsidiaries, venture-capital or other investor assisted units, and so on. Several companies in these groups may well be aspiring for listed status in the near future; ironically, the group would also include companies that preferred to delist from stock exchanges for whatever reason. A major thrust of the Act has been to extend several good governance practices to the unlisted segment of corporate business. As of December 2012, there were 852,957 companies at work comprising 806,666 private limited companies and 66,291 public limited companies; of these, about 6500 (10%) public companies were listed on the two major Indian stock exchanges. Given their predominant contribution to a nation's economy and employment potential, not to mention their extensive use of borrowed funds to sustain their operation, adoption of good corporate governance practices voluntarily or by legislation will likely help to improve their performance and reputational perceptions. Recognising these imperatives, guidelines have already been issued for such companies in Europe and the UK. Due allowance has also been made to minimise the costs of governance by segregating smaller from the relatively larger unlisted companies in these guidelines.

In India, while SEBI over the last decade and more has gradually strengthened regulatory requirements in respect of listed companies, the vast unlisted segment has received virtually no major policy interventions in this regard. The 2013 Act has taken the first steps to bridge this enormous vacuum by extending several good governance practices to the unlisted companies segment.

The Act and the rules framed there under reckon several criteria thresholds for extending application of such governance practices to unlisted companies. Primarily, these are based on paid-up capital and net worth, sales revenue, profits after tax, number of shareholders, deposit holders and debt security holders, and the extent of bank and other borrowings. Threshold levels of course will have to be such that they ensure additional costs of governance are commensurate with desired levels of benefits to the companies themselves and their stakeholders. Exhibit 4 sets out some selected corporate governance requirements extended to unlisted public companies. There are daunting problems ahead: appropriate capacity building exercises have to be undertaken, both in getting these companies' buy-in to the new measures (based on their value-add to them rather than on threat of punishment for non-compliance) and in enlarging the pool of independent directors, and other key management personnel to take up the relevant responsibilities.

How this interesting experiment works out in practice and to what extent it helps in upgrading the overall standards of corporate governance in the country will be keenly watched by investors, regulators, and company managements not only in India but elsewhere in the developing world as well.

(a) Indian Corporate Governance Standards - Road Ahead to Achieve the Next Level of Excellence

Important and pioneering as many of these Initiatives are, there are still miles to go before one can claim, if ever at all, to have scaled commanding heights in governance. Mary Schapiro, the former SEC Chair, very aptly portrayed the scene: 'when you've struggled up the side of an impressive ridge and paused to enjoy your achievement, only to look around and discover another hill ahead, another ascent to undertake'. Without detracting from the considerable merits of the Initiatives already launched, the following further thoughts seem worthy of pursuit if Indian corporate governance standards are to move up the scale to the next level of excellence.

(b) On Empowering Board Independence

From an Agency theory perspective, an independent, objective, non-aligned and trustworthy board of directors is an essential building block for the protection of shareholders' interests. Over the last decade and more, regulatory measures have been gradually strengthened to bring about a measure of board independence in case of listed corporations. The Act has also for the first time in Indian corporate legislative history provided a definition of independence and mandated the minimum proportion of directors on company boards who should qualify as independent. But as the Right Honourable Lord Justice Stephen Sedley pointed out a decade and a half ago in a different context, that the rule of law is a "necessary but not a sufficient" condition for a decent society, populating boards with adequate number of independent directors may be necessary but not sufficient to achieve the objective of board independence. One could ask what else needs to be done: clearly, having inducted independent directors on to the board, they should be enabled to act and their voice should count. Two measures might be helpful in this regard:

The quorum requirements for duly constituting a board or committee meeting should be modified to require that at least a minimum number of independent directors should be present bearing the same proportion of independent directors to the total number of board members. Thus if independent directors constitute one half of the board, then one half of the quorum requirement should comprise of such independent directors (rounded up to the next higher integer) or one independent director, whichever is higher, to form a due quorum. This principle of has already been recognised in the Act which lays down at least one independent director must be present at meetings summoned at short notice; what is being suggested is that it should be extended to all meetings and in due proportion.

In terms of approvals at board and committee meetings, the law should be modified to require affirmative votes in favour by at least a majority of independent directors present or participating through video-conferencing before a resolution can be deemed duly approved.

Measures such as these would enable the institution of independent directors to perform its assigned duties and meet expectations. If even after such enabling environment some independent directors do not wish to, or are unable to discharge their duties, they will have only themselves to blame for such failures.

(c) On Strengthening Audit Independence

The Act provisions are a significant improvement over extant requirements with regard to ensuring perceived objectivity and independence of audit and the auditors of listed companies. And yet, in search of further excellence in this field, three themes that look promising are explored here.

Auditor independence, to the extent one grants that as an achievable possibility, is vulnerable to erosion for a number of reasons, among them economic dependence, familiarity, complacency and gratitude. The Act sets out and prohibits many relevant situations that may lead to such erosion of auditor independence. But all these are company-centric disqualifications. They would work well in case of stand-alone companies. But as is well known, dominant ownership by groups (of domestic, multinational or government parentage) is a prominent feature of the Indian corporate sector. It is not unusual for audit firms to be engaged for several companies in the group. While independence-eroding engagements in case of individual and group companies are largely addressed by the Act, appointments as statutory auditors of group companies and their fall-out on audit independence are yet to be fully addressed. If a ten-year ceiling is considered optimal for tenure as auditors without impairing their independence, would it not be a logical extension to compute the ten-year tenure not just for a company but for a group as a whole? In other words, the tenure clock would run from the year where the firm is appointed as statutory auditors for any company in the group; during that period, the same firm can be appointed as auditors for any other company in the group but the end-year will coincide with the tenth year of the first appointment for a group company. After this, a five-year cool off period will be observed before they can return as statutory auditors for companies in the group.

The second relates to any relationships between the auditors and the company or group during the cool-off period of five years before their return as statutory auditors for any company or group company. If the intention of the cool-off period is to achieve a measure of distancing between the parties so that independence levels are restored, it should follow that during that interregnum, the auditor should have no engagements for any kind of professional services with the company or the group. Failing this, the cool-off period has no real significance and may as well be written off as an infertile cosmetic measure.

The third relates to the process of appointment of independent auditors. The board (through its audit committee) chooses the auditors and recommends their appointment for shareholders approval. The question that needs addressing is which directors at board and committee meetings, and which shareholders at members' meetings should have the right to participate and vote on the appointment proposal. It would be prudent to remember that the accounts and reports are prepared by the executive and are based on their operations and activities during the period under reporting. Does it stand to reason that the very persons, whose work and financials are to be audited for reporting to the shareholders, should have a say in the appointment of the auditors who would be judging their financials? To stretch the point, would it be a tenable proposition for a defendant or accused in a trial to be given the authority to name a judge of his choice to hear the case? Pursuing this conceptual line of thinking, one could argue that only the independent directors should participate and vote on auditor choice at the audit committee and board meetings and any shareholders in operational control or acting in concert with them need to be barred from participating or voting on resolutions relating to appointment and remuneration of auditors at the general meeting of shareholders. There would of course be strong opposition to these proposals from both the controlling groups and the auditors themselves. The latter's resistance would largely be due to the dislocation and possible diminution in their professional practice but these fears can easily be allayed. All that would happen if these proposals were to go through would be a rejig of companies in the portfolio of the top ten to fifteen audit firms: instead of several group companies in their fold, each of these firms would find themselves having wider dispersal of companies from different groups, which is probably a more independence-promoting solution since their dependence on fewer groups would be diluted.

Controlling shareholders (promoters) would of course be unhappy that their rights as shareholders were being denied if they were not permitted to vote on audit appointments at members' meetings. This argument is not dissimilar to that advanced against the proposal to debar their voting on resolutions where they were interested or related parties; similar reasoning in case of related party transactions that eventually saw their voting rights curtailed by the Act would justify the present proposal as well: their rights as shareholders will not be denied if they were also not in executive management of the company; if they were in such executive management, then they should be open to be audited by a firm not necessarily of their choice. Even now, statutory auditors of public sector enterprises are appointed by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India, a constitutional authority independent of the Executive, and not by the boards or the government exercising their ownership rights as shareholders of those enterprises.

In practice, company managements with good governance will likely have no problem with these proposals. Also, this measure would further help auditors to feel more independent of the executive which can only be a good thing as far as absentee shareholders are concerned.

(d) On Disclosure and Reporting

A great deal of work has already been done for improving transparent reporting and disclosure by companies. There is perhaps one area that could do with some further regulatory intervention. This is to do with continuing disclosure of material related party arrangements and shareholder agreements. Current laws require disclosure of such material contracts and so on in the year they take place, or when the company goes for a public issue of its securities. The intention of such disclosure is to reduce asymmetry of information between and among shareholders inter se. If contracts have (as many of them do) continuing relevance to shareholders (including those who became shareholders subsequently), it would seem reasonable to ensure continuing disclosure of such arrangements in the annual reports of the companies. Illustratively, shareholder agreement provisions between joint venture partners or the promoting entrepreneurs may have a continuing relevance to the company's shareholders long after the contracts were entered into.

7.3 CORPORATE GOVERNANCE IN FAMILY BUSINESS

7.3.1 Background

The economic and social importance of family-owned business has become more widely recognized. Internationally these firms are the dominant form of business organization. By definition, a family business is one in which the majority of the stake is held by the person who has established or acquired the company (or by his or her parents, spouse, child or child's direct heir) and at least one representative of the family is involved in the management or administration of the business. In many instances, the family-owned business takes the form of a small family business whilst in other cases, it is a large business interest employing hundreds, or even thousands, of staff.

Family Controlled Businesses included all enterprises that are owned, controlled or drastically influenced by a specific family or families and having a significant dominant position in firms' equity. In fact, family ownership is prevalent not only amongst privately held firms but also in publicly traded firms in many countries across the globe. However, whatever the size of the business, it can benefit from having a good governance structure. Firms with effective governance structures will tend to have a more focused view of the business, be willing to take into account, and benefit from, the views of 'outsiders' (that is, non-family members), and be in a better position to evolve and grow into the future.

Individual and family owned businesses are a vital part of our economy. Many of India's largest and most celebrated companies were nurtured by a small group of promoters and family members.

In India, family businesses range from the small mom-and-pop store (or kirana) to large conglomerates with equally varied business interests. As their growth has skyrocketed, many have stepped outside their zones to acquire companies in new industries and geographies. Their contribution to India's growth is also being increasingly recognised.

In the wake of the Satyam Computers scandal there has been a renewed interest in the management of family owned businesses in India. While that was a case in accounting fraud, bribery and investment in an unrelated family business; and the importance of good governance practises in family run businesses, including the issues of dominant ownership, (lack of) independence of board and collusion with the audit firm; there is, separately a rising concern on the issues pertaining to the succession issues in Indian family run businesses e.g. in the split of the Reliance Group between Anil and Mukesh Ambani after the demise of their father the creator of the group with a charismatic "rags to riches" story and acrimonious public mudsling between them as well as the much publicised debate over the lack of succession plans for Mr Ratan Tata when he turned 70.

7.3.2 Advantages of the Family Businesses over Non-Family Businesses

Family businesses identify a number of positive differences over non-family businesses. These include commitment and passion towards the success of the business, being able to make quick market focused decisions, having a deep industry knowledge, etc. Some of the advantages that family businesses share over non-family enterprises include the following:

- (a) Commitment, Passion and Dedication: It is believed that owners tend to take better care of their businesses as they have greater personal stakes involved. Family businesses are more appreciative of their talent.
- (b) Agile decision-making abilities: Not having responsibilities towards any shareholders gives the Indian family businesses greater flexibility in terms of making decisions faster, improving the speed with which they launch new initiatives, change operations, evaluate new business opportunities, etc.
- (c) Deep industry insight: Family businesses gain significant experience and expertise as they typically work in one industry for longer durations. This gives them the added advantage of understanding and appreciating the challenges faced in that industry much better than any non-family businesses.
- (d) Mutual trust: Family businesses thrive on mutual trust and believe in maintaining long-term relationships by providing a conducive, supportive and trusting work environment.

7.3.3 Disadvantages of the Family Businesses over Non-Family Businesses

- (a) Staff recruitment: External talent can be reluctant to join the family businesses as they would not enjoy the same freedom that the other businesses offer.
- (b) Raising funds for growth: Access to capital is required to grow and evolve. However, it is difficult to raise the required funds for the family businesses than non-family businesses.
- (c) Family conflicts: Conflict among the family members is the major setback for the family businesses.
- (d) Ownership vs Management: Separating the ownership from the management and reaching a consensus on the roles of family members in the business are two important issues for the family businesses to address.

7.3.4 Managing Family Businesses – Challenges

In the initial stages, when the company is governed by the founder or his/her children, defiantly many aspects of family and business governance are informal. Any efforts to formalize relate mostly to the business itself by owner manager. First attempts at written policies usually are brief documents that state a general family vision and mission with respect to the company. In this stage founders decide and set their explicit regulation which reflects the personality of these owners and some time according to their social identification.

In the later stage, there is a need to develop a family employment policy to meet the growing needs. The family employment policy sets clear policies on terms and conditions of family employment within the firm. For some families, these rules instruct conditions of entry, retention and the way to exit from the business. The policy also should cover the treatment of family member employees vis-a-vis non-family employees.

In the third stage, fourth and succeeding generations, family businesses can scarcely survive unless full family governance policies are undoubtedly written and communicated within the family and the business, as well as to other outside stakeholders. The document covering all of these policies is commonly called a family constitution. "Family Creed" document expresses the family's ideology regarding the family loyalty to core values, vision, and mission of the business with it heart. It often defines the roles, compositions, and functions of family governance institutions and the company's own governance bodies, such as the shareholders' meeting, the board of directors, senior management position and non executive owners of the business who want to earn dividend only.

Though family businesses have always been in India, managing them has its own unique challenges:

- (a) Managing the diverse opinions of family members in the business, solving internal issues and disputes, etc.

- (b) Creating clear succession plans between siblings or cousins.
- (c) Difficulties the younger generation may face in proving themselves to the former generation.
- (d) Differing views between the older generation and the newer generation.
- (e) Hiring external staff which may perceive that career advancement, freedom and decision making are solely the purview of family members.
- (f) Regular and streamlined access to the capital to help grow and develop the business.

7.3.5 Corporate Governance in Family Business

Corporate governance is a blend of the internal and external corporate governance mechanisms. The external mechanisms include the managerial labour market, the capital market, takeover and legal protections/systems. The internal governance mechanisms include the board of directors and most important is ownership.

The governance of a family firm is in many ways more harsh and complex than the governance of a firm with no family involvement. Family relationships have to be managed in addition to business relationship usually. The investors in companies with controlling family ownership are at risk of unreliable degrees of expropriation, mainly through the family procuring confidential benefits at the price of the other shareholders, including related-party transactions on noncommercial terms and the transfer of the company's assets to other companies owned by the family. Research study of the Italian stock market reveals that the high risk of expropriation connected with concentrated ownership can negatively affect a company's value when the ultimate owner is either the state or a family.

Good corporate governance strengthens and elucidates the activities of the family Controlled firm while improving its competitiveness. Proper functioning and transparency of the roles and responsibilities of all organs in the firm are defiantly in the interest of the owners, other stakeholders and the whole company. But apart from the lengthy systems and processes that one puts in place, it is really the spirit of practice that defines the essence of the concept.

Family businesses range from Cluster Companies and Small and Medium sized companies to large Group of companies that operate in multi range industries and countries. Normally businesses are founded in small level and after the passage of time and getting value for its unique core values and become listed companies.

Some of the well-known family businesses include: Salvatore Ferragamo, Benetton, and Fiat Group in Italy; L'Oreal, Carrefour Group, LVMH, and Michelin in France; Samsung, Hyundai Motor, and LG Group in South Korea; BMW, and Siemens in Germany; Kikkoman, and Ito-Yokado in Japan; Tata, Reliance and Birla Groups in India, and Saigol, Dewan, Mansha and Hashu Groups in Pakistan and finally Ford Motors Co, and Wal-Mart Stores in the United States.

It is also a true fact and proved by research that most family businesses have short life length beyond their founder's stage and that some 95 per cent of family Controlled businesses do not survive to the third generation of ownership. This is often the consequence of a lack of grounding of the subsequent generations to handle the demands of a growing business and a much larger family in fact. Family Controlled Firms can improve their probability of survival by setting the good governance structures and by starting the edifying process of the subsequent generations in this era.

The need for sharp Governance has been amplified due to globalization which brings many opportunities on the cost of bulky risk aspect.

McKinsey studied and demonstrated the value creation process of Good Governance. According to the McKinsey report, investors in emerging markets are willing to pay as much as 30% more for shares in companies with good corporate governance. The report further emphasizes for creating sustainable corporate and family governance, the first step is to plan for stable ownership, for instance by constraining shareholding rights and by creating exit mechanisms for family shareholders. The second step is to ensure inclusive and action oriented decision making, for which the business can leverage a variety of governance bodies. The last one is to manage the roles of family members in the business, which requires striking a balance between management and shareholding roles.

7.3.6 Governance Issues - Family Owned Business

Some of the Governance Issues that crop up in Family Owned Business are discussed below:

7.3.6.1 Role of the Board of Directors

Constitution of the Board place an important role in managing the Family Owned Businesses. The Board is expected to takes independent/unbiased decisions and the board members are the 'trustees' of the shareholders, especially the minority group. They should be in a position to provide transparent data and take decisions in the best interest of the shareholders.

When it comes to board membership, most family Controlled businesses reserve this right to members of the family and in a few cases to some well trusted non-family managers. This practice is generally used to keep family control over the direction of its business. Indeed, most decisions are usually taken by the family member directors. Family directors who are also managers in the business would naturally encourage reinvesting profits in the company so as to increase its growth potential. On the contrary, family directors who do not work in the business would rather make the decision of distributing the profits as dividends to family shareholders. These gainsay views can lead to major conflicts in the board and negatively impact its way of functioning.

7.3.6.2 Role of the CEO

In selecting the CEO of a company, one should want the organization to be run by the 'most competent' person with professional knowledge and experience.

Being employee of firm the CEO has accountability and responsibility to the organization and its shareholders. He or she should be able to be questioned by an 'independent' authority called the Board or Chairperson of the company. In a worst case situation if found unsuitable, he/she is asked to relinquish the position.

Practically, it is when the CEO is a family member; this becomes quite difficult and awkward which can create further unsuitable problems for management and as a whole business. This family CEO believes that being owner of majority share owner he has full right for different experiments as well to do according to their force.

7.3.6.3 Succession Plan

A change of guard or succession is a complex and stressful event for any business and in the case of family businesses it gets extra complicated.

On family business, there is a saying, "the first generation creates, the second inherits and the third destroys". Two words 'succession planning' seem so simple and easy to follow and yet it is so difficult because it means coming to terms with the fact that you are not indispensable. Some of business families are engaging reputed consultants to make succession planning.

7.3.6.4 Internal Control Formation

Weaknesses in Corporate governance structures of family businesses are most evident in internal controls, implementation of effective internal audit and realization of risk management. Since many families Controlled businesses are managed by the founders or their children, with their close supervisor the control environment is largely customized to their needs and according to their indulgent.

The problem come when controls do not grow along with the company, as the businesses grow with the passage of time and situation becomes more complex. This space is a crucial spot of concern for external investors for their decision making and long term survival.

7.3.7 Family Constitution

Weaknesses Family constitution is a living document that evolves as the family and its business continue to grow. As a consequence, it is necessary to regularly update the constitution in order to reflect any changes in the family and/or the business.

In fact most family businesses don't have an appropriate constitution, they usually have an informal set of rules and customs that determine the rights, obligations, and expectations of family members and other governance bodies of the business. With the growth of family business, it becomes crucial to develop a written and formal constitution that is shared among all family members to shun the conflict among family members.

Family governance structures and institutions require a certain degree of formalization if they are to function well. As families adopt policies on the family's approach to the business and on governing the business, they will formalize these efforts with documents that will differ depending on their ownership stage.

7.3.8 Certain Challenges Remain

In today's competitive environment, innovation is an essential requirement to survive and thrive. Family businesses in India view continuous innovation as the most challenging aspect over the next five years. Talent issues, technology needs and complying with the regulations are additional challenges that family businesses will have to face over the next five years.

7.3.8.1 Innovation for a Competitive Advantage

According to the surveys conducted recently reveals that the family businesses in India view the need to continually innovate as a key challenge over the next five years. Innovation is critical maintain their relevance in the changing business environments. In order to innovate successfully, they need to combine their new strategies to broader business goals. In addition to this, these companies need to invest in innovation, promote a culture where mistakes are permitted and also instill in the ranks that innovation is crucial to survival.

7.3.8.2 Retaining Talent

This is important for any organisation. Family businesses believe that attracting the right talent and then retaining it is a challenge that will have to be faced in the medium term.

7.3.8.3 Efficient Succession Planning

Mentoring and developing the next generation of successors and leaders is crucial to the success of family businesses. Training and preparing the high-potential members of the staff to take up high-level decision making positions and the ability to survive succession is one of the major challenges awaiting them in the near future.

7.3.8.4 Need for New Technology

Technological advancements are redefining business models, strategies and the changing industry dynamics. Family businesses are acutely aware of the risks their businesses face if they are unable to either adapt to the new technological advancements or bring in new technologies to enhance the quality of products and services. Therefore, they believe that the need to constantly keep up with the fast-paced technology is taking in turning the older business models obsolete and the need to invest time and resources in research and development (R&D).

7.3.8.5 Challenges with Internationalisation

While international markets are exciting and laden with opportunities, there are some issues that the family businesses need to address while increasing their global presence. Indian businesses are aware of these challenges and are treading with caution and measured action. Family businesses consider the following four as their major challenges while conducting international operations:

- (a) Exchange rate fluctuations.
- (b) Understanding or complying with local regulations.
- (c) Competition.
- (d) Economic situations in other markets.

7.3.9 Conclusion

Family businesses in India will continue to play an integral part in the nation's growth story. However, with more and more family businesses looking to run their organisations professionally and with the corporates imbibing some of the ingredients which have helped family businesses succeed, the lines between the two categories are getting blurred. Family enterprises are now much more aware of their standing in the larger scheme of things. It is only a matter of time before family businesses start to collaborate rather than compete, and in the process positively influence government policies and actions in their favour. The government also has a crucial role to play in ensuring that fiscal policies as well as domestic systems support family firms. This includes providing a level playing field especially in terms of access to finance.

The ability to innovate and retain talent is likely to be a major challenge for family businesses along with adapting to the new technologies. As far as succession planning is concerned, these businesses are increasingly putting processes and procedures in place in order to ensure a smooth transition. Companies are looking beyond their families and hiring qualified and experienced professionals to manage their businesses. Family-run businesses can continue to be important drivers of India's overall growth if they are given the right support at the right time.

7.4.1 Background

Most industrialised economies are characterised by open and competitive markets firmly rooted in the rule of law, with private enterprises as the predominant economic actors. However, in some other countries, including many emerging economies, state-owned enterprises (SOEs) represent a not insubstantial part of GDP, employment and market capitalisation. Even in countries where SOEs play only a minor role in the economy, they are often prevalent in utilities and infrastructure industries, such as energy, transport, telecommunications and in some cases also hydrocarbons and finance, whose performance is of great importance to broad segments of the population and to other parts of the business sector. Consequently, good governance of SOEs is critical to ensure their positive contribution to economic efficiency and competitiveness. Experience shows that market-led development is the most effective model for efficient allocation of resources. A number of countries are in the process of reforming the way in which they organise and manage their SOEs and have in many cases taken international best practices.

7.4.2 In the Global Context

Good governance of state-owned enterprises (SOEs) is essential for efficient and open markets at both the domestic and international level. In many countries SOEs are the main providers of key public services, including public utilities. This means that their operations have an impact on citizens' everyday life and on the competitiveness of the rest of the economy. SOEs are increasingly prominent actors in international markets. Ensuring that they operate in a sound competitive and regulatory environment is crucial to maintaining an open trade and investment environment that underpins economic growth.

7.4.2.1 OECD Guidelines

- (a) The OECD Guidelines on Corporate Governance of State-Owned Enterprises (the Guidelines) are recommendations to governments on how to ensure that SOEs operate efficiently, transparently and in an accountable manner. They are the internationally agreed standard for how governments should exercise the state ownership function to avoid the pitfalls of both passive ownership and excessive state intervention. The Guidelines were first developed in 2005 as a complement to the OECD Principles of Corporate Governance. They have been updated in 2015 to reflect a decade of experience with their implementation and address new issues concerning SOEs in the domestic and international context.

The Guidelines aim to:

- (1) professionalise the state as an owner.
  - (2) make SOEs operate with similar efficiency, transparency and accountability as good practice private enterprises, and
  - (3) ensure that competition between SOEs and private enterprises, where such occurs, is conducted on a level playing field.
- (b) The Guidelines do not address whether certain activities are best placed in public or in private ownership. However, if a government decides to divest SOEs then good corporate governance is an important prerequisite for economically effective privatisation, enhancing SOE valuation and hence bolstering the fiscal proceeds from the privatisation process.

The OECD guidelines focused on the following areas:

(1) Rationales for State Ownership

The state exercises the ownership of SOEs in the interest of the general public. It should carefully evaluate and disclose the objectives that justify state ownership and subject these to a recurrent review.

(2) The State's Role as an Owner

The state should act as an informed and active owner, ensuring that the governance of SOEs is carried out in a transparent and accountable manner, with a high degree of professionalism and effectiveness.

(3) State-Owned Enterprises in the Marketplace

Consistent with the rationale for state ownership, the legal and regulatory framework for SOEs should ensure a level playing field and fair competition in the marketplace when SOEs undertake economic activities.

(4) Equitable Treatment of Shareholders and other Investors

Where SOEs are listed or otherwise include non-state investors among their owners, the state and the enterprises should recognise the rights of all shareholders and ensure shareholders' equitable treatment and equal access to corporate information.

(5) Stakeholder Relations and Responsible Business

The state ownership policy should fully recognise SOEs' responsibilities towards stakeholders and request that SOEs report on their relations with stakeholders. It should make clear any expectations the state has in respect of responsible business conduct by SOEs.

(6) Disclosure and Transparency

State-owned enterprises should observe high standards of transparency and be subject to the same high quality accounting, disclosure, compliance and auditing standards as listed companies.

(7) The Responsibilities of the Boards of State-Owned Enterprises

The boards of SOEs should have the necessary authority, competencies and objectivity to carry out their functions of strategic guidance and monitoring of management. They should act with integrity and be held accountable for their actions.

7.4.3 In the Indian context

7.4.3.1 The Concept of MOU

In India the Memorandum of Understanding is a negotiated document between the Government, acting as the owner of Public Sector Enterprise (PSE) and a specific PSE. It should contain the intentions, obligations and mutual responsibilities of the Government and the PSE. Further, MOU makes an attempt to move the management of PSEs from management by controls and procedures to management by results and objectives.

7.4.3.2 Institutional Arrangements for Implementing MOU Policy

The present institutional arrangement envisages to put in place an objective and transparent mechanism to evaluate the performance of the managements of the PSEs. It provides a system through which the commitments of both the parties to the MOU can be evaluated at the end of the year besides improving the technical inputs required to finalize the MOUs. The details of this institutional arrangement and their inter-linkages are as follows.

7.4.3.3 High Power Committee

At the apex of this institutional arrangement is the High Power Committee (HPC) consisting of following members:

- (a) Cabinet Secretary, Chairman
- (b) Finance Secretary, Member
- (c) Secretary(Expenditure), Member
- (d) Secretary(Planning Commission), Member
- (e) Secretary(Programme Implementation), Member
- (f) Chairman(Public Enterprises Selection Board), Member
- (g) Chief Economic Adviser, Member
- (h) Secretary(Public Enterprises), Member-Secretary

The functions of this committee are to review the draft MOUs before the final draft is signed and to make an end-of-the-year evaluation to judge how far the commitments made by both parties of the MOU have been met. Now, the power to approve the final MOUs has been delegated to TF/DPE and only in those cases where TF is not able to take a decision is referred to HPC.

7.4.3.4 Task Force

The main objective behind the creation of a Task Force was to provide technical expertise for MOU negotiations and evaluation. The main functions of the Task Force are to:

- (a) examine the design of MOU at the beginning of the year. For this purpose the draft MOU agreed upon by the PSE and the relevant Administrative Ministry is examined by the Task Force. If Task Force has any comments or questions regarding the draft MOUs, they seek clarifications via MOU Division. Once the signatories to MOUs have responded to the concerns expressed by the Task Force on their draft MOUs, the MOU negotiation meetings are organized. These meetings are attended by the executives of PSEs, senior officials of the concerned Administrative Ministry and the representatives from the nodal agencies such as Planning Commission, Ministry of Statistics & Programme Implementation, Ministry of Finance, OCC, etc. The draft MOUs are discussed and finalized during these meetings.
- (b) evaluate the determine the composite score for each enterprise at the end of the year.

The Task Force consists of retired civil servants, executives of public sector, management professionals and independent members with considerable experience. It was decided by the High Power Committee that no one belonging to the Government should be a member of this Task Force. This was considered essential to maintain objectivity and credibility of the Task Force.

7.4.3.5 MOU Division

The HPC and Task Force are assisted by the MOU Division in the Department of Public Enterprises. It also acts as the permanent secretariat to this HPC and Task Force. The main functions of this Division are to:

- (a) provide logistical, technical and administrative support to the Task Force.
- (b) act as buffer between the Task Force members and the two signatories to the MOUs - PSEs and Administrative Ministries.
- (c) develop information and data base on MOU signing PSEs.
- (d) assist the High Power Committee.
- (e) monitor the progress of MOUs.
- (f) advise and counsel to the MOU signatories on methodological and conceptual aspects of the MOU policy.
- (g) coordinate research and training on various aspects of MOU policy.
- (h) Working of MOU System

The process of signing of MOU is initiated with the issue of guidelines by the MOU Division for drafting of MOUs. These guidelines indicate the broad structure and the aspects to be covered in the draft MOU including the weights to be assigned to the financial parameters. These guidelines reflect the main concerns of the Government and contain the general direction to the PSEs.

On the basis of these Guidelines, the draft MOUs are prepared by PSEs and submitted to DPE after due discussions in Board and with the concerned Administrative Ministry/Department in the month of December. The draft MOUs received in DPE are examined in detail in consultation with Task Force. During the process of examination of these draft MOUs all possible relevant information/sources of information are utilized to ensure that the targets proposed in the draft documents are realistic. Wherever possible inter-firm comparison is carried out and the proposed targets are viewed in the context of the past performance of the PSE.

7.4.3.6 Objectives of MoU System

The specific objectives of the MoU system are to:

- (a) Improve the performance of CPSEs through increased management autonomy.

- (b) Remove the haziness in goals and objectives.
- (c) Evaluate management performance through objective criteria; and
- (d) Provide incentives for better future performance.

7.4.3.7 MOU Negotiation Meetings

Under the present system efforts are made to ensure that all the MOUs are signed well before the beginning of the financial year. In view of this, the draft MOUs submitted by the PSEs are discussed in the MOU negotiation meetings. Besides Task Force members, these meetings are attended by senior officials of the Administrative Ministries, top executives of PSEs and the representatives from the nodal agencies of the Government of India such as Planning Commission, Ministry of Finance & Dept. of Programme Implementation. As mentioned earlier, all possible inputs provided by the professionals, Ministries and the DPE are utilized to finalise the targets. In addition to this the general aspects of existing economic situation relating to the performance of the PSE are also discussed in detail before finalizing the targets. The parameters to measure the performance of the managements of the PSEs are selected after a great deal of thought and the weights are assigned to these performance parameters keeping in view their importance and the nature of operation of the PSE. The targets proposed by the PSEs are discussed freely and are finalized broadly on consensus basis. In fact, the MOU negotiation meeting also provide a forum to discuss certain good practices adopted in other PSEs and in a way these innovative ideas are disseminated through this process. The MOUs finalised during these meetings are signed by the Chief Executive of the PSE and the Secretary of the concerned Ministry before 31st of March.

7.4.3.8 Evaluation of MOU

Performance of MOU signing PSEs is evaluated with reference to their MOU targets twice in a year. First the performance is evaluated on the basis of provisional results and secondly on the basis of audited data. The performance evaluation exercise is also carried out in an extensive manner. As mentioned earlier this performance evaluation exercise is not carried out purely through a mechanical procedure. In fact, at the end of the year the review meetings are held which provides an opportunity to consider the proposals to adjust the criteria values for factors which were not predicted and could not have been predicted by either party. Thus, the MOU evaluation is finalised on the basis of the actual performance and the PSEs are graded as "EXCELLENT", "VERY GOOD", "GOOD", "FAIR" & "POOR". Some portion of the Performance Related Pay (PRP) is linked to MOU rating.

7.4.3.9 Coverage of PSEs under the MOU System

The MOU system has grown over time from 4 MOUs signed in the year 1987-88, 199 MOUs were signed for the year 2014-2015.

7.4.3.10 Achievements of the MOU System

Viewed in the light of the objectives the effectiveness of the MOU system can be summarised as follows:

- (a) The focus, under the MOU system, has shifted to achievements of results.
- (b) Operational autonomy has also been encouraged and increased by delegation of more financial and administrative powers to the MOU signing PSEs.
- (c) By laying stress on marketing effort and comparing with private sector enterprises MOU are helping PSEs to face competition.
- (d) The quarterly performance review (QPR) meetings have become more focused since the introduction of MOUs. Discussion is confined to overall achievement as outlined in the MOUs.

7.4.3.11 Impact on the functioning of the MOU signed CPSEs

The MOU System has had a positive impact on the functioning of the CPSEs by not only increasing the top-and-bottom line performance but also increasing their net worth as stated above. Further, the MOU System has also enabled the CPSEs to adapt to the business scenario changes that have come about due to the economic liberalization reforms undertaken in the country and the resultant enhanced coupling of India with the global economy.

The MOU system has enabled CPSEs to focus on achievements and results associated with increased operational autonomy and more financial and administrative powers. By laying stress on marketing effort and comparing with private sector enterprises MOU are helping CPSEs to face competition and lay bench marks of corporate performance.

It may be mentioned that MOU system is relevant only for the Central Public Sector Undertakings (CPSUs) and are coordinated by Department of Public Enterprises (DPE) a Deptt. under Ministry of Heavy Industries in consultation with the Administrative Ministry. It may be noted here that each of the CPSU is under administrative control of Ministry.

SOCIAL, ENVIRONMENTAL AND ECONOMIC RESPONSIBILITIES OF BUSINESS

This Study Note includes:

- 8.1 National Voluntary Guidelines on Social, Environmental and Economic Responsibilities of Business
- 8.2 Corporate Social Responsibility – Nature of activities; Evaluation of CSR projects
- 8.3 E-governance

8.1 NATIONAL VOLUNTARY GUIDELINES ON SOCIAL, ENVIRONMENTAL AND ECONOMIC RESPONSIBILITIES OF BUSINESS

Business involvement in social welfare and development has been a tradition in India and its evolution from individuals' charity or philanthropy to Corporate Social Responsibility, Corporate Citizenship and Responsible Business can be seen in the business sector over the years. The concept of parting with a portion of one's surplus wealth for the good of society is neither modern nor a Western import into India. From around 600BC, the merchant was considered an asset to society and was treated with respect and civility as is recorded in the Mahabharata and the Arthashastra. Over the centuries, this strong tradition of charity in almost all the business communities of India has acquired a secular character. Also, many of India's leading businessmen were influenced by Mahatma Gandhi and his theory of trusteeship of wealth contributed liberally to his programmes for removal of untouchability, womens' emancipation and rural reconstruction.

Corporate governance in India gained prominence in the wake of liberalization during the 1990s and was introduced, as a voluntary measure to be adopted by Indian companies. It soon acquired a mandatory status in early 2000s through the introduction of Clause 49 of the Listing Agreement, as all companies (of a certain size) listed on stock exchanges were required to comply with these norms. In late 2009, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs has released a set of voluntary guidelines for corporate governance, which address a myriad corporate governance issues. Thereafter, these guidelines have been refined by the MCA during 2011.

8.1.1 National Voluntary Guidelines 2011

The Guidelines emphasize that businesses have to endeavour to become responsible actors in society, so that their every action leads to sustainable growth and economic development.

These Guidelines have been developed through an extensive consultative process by a Guidelines Drafting Committee (GDC) comprising competent and experienced professionals representing different stakeholder groups. The Guidelines are designed to be used by all businesses irrespective of size, sector or location and therefore touch on the fundamental aspects the 'spirit' of an enterprise. The Guidelines are applicable to all such entities, and are intended to be adopted by them comprehensively, as they raise the bar in a manner that makes their value creating operations sustainable.

The Guidelines have been articulated in the form of nine (9) Principles with the Core Elements to actualize each of the principles. A reading of each Principle, with its attendant Core Elements, should provide a very clear basis for putting that Principle into practice.

8.1.2 Principles and Core Elements

8.1.2.1 Principle 1: Businesses should conduct and govern themselves with Ethics, Transparency and Accountability

The principle recognizes that ethical conduct in all its functions and processes is the cornerstone of responsible business.

The principle acknowledges that business decisions and actions, including those required to operationalize the principles in these Guidelines should be amenable to disclosure and be visible to relevant stakeholders.

The principle emphasizes that businesses should inform all relevant stakeholders of the operating risks and address and redress the issues raised. The principle recognizes that the behavior, decision making styles and actions of the leadership of the business establishes a culture of integrity and ethics throughout the enterprise.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses should develop governance structures, procedures and practices that ensure ethical conduct at all levels and promote the adoption of this principle across its value chain.

- (c) Businesses should not engage in practices that are abusive, corrupt or anti competition.
- (d) Businesses should truthfully discharge their responsibility on financial and other mandatory disclosures.
- (e) Businesses should report on the status of their adoption of these Guidelines as suggested in the reporting framework in this document.
- (f) Businesses should avoid complicity with the actions of any third party that violates any of the principles contained in these Guidelines.

8.1.2.2 Principle 2: Businesses should provide goods and services that are safe and contribute to sustainability throughout their life cycle

The principle emphasizes that in order to function effectively and profitably, businesses should work to improve the quality of life of people.

The principle recognizes that all stages of the product life cycle, right from design to final disposal of the goods and services after use, have an impact on society and the environment. Responsible businesses, therefore, should engineer value in their goods and services by keeping in mind these impacts.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses should assure safety and optimal resource use over the life cycle of the product from design to disposal and ensure that everyone connected with it viz., designers, producers, value chain members, customers and recyclers are aware of their responsibilities.
- (b) Businesses should raise the consumers' awareness of their rights through education, product labelling, appropriate and helpful marketing communication, full details of contents and composition and promotion of safe usage and disposal of their products and services.

- h. Businesses should create systems and practices to ensure a harassment free workplace where employees feel safe and secure in discharging their responsibilities.

8.1.2.4 Principle 4: Businesses should respect the interests of and be responsive towards all stakeholders, especially those who are disadvantaged, vulnerable and marginalized

The principle recognizes that businesses have a responsibility to think and act beyond the interests of its shareholders to include all their stakeholders.

The Principle, while appreciating that all stakeholders are not equally influential or aware, encourages businesses to proactively engage with and respond to those that are disadvantaged, vulnerable and marginalized.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses should systematically identify their stakeholders, understand their concerns, define purpose and scope of engagement, and commit to engaging with them.
- (b) Businesses should acknowledge, assume responsibility and be transparent about the impact of their policies, decisions, product & services and associated operations on the stakeholders.
- (c) Businesses should give special attention to stakeholders in areas that are underdeveloped.

8.1.2.5 Principle 5: Businesses should respect and promote human rights

The principle recognizes that human rights are the codification and agreement of what it means to treat others with dignity and respect. Over the decades, these have evolved under the headings of civil, political, economic, cultural and social rights. This holistic and widely agreed nature of human rights offers a practical and legitimate framework for business leaders seeking to manage risks, seize business opportunities and compete in a responsible fashion.

The principle imbibes its spirit from the Constitution of India, which through its provisions of Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of State Policy, enshrines the achievement of human rights for all its citizens. In addition, the principle is in consonance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, in the formation of which, India played an active role.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses should understand the human rights content of the Constitution of India, national laws and policies and the content of International Bill of Human Rights. Businesses should appreciate that human rights are inherent, universal, indivisible and interdependent in nature.
- (b) Businesses should integrate respect for human rights in management systems, in particular through assessing and managing human rights impacts of operations, and ensuring all individuals impacted by the business have access to grievance mechanisms.
- (c) Businesses should recognize and respect the human rights of all relevant stakeholders and groups within and beyond the workplace, including that of communities, consumers and vulnerable and marginalized groups.
- (d) Businesses should, within their sphere of influence, promote the awareness and realization of human rights across their value chain.
- (e) Businesses should not be complicit with human rights abuses by a third party.

8.1.2.6 Principle 6: Business should respect, protect and make efforts to restore the environment

The principle recognizes that environmental responsibility is a prerequisite for sustainable economic growth and for the well being of society.

The principle emphasizes that environmental issues are interconnected at the local, regional and global levels which makes it imperative for businesses to address issues such as global warming, biodiversity conservation and climate change in a comprehensive and systematic manner.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses should utilize natural and manmade resources in an optimal and responsible manner and ensure the sustainability of resources by reducing, reusing, recycling and managing waste.
- (b) Businesses should take measures to check and prevent pollution. They should assess the environmental damage and bear the cost of pollution abatement with due regard to public interest.
- (c) Businesses should ensure that benefits arising out of access and commercialization of biological and other natural resources and associated traditional knowledge are shared equitably.
- (d) Businesses should continuously seek to improve their environmental performance by adopting cleaner production methods, promoting use of energy efficient and environment friendly technologies and use of renewable energy.
- (e) Businesses should develop Environment Management Systems (EMS) and contingency plans and processes that help them in preventing, mitigating and controlling environmental damages and disasters, which may be caused due to their operations or that of a member of its value chain.
- (f) Businesses should report their environmental performance, including the assessment of potential environmental risks associated with their operations, to the stakeholders in a fair and transparent manner.
- (g) Businesses should proactively persuade and support its value chain to adopt this principle.

8.1.2.7 Principle 7: Businesses, when engaged in influencing public and regulatory policy, should do so in a responsible manner

The principle recognizes that businesses operate within the specified legislative and policy frameworks prescribed by the Government, which guide their growth and also provide for certain desirable restrictions and boundaries.

The principle acknowledges that in a democratic set-up, such legal frameworks are developed in a collaborative manner with participation of all the stakeholders, including businesses.

The principle, in that context, recognizes the right of businesses to engage with the Government for redressal of a grievance or for influencing public policy and public opinion.

The principle emphasizes that policy advocacy must expand public good rather than diminish it or make it available to a select few.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses, while pursuing policy advocacy, must ensure that their advocacy positions are consistent with the Principles and Core Elements contained in these Guidelines.

8.1.2.8 Principle 8: Businesses should support inclusive growth and equitable development

The principle recognizes the challenges of social and economic development faced by India and builds upon the development agenda that has been articulated in the government policies and priorities.

The principle recognizes the value of the energy and enterprise of businesses and encourages them to innovate and contribute to the overall development of the country, especially to that of the disadvantaged, vulnerable and marginalised sections of society.

The principle also emphasizes the need for collaboration amongst businesses, government agencies and civil society in furthering this development agenda. The principle reiterates that business prosperity and inclusive growth and equitable development are interdependent.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses should understand their impact on social and economic development, and respond through appropriate action to minimise the negative impacts.
- (b) Businesses should innovate and invest in products, technologies and processes that promote the wellbeing of society.
- (c) Businesses should make efforts to complement and support the development priorities at local and national levels, and assure appropriate resettlement and rehabilitation of communities who have been displaced owing to their business operations.
- (d) Businesses operating in regions that are underdeveloped should be especially sensitive to local concerns.

8.1.2.9 Principle 9: Businesses should engage with and provide value to their customers and consumers in a responsible manner

This principle is based on the fact that the basic aim of a business entity is to provide goods and services to its customers in a manner that creates value for both.

The principle acknowledges that no business entity can exist or survive in the absence of its customers.

The principle recognizes that customers have the freedom of choice in the selection and usage of goods and services and that the enterprises will strive to make available goods that are safe, competitively priced, easy to use and safe to dispose off, for the benefit of their customers.

The principle also recognizes that businesses have an obligation to mitigating the long term adverse impacts that excessive consumption may have on the overall wellbeing of individuals, society and our planet.

Core Elements

- (a) Businesses, while serving the needs of their customers, should take into account the overall wellbeing of the customers and that of society.
- (b) Businesses should ensure that they do not restrict the freedom of choice and free competition in any manner while designing, promoting and selling their products.
- (c) Businesses should disclose all information truthfully and factually, through labelling and other means, including the risks to the individual, to society and to the planet from the use of the products, so that the customers can exercise their freedom to consume in a responsible manner. Where required, businesses should also educate their customers on the safe and responsible usage of their products and services.
- (d) Businesses should promote and advertise their products in ways that do not mislead or confuse the consumers or violate any of the principles in these Guidelines.
- (e) Businesses should exercise due care and caution while providing goods and services that result in over exploitation of natural resources or lead to excessive conspicuous consumption.
- (f) Businesses should provide adequate grievance handling mechanisms to address customer concerns and feedback.

8.1.3 Guidance on Implementation of Principles and Core Elements

Successful implementation of the Principles and Core elements require that all of them need to be integrated and embedded in the core business processes of an enterprise. This requires, specifically that the following actions are taken:

- (a) Leadership: The Chairman/CEO/Owner/Manager should play a proactive role in convincing the board/Top Management and staff within the business that adopting these principles is crucial for success. The board and senior management need to ensure that the principles are fully understood across the organization and comprehensively executed.
- (b) Integration: These principles and core elements must be embedded in the Business policies and strategies emanating from the core business purpose of the organization. For this to happen, these must align with each business's internal values and/or must provide clear business benefits.
- (c) Engagement: Building strong relationships and engaging with stakeholders on a consistent, continuous basis is crucial.
- (d) Reporting: Implementation process includes disclosure by companies of their impact on society an environment to their stakeholders.

8.1.4 Business Responsibility Report - Suggested Framework

This report may be presented in three parts as detailed below:

Part-A of the report includes basic information and data about the operations of the business entity so that the reading of the report becomes more contextual and comparable with other similarly placed businesses.

Part-B of the report incorporates the basic parameters on which the business may report their performance. Efforts have been made to keep the reporting simple keeping in view the fact that this framework is equally applicable to the small businesses as well. The report may be prepared in a free format with the basic performance indicators being included in the same. In case the business entity has chosen not to adopt or report on any of the Principles, the same may be stated along with, if possible, the reasons for not doing so.

Part-C of the report incorporates two important aspects on Business Responsibility reporting. Part C-1 is a disclosure on by the business entity on any negative consequences of its operations on the social, environmental and economic fronts. The objective is to encourage the business to report on this aspect in a transparent manner so that it can channelize its efforts to mitigate the same. Part C-2 is aimed at encouraging the business to continuously improve its performance in the area of Business Responsibility.

8.1.5 Road ahead

The first version of the National Voluntary Guidelines on Social, Environmental & Economic Responsibilities of Business (NVGs) were released during 2009 and thereafter refined and released during 2011 by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs.

Further, the International Standards organizations (ISO) issued the International Standard ISO-26000, covering 'Guidance on Social Responsibility' in July 2011.

Since that time, there have been significant international and national developments in the wider sustainable development and business responsibility landscapes that require to be integrated into the NVG framework in a manner that supports their uptake by business.

These voluntary guidelines mark a reversal of the earlier approach, signifying the preference to revert to a voluntary approach as opposed to the more mandatory approach prevalent in the form of Clause 49. However in a parallel process, the key corporate governance norms provided under the Companies Act, 2013 aimed at the corporate governance reforms in India has completed two full cycles - moving from the voluntary to the mandatory and then to the voluntary and now back to the mandatory approach.

8.2 CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY – NATURE OF ACTIVITIES; EVALUATION OF CSR PROJECTS

8.2.1 Introduction

The 21st century is characterized by unprecedented challenges and opportunities, arising from globalization, the desire for inclusive development and the imperatives of climate change. Indian business, which is today viewed globally as a responsible component of the ascendancy of India, is poised now to take on a leadership role in the challenges of our times. It is recognized the world over that integrating social, environmental and ethical responsibilities into the governance of businesses ensures their long term success, competitiveness and sustainability. This approach also reaffirms the view that businesses are an integral part of society and have a critical and active role to play in the sustenance and improvement of healthy ecosystems, in fostering social inclusiveness and equity and in upholding the essentials of ethical practices and good governance. This also makes business sense as companies with effective Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), have image of socially responsible companies, achieve sustainable growth in their operations in the long run and their products and services are preferred by the customers.

Indian entrepreneurs and business enterprises have a long tradition of working within the values that have defined our nation's character for millennia. India's ancient wisdom, which is still relevant today, inspires people to work for the larger objective of the wellbeing of all stakeholders. These sound and all encompassing values are even more relevant in current times, as organizations grapple with the challenges of modern day enterprise, the aspirations of stakeholders and of citizens eager to be active participants in economic growth and development [Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA), Corporate Social Responsibility Voluntary Guidelines 2009].

The idea of CSR first came up in 1953 when it became an academic topic in HR Bowen's "Social Responsibilities of the Business". Since then, there has been continuous debate on the concept and its implementation. Although the idea has been around for more than half a century, there is still no clear consensus over its definition.

One of the most contemporary definitions is from the World Bank Group, stating, "Corporate social responsibility" is the commitment of businesses to contribute to sustainable economic development by working with employees, their families, the local community and society at large, to improve their lives in ways that are good for business and for development.

8.2.2 CSR in the global context

While there may be no single universally accepted definition of CSR, each definition that currently exists underpins the impact that businesses have on society at large and the societal expectations of them. Although the roots of CSR lie in philanthropic activities (such as donations, charity, relief work, etc.) of corporations, globally, the concept of CSR has evolved and now encompasses all related concepts such as triple bottom line [Triple bottom line (or otherwise noted as TBL or 3BL) is an accounting framework with three parts: social, environmental (or ecological) and financial.], corporate citizenship, philanthropy, strategic philanthropy, shared value, corporate sustainability and business responsibility. This is evident in some of the definitions presented below:

The European Commission (EC) defines CSR as "the responsibility of enterprises for their impacts on society". To completely meet their social responsibility, enterprises "should have in place a process to integrate social, environmental, ethical human rights and consumer concerns into their business operations and core strategy in close collaboration with their stakeholders"

The World Business Council for Sustainable Development (WBCSD) defines CSR as "the continuing commitment by business to contribute to economic development while improving the quality of life of the workforce and their families as well as of the community and society at large."

According to the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), "Corporate social responsibility is a management concept whereby companies integrate social and environmental concerns in their business operations and interactions with their stakeholders. CSR is generally understood as being the way through which a company achieves a balance of economic, environmental and social imperatives (Triple Bottom Line Approach), while at the same time addressing the expectations of shareholders and stakeholders. In this sense it is important to draw a distinction between CSR, which can be a strategic business management concept and charity, sponsorships or philanthropy. Even though the latter can also make a valuable contribution to poverty reduction, will directly enhance the reputation of a company and strengthen its brand, the concept of CSR clearly goes beyond that."

From the above definitions, it is clear that:

- (a) The CSR approach is holistic and integrated with the core business strategy for addressing social and environmental impacts of businesses.
- (b) CSR needs to address the wellbeing of all stakeholders and not just the company's shareholders.
- (c) Philanthropic activities are only a part of CSR, which otherwise constitutes a much larger set of activities entailing strategic business benefits.

8.2.3 CSR in India

CSR in India has traditionally been seen as a philanthropic activity. And in keeping with the Indian tradition, it was an activity that was performed but not deliberated. As a result, there is limited documentation on specific activities related to this concept. However, what was clearly evident that much of this had a national character encapsulated within it, whether it was endowing institutions to actively participating in India's freedom movement, and embedded in the idea of trusteeship.

As some observers have pointed out, the practice of CSR in India still remains within the philanthropic space, but has moved from institutional building (educational, research and cultural) to community development through various projects. Also, with global influences and with communities becoming more active and demanding, there appears to be a discernible trend, that while CSR remains largely restricted to community development, it is getting more strategic in nature (that is, getting linked with business) than philanthropic and a large number of companies are reporting the activities they are undertaking in this space in their official websites, annual reports, sustainability reports and even publishing CSR reports.

Even in Companies Act, 1956 under section 293, Broad was given the mandate to spend upto 5% of the average net profit of last three years. This provision is still there in the new Act, besides section 135.

The Companies Act, 2013 has introduced the idea of CSR to the forefront and through its 'disclose' or 'explain' mandate, is promoting greater transparency and disclosure. Schedule VII of the Act, which lists out the CSR activities, suggests communities to be the focal point. On the other hand, by discussing a company's relationship to its stakeholders and integrating CSR into its core operations, the rules to the Companies Act, 2013 suggest that CSR needs to go beyond communities and beyond the concept of philanthropy. It will be interesting to observe the ways in which this will translate into action at the ground level and how the understanding of CSR is set to undergo a change.

8.2.4 CSR and sustainability

Sustainability (Corporate Sustainability) is derived from the concept of sustainable development which is defined by the Brundtland Commission as "development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs". Corporate sustainability essentially refers to the role that companies can play in meeting the agenda of sustainable development and entails a balanced approach to economic progress, social progress and environmental stewardship.

CSR in India tends to focus on what is done with profits after they are made. On the other hand, sustainability is about factoring the social and environmental impacts of conducting business, that is, how profits are made. Hence, much of the Indian practice of CSR is an important component of sustainability or responsible business, which is a larger idea, a fact that is evident from various sustainability frameworks. An interesting case in point is the National Voluntary Guidelines (NVGs) for social, environmental and economic responsibilities of business issued by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs in June 2011. Principle eight relating to inclusive development encompasses most of the aspects covered by the CSR clause of the Companies Act, 2013. However, the remaining eight principles relate to other aspects of the business. The United Nations (UN) Global Compact, a widely used sustainability framework has 10 principles covering social, environmental, human rights and governance issues, and what is described as CSR is implicit rather than explicit in these principles.

Globally, the notion of CSR and sustainability seems to be converging, as is evident from the various definitions of CSR put forth by global organisations. The genesis of this convergence can be observed from the preamble to the recently released rules relating to the CSR clause within the Companies Act, 2013 which talks about stakeholders and integrating it with the social, environmental and economic objectives, all of which constitute the idea of a triple bottom line approach. It is also acknowledged in the Guidelines on Corporate Social Responsibility and Sustainability for Central Public Sector Enterprises issued by the Department of Public Enterprises (DPE) in April 2013. The new guidelines, which have replaced two existing separate guidelines on CSR and sustainable development, issued in 2010 and 2011 respectively, mentions the following:

"Since CSR and sustainability are so closely entwined, it can be said that CSR and sustainability is a company's commitment to its stakeholders to conduct business in an economically, socially and environmentally sustainable manner that is transparent and ethical."

8.2.5 Benefits of CSR programme

As the business environment gets increasingly complex and stakeholders become vocal about their expectations, good CSR practices can only bring in greater benefits, some of which are as follows:

- (a) Communities provide the licence to operate: Apart from internal drivers such as values and ethos, some of the key stakeholders that influence corporate behaviour include governments (through laws and regulations), investors and customers. In India, a fourth and increasingly important stakeholder is the community and many companies have started realising that the 'licence to operate' is no longer given by governments alone, but communities that are impacted by a company's business operations. Thus, a robust CSR programme that meets the aspirations of these communities not only provides them with the licence to operate, but also to maintain the licence, thereby precluding the 'trust deficit'.
- (b) Attracting and retaining employees: Several human resource studies have linked a company's ability to attract, retain and motivate employees with their CSR commitments. Interventions that encourage and enable employees to participate are shown to increase employee morale and a sense of belonging to the company.
- (c) Communities as suppliers: There are certain innovative CSR initiatives emerging, wherein companies have invested in enhancing community livelihood by incorporating them into their supply chain. This has benefitted communities and increased their income levels, while providing these companies with an additional and secure supply chain.
- (d) Enhancing corporate reputation: The traditional benefit of generating goodwill, creating a positive image and branding benefits continue to exist for companies that operate effective CSR programmes. This allows companies to position themselves as responsible corporate citizens.

8.2.6 Global principles and guidelines

A comprehensive guidance for companies pertaining to CSR is available in the form of several globally recognised guidelines, frameworks, principles and tools. It must be noted that most of these guidelines relate to the larger concept of sustainability or business responsibility, in keeping with the fact that these concepts are closely aligned globally with the notion of CSR.

8.2.7 The Companies Act, 2013

The concept of CSR is governed by clause 135 of the Companies Act, 2013. The CSR provisions within the Act is applicable to companies with an annual turnover of 1,000 crore ` and more, or a net worth of 500 crore ` and more, or a net profit of five crore ` and more. The new rules, which are applicable from the fiscal year 2014-15 onwards, also require companies to set up a CSR committee consisting of their board members, including at least one independent director.

The Act encourages companies to spend at least 2% of their average net profit in the previous three years on CSR activities. In the rules with respect to CSR net profit is defined as the profit before tax as per the books of accounts, excluding profits arising from branches outside India.

Students are advised to refer to discussion on SCR under section 135 available elsewhere in this study material.

8.2.8 CSR Nature of Activities

The Act lists out a set of activities eligible under CSR. Companies may implement these activities taking into account the local conditions after seeking board approval. The indicative activities which can be undertaken by a company under CSR have been specified under Schedule VII of the Act are furnished below:

SCHEDULE VII TO THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013

This has to be signed by either the CEO, or the MD or a Director of the company and Chairman of the CSR Committee. The report is required to be published in the Annual Report.

8.2.9 Governance

Clause 135 of the Act lays down the guidelines to be followed by companies while developing their CSR programme. The CSR committee will be responsible for preparing a detailed plan on CSR activities, including the expenditure, the type of activities, roles and responsibilities of various stakeholders and a monitoring mechanism for such activities. The CSR committee can also ensure that all the kinds of income accrued to the company by way of CSR activities should be credited back to the community or CSR corpus.

8.2.10 Reporting

The Companies Act, 2013 requires that the board of the company shall, after taking into account the recommendations made by the CSR committee, approve the CSR policy for the company and disclose its contents in their report and also publish the details on the company's official website, if any, in such manner as may be prescribed. If the company fails to spend the prescribed amount, the board, in its report, shall specify the reasons.

8.2.11 Evaluation of CSR Projects

The first step towards formalising CSR projects in a corporate structure is the constitution of a CSR committee as per the specifications provided under Section 135 of the Companies Act, 2013.

Section 135 of the Companies Act, 2013 requires a CSR committee to be constituted by the board of directors. They will be responsible for preparing a detailed plan of the CSR activities including, decisions regarding the expenditure, the type of activities to be undertaken, roles and responsibilities of the concerned individuals and a monitoring and reporting mechanism. The CSR committee will also be required to ensure that all the income accrued to the company by way of CSR activities is credited back to the CSR corpus.

This is an excellent starting point for any company new to CSR. In case a company already practices CSR, this committee should be set up at the earliest so that it can guide the alignment of the company's activities with the requirements of the Act. For effective implementation, the CSR committee must also oversee the systematic development of a set of processes and guidelines for CSR to deliver its proposed value to the company, including:

- (a) one-time processes such as developing the CSR strategy and operationalising the institutional mechanism.
- (b) repetitive processes such as the annual CSR policy, due diligence of the implementation partner, project development, project approval, contracting, budgeting and payments, monitoring, impact measurement and reporting and communication.

A set of such enabling processes, their inter-relationships and the sequence in which they need to be developed have been identified below:

Companies do not come under the audit of section 135 also should start CSR capital initiatives. Apart from doing good to the society, once the companies comes under the Audit, it would be easy for the company to adopt.

CSR Process Flow chart
Step	Activity		Step	Activity
1	Developing a CSR strategy and policy	+	2	Operationalising the institutional mechanism
3	Due diligence of the implementation partner	+	4	Project development
5	Project approval	+	6	Finalising the arrangement with the implementing agency
Project implementation
	Progress monitoring and reporting
8	Impact Assessment	+	9	Report consolidation and communication
10	Review the policy and procedure based on experience, for future.

While developing these processes, no standard set of recommendations exist for all companies. However, an overview of the required details, the activities required to be completed for each of these processes along with some additional guidance on critical issues has been provided below:

3. Due diligence of the implementation partner	Due diligence refers to the process a company undertakes to determine the risks as well as the benefits of working with a potential implementation partner. This process has to be sufficiently robust to ensure that a company's implementation partners have the reputation, competence and integrity to deliver effective programmes on the ground.	Selecting the implementation partner.	The CSR department or Company Foundation.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. 4. Project development	The CSR strategy of a company will be implemented through a series of projects which will have definite beginnings, ends, expected outputs and outcomes as well as budgets associated with it. These projects may be of a short duration (a few months) or multi-year.	Developing a feasible project proposal.	The implementation agency (the CSR department, company foundation or the NGO partner).	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Developing a framework to identify key stakeholder groups including the local community, the local government or bodies, academia and research institutions, investors, etc.</li> <li>2. Conducting a needs assessment (if required) to assess development priorities. The methodology for this can be participatory processes, surveys or a combination of the two.</li> <li>3. Studying and adopting good practices to address similar challenges based on prior experiences or lessons available from other practitioners and develop the approach.</li> <li>4. Detailing the project: the objectives, the beneficiaries and the impact on the beneficiaries, the assumptions, the expected outputs and outcomes, detailed activities, potential to influence public policy and practice.</li> <li>5. Identifying the indicators of success with the means of verification and establish the baseline for each. This can be commissioned as a separate study or can even be included in the needs assessment stage.</li> <li>6. Estimating the budget and how it will be funded specifying the community contributions, leveraging of the government schemes and contributions from the other donors.</li> <li>7. Indicating the monitoring and evaluation methodologies for impact measurement.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) the CSR policy.</li> <li>b) institutional mechanisms.</li> <li>c) information from the government sources, previous studies done in the area, etc.</li> <li>d) information on programs targeting similar geographies and beneficiary groups or strategies.</li> <li>e) monitoring impact measurement reports from any earlier projects.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) a project context including the roles of other development actors.</li> <li>b) key needs of the target beneficiaries.</li> <li>c) project goals, KPIs, baselines and expected end lines.</li> <li>d) project milestones for progress monitoring purposes.</li> <li>e) activities and timelines to achieve the stated project goals.</li> <li>f) budgets along with the basis for estimation.</li> <li>g) risks and mitigation strategies.</li> <li>h) progress reporting: content, frequency.</li> </ol>
-------------------------------	---	--	---	--	--	--

5. Project approval	Every project, whether developed by the in-house team or an external agency, must be formally examined and approved. This is to ensure that each project is in line with the CSR strategy and policy, the monitoring indicators are clearly defined and relevant and there is an adequate budget available. Projects that go on for longer durations or demand a larger amount of resources must be scrutinised more carefully than the others.	Approve the project based on the CSR policy objectives, principles and guidelines.	CSR committee or the delegated project approval committee.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Determining the delegation of power for the project approval.</li> <li>2. Establishing an evaluation framework for the appraisal of the project concepts and implementing agencies that ensure complete alignment with the CSR policy.</li> <li>3. Establishing tests for the theory of change; whether the concept will be able to deliver the intended results. Establishing tests for the value for money, economy, effectiveness and efficiency.</li> <li>4. Reviewing risks and mitigation measures.</li> <li>5. Identifying resource availability and any specific organisational requirements and constraints.</li> <li>6. 6. Finalising the arrangement with the implementing agency	While working with an external agency, it is very important to enter into a formal arrangement which is referred to here as a Memorandum of Understanding or MoU. It defines the roles, responsibilities, deliverables, commitments and consequences in case of any breach. This is essentially a formal acknowledgement that all the partners have voluntarily consented to work together to achieve an agreed outcome that requires each one to play their respective roles.	Agree upon and sign the MoU with the partner.	The CSR department or company foundation.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Developing template MoUs based on the context. Specify the outputs and outcomes, the approach and methodology, the KPIs, key parameters to be monitored and reported, the mode of communication, contract management team, scope of change in management procedures, dispute or conflict resolution mechanisms, inspection and audit requirements, contract closeout requirements, timelines, milestones and deliverables, budgets, process of invoicing and release of payments, etc</li> <li>2. Establishing a process for negotiation of the MoU with the implementing agency.</li> <li>3. Negotiating, agreeing upon and signing the MoU.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) an approved project proposal</li> <li>b) due diligence report</li> </ol>	MoU with the implementing agency including the disbursement schedule

7. Progress monitoring and reporting	Routine progress monitoring.	Monitoring progress, distilling lessons and forming the basis for reporting.	The CSR committee	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Determining the monitoring schedule for each project based on the approved project proposal.</li> <li>2. Obtaining all relevant progress reports from the project, studying them and making a note of the gaps.</li> <li>3. Holding discussions with the implementation team on reasons for slippages (if any) and agreeing on a corrective action. This may be done through a field visit or remotely, based on what has been agreed in the MoU.</li> <li>4. Holding discussions with the implementation team regarding what lessons are emerging and how they can be applied within the project as well as outside.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) The approved project proposal.</li> <li>b) Previous monitoring reports.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) Determining mid-course corrections.</li> <li>b) Recommendations for future project designs.</li> <li>c) Project monitoring reports to the CSR committee.</li> </ol>
8. Impact Assessment	Impacts of the development projects typically take a while to manifest. For instance, a girl child education programme can show an increased enrolment and retention of girls and on a monthly basis, but further impacts such as improved learning levels will take at least a year. So, impact measurement studies have different objectives from project monitoring and typically have to be undertaken after providing sufficient time for them to manifest.	Measuring the outcome and impact of the projects.	The CSR committee.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Identifying methods for conducting the impact assessment and outcome measurement suited to the context and the size of the project and budgets available.</li> <li>2. Identifying the skills set required for the impact measurement team and accordingly identifying, selecting and appointing the team.</li> <li>3. Assisting the team to prepare the methodology for selecting a sample, conducting surveys, focus group discussions collecting information on the identified indicators.</li> <li>4. Making the provisions for the site visits by the team, involvement of the agency involved during the baseline and needs assessment.</li> <li>5. Undertaking the impact measurement exercise and preparing the report.</li> <li>6. Identifying the lessons for future interventions.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) resource planning.</li> <li>b) the project MoU.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) impact measurement report.</li> <li>b) recommendations for the future project designs.</li> </ol>

9. Report consolidation and communication	Reporting and communication closes the loop between intent and achievement and is hence a crucial element of the CSR process. In the context of the Companies Act, 2013 this is also a mandatory requirement as it provides crucial inputs to preparing the directors' report.	Reporting the CSR at an individual project level, consolidated at a programme level and aligned with the requirements under the Companies Act, 2013 and the CSR committee.	The CSR department.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Identifying the recipient of the report: the board of directors, investors, government agencies, beneficiaries, etc.</li> <li>2. Selecting the appropriate reporting framework that is aligned with the requirements of the Companies Act, 2013 and the global best practices.</li> <li>3. Consolidating project reports into programme reports and an overall CSR report.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) CSR strategy and policy.</li> <li>b) the project MoU.</li> <li>c) monitoring reports from individual projects.</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) consolidated CSR reports.</li> <li>b) external stakeholder communication.</li> </ol>

8.3.1 Introduction

Electronic governance (e-Governance) is generally understood as the use of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) at all the level of the Government in order to provide services to the citizens, interaction with business enterprises and communication and exchange of information between different agencies of the Government in a speedy, convenient efficient and transparent manner.

e-governance is the application of ICT for delivering government services, exchange of information communication transactions, integration of various standalone systems and services between Government to Customer (G2C), Government to Employees (G2E), Government to Government (G2G) and Government to Business (G2B), as well as back office processes and interactions within the entire government framework. Through e-governance, government services will be made available to citizens in a convenient, efficient and transparent manner. The three main target groups that can be distinguished in governance concepts are government, citizens and businesses/interest groups. In e-governance there are no distinct boundaries.

8.3.2 Different Models of E-Governance

8.3.2.1 Government to Citizen (G2C)

The goal of government to customer/citizen (G2C) e-governance is to offer a variety of ICT services to citizens in an efficient and economical manner and to strengthen the relationship between government and citizens using technology.

There are several methods of government-to-customer e-governance. Two-way communication allows citizens to instant message directly with public administrators and cast remote electronic votes (electronic voting) and instant opinion poll. Transactions such as payment of services, such as city utilities, can be completed online or over the phone. Mundane services such as name or address changes, applying for services or grants, or transferring existing services are more convenient and no longer have to be completed face to face.

8.3.2.2 Government to Employees (G2E)

E-Governance to Employee partnership (G2E) is one of four main primary interactions in the delivery model of E-Governance. It is the relationship between online tools, sources, and articles that help employees maintain communication with the government and their own companies. E-Governance relationship with Employees allows new learning technology in one simple place as the computer. Documents can now be stored and shared with other colleagues online. E-governance makes it possible for employees to become paperless and makes it easy for employees to send important documents back and forth to colleagues all over the world instead of having to print out these records or fax G2E services also include software for maintaining personal information and records of employees.

8.3.2.3 Government to Government (G2G)

It is an electronic sharing of data and/or information system between government agencies, departments or organizations. The goal of G2G is to support e-government initiatives by improving communication, data access and data sharing.

8.3.2.4 Government to business (G2B)

It is an online non-commercial interaction between local and central government and the commercial business sector with the purpose of providing businesses information and advice on e-business 'best practices'. G2B is also refers to the conduction through the Internet between government agencies and trading companies. Public issue and share transfer records is mandatory to be kept in electronic form.

8.3.3 e-Governance - Initiatives in India

Recognising the increasing importance of electronics, the Government of India established the Department of Electronics in 1970. The subsequent establishment of the National Informatics Centre (NIC) in 1977 was the first major step towards e-Governance in India as it brought 'information' and its communication in focus. In the early 1980s, use of computers was confined to very few organizations. The advent of personal computers brought the storage, retrieval and processing capacities of computers to Government offices. By the late 1980s, a large number of government officers had computers but they were mostly used for 'word processing'. Gradually, with the introduction of better softwares, computers were put to other uses like managing databases and processing information. Advances in communications technology further improved the versatility and reach of computers and many Government departments started using ICT for a number of applications like tracking movement of papers and files, monitoring of development programmes, processing of employees' pay rolls, generation of reports etc.

However, the main thrust for e-Governance was provided by the launching of National Informatics Centre Network (NICNET) in 1987, the national satellite based computer network. This was followed by the launch of the District Information System of the National Informatics Centre (DISNIC) programme to computerize all district offices in the country for which free hardware and software was offered to the State Governments. NICNET was extended via the State capitals to all district headquarters by 1990.

In the ensuing years, with ongoing computerization, teleconnectivity and internet connectivity, came a large number of e-Governance initiatives, both at the Union and State levels. A National Task Force on Information Technology and Software Development was constituted in May 1998. While recognising Information Technology as a frontier area of knowledge per se, it focused on utilizing it as an enabling tool for assimilating and processing all other spheres of knowledge. It recommended the launching of an 'Operation Knowledge' aimed at universalizing computer literacy and spreading the use of computers and IT in education. In 1999, the Union Ministry of Information Technology was created. By 2000, a 12-point minimum agenda for e-Governance was identified by Government of India for implementation in all the Union Government Ministries/Departments. The agenda undertaken which is adapted from Minimum Agenda for e-Governance in the Central Government has included the following action points:

- (a) Each Ministry/Department must provide PCs with necessary software up to the Section Officer level. In addition, Local Area Network (LAN) must also be set up.
- (b) It should be ensured that all staff, who have access to and need to use computer for their office work are provided with adequate training. To facilitate this, inter alia, Ministries/Departments should set-up their own or share other's Learning Centres for decentralized training in computers as per the guidelines issued by the Ministry.
- (c) Each Ministry/Department should start using the Office Procedure Automation software developed by NIC with a view to keeping a record of receipt of dak, issue of letters, as well as movement of files in the department.
- (d) Pay roll accounting and other house-keeping software should be put to use in day-to-day operations.
- (e) Notices for internal meetings should be sent by e-mail. Similarly, submission of applications for leave and for going on tour should also be done electronically. Ministries/Departments should also set up online notice board to display orders, circulars etc., as and when issued.
- (f) Ministries/Departments should use the web-enabled Grievance Redressal Software developed by the Department of Administrative Reforms and Public Grievances.
- (g) Each Ministry/Department should have its own website.
- (h) All Acts, Rules, Circulars must be converted into electronic form and along with other published material of interest or relevance to the public, should be made available on the internet and be accessible from the Information and Facilitation Counter.
- (i) The websites of Ministries/Departments/Organisations should specifically contain a section in which various forms to be used by citizens/customers are available. The forms should be available for being printed or for being completed on the computer itself and then printed out for submission. Attempts should also be made to enable completion and submission of forms online.
- (j) The Hindi version of the content of the websites should as far as possible be developed simultaneously.
- (k) Each Ministry/Department would also make efforts to develop packages so as to begin electronic delivery of services to the public.
- (l) Each Ministry/Department should have an overall IT vision or strategy for a five year period, within which it could dovetail specific action plans and targets (including the minimum agenda) to be implemented within one year.

8.3.4 Steps to adopt e-Governance initiatives

Prior to 2006 when the Government of India formally launched its National e-Governance Plan (NeGP), some Departments of Government of India as well as State Governments had initiated steps to adopt e-Governance. These initiatives are discussed under the following categories:

8.3.4.1 Government to Citizen (G2C) initiatives

The e-Governance scenario in India has come a long way since computers were first introduced. The focus now is on extending the reach of governance to have a major impact on the people at large. e-Governance is an important tool to enhance the quality of government services to citizens, to bring in more transparency, to reduce corruption and subjectivity, to reduce costs for citizens and to make government more accessible. A large number of initiatives have been taken in this category by the Union and the State Governments. Some of the important initiatives are furnished below:

- (a) Computerisation of Land Records (Department of Land Resources, Government of India).
- (b) Bhoomi Project in Karnataka : Online Delivery of Land Records.
- (c) Gyandoot in Madhya Pradesh - It is an Intranet-based Government to Citizen (G2C) service delivery initiative.
- (d) Lokvani Project in Uttar Pradesh - It is a public-private partnership project to provide a single window, self sustainable e-Governance solution with regard to handling of grievances, land record maintenance and providing a mixture of essential services.
- (e) Project FRIENDS (Fast, Reliable, Instant, Efficient Network for the Disbursement of Services) in Kerala - It is a Single Window Facility providing citizens the means to pay taxes and other financial dues to the State Government.
- (f) e-Mitra Project in Rajasthan - It is an initiative to provide information and services under one roof to urban and rural populations.
- (g) e-Seva in Andhra Pradesh - It is an initiative to provide 'Government to Citizen' and 'e-Business to Citizen' services.
- (h) Revenue Administration through Computerized Energy (RACE) Billing Project, Bihar.
- (i) Admission to Professional Colleges in Karnataka – Common Entrance Test (CET).
- (j) No transfer in securities unless in dematerialised form even for shareholders of unlisted company.

8.3.4.2 Government to Business (G2B) initiatives

G2B initiatives encompass all activities of government which impinge upon business organizations. These include registrations under different statutes, licenses under different laws and exchange of information between government and business. The objective of bringing these activities under e-Governance is to provide a congenial legal environment to business, expedite various processes and provide relevant information to business. Some of the important initiatives are furnished below:

- (a) e-Procurement Project for Government purchase - It is an initiative for procurement of material through e-tender process by avoiding human interface i.e., supplier and buyer interaction during the pre-bidding and post-bidding stages. It is an initiative to establish transparency in procurement process, shortening of procurement cycle, availing of competitive price, enhancing confidence of suppliers and establishing flexible and economical bidding process for suppliers.
- (b) MCA 21 - This project aims at providing easy and secure online access to all registry related services provided by the Union Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) to corporates and other stakeholders at any time and in a manner that best suits them.

MCA made it mandatory for some companies having fulfilled the stipulated criteria to file their Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss account statements in XBRL (Extensible Business Reporting Language). With the development of taxonomies for Banks, Insurance, Non-Banking Finance Companies and Power sector, the companies operating in these sectors would also be filing their financial reports in XBRL. The details as to XBRL are discussed elsewhere in this Chapter.

8.3.4.3 Government to Government (G2G) initiatives

Within the government system there is large scale processing of information and decision making. G2G initiatives help in making the internal government processes more efficient. Many a time G2C and G2B processes necessitate the improvements in G2G processes. Some of the important initiatives are furnished below:

- (a) Khajane Project in Karnataka - This project aims at the computerization of the entire treasury related activities of the State Government and the system has the ability to track every activity right from the approval of the State Budget to the point of rendering accounts to the government.
- (b) SmartGov in Andhra Pradesh - This project has been developed to streamline operations, enhance efficiency through workflow automation and knowledge management for implementation in the Andhra Pradesh Secretariat

8.3.5 XBRL (Extensible Business Reporting Language)

XBRL is a language for the electronic communication of business and financial data which is revolutionizing business reporting around the world. It provides major benefits in the preparation, analysis and communication of business information. It offers cost savings, greater efficiency and improved accuracy and reliability to all those involved in supplying or using financial data. XBRL stands for extensible Business Reporting Language. It is already being put to practical use in a number of countries and implementations of XBRL are growing rapidly around the world.

XBRL is an open, royalty-free software specification developed through a process of collaboration between accountants and technologists from all over the world. Together, they formed XBRL International which is now made up of over 650 members, which includes global companies, accounting, technology, government and financial services bodies. XBRL is and will remain an open specification based on XML that is being incorporated into many accounting and analytical software tools and applications.

8.3.4.4 Advantages of XBRL

XBRL offers major benefits at all stages of business reporting and analysis. The benefits are seen in automation, cost saving, faster, more reliable and more accurate handling of data, improved analysis and in better quality of information and decision making. XBRL enables producers and consumers of financial data to switch resources away from costly manual processes, typically involving time consuming comparison, assembly and re-entry of data. They are able to concentrate effort on analysis, aided by software which can validate and process XBRL information. XBRL is a flexible language, which is intended to support all current aspects of reporting in different countries and industries. Its extensible nature means that it can be adjusted to meet particular business requirements, even at the individual organization level.

All types of organizations can use XBRL to save costs and improve efficiency in handling business and financial information. Because XBRL is extensible and flexible, it can be adapted to a wide variety of different requirements. All participants in the financial information supply chain can benefit, whether they are preparers, transmitters or users of business data.

XBRL is set to become the standard way of recording, storing and transmitting business financial information. It is capable of use throughout the world, whatever the language of the country concerned, for a wide variety of business purposes. It will deliver major cost savings and gains in efficiency, improving processes in companies, governments and other organisations.

8.3.4.5 Status of implementation of XBRL in India

- (a) India is now an established jurisdiction of XBRL International. A separate company, under Section 25 has been created, to manage the operations of XBRL India. The main objectives of XBRL in India are:
  - (1) To create awareness about XBRL in India.
  - (2) To develop and maintain Indian Taxonomies.
  - (3) To help companies, adopt and implement XBRL.

XBRL in India has come a long way since it initiated. Stock Exchanges and the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) have been using XBRL since 2009. Both BSE and NSE use an XBRL enabled integrated filing platform for corporate disclosures. RBI makes use of XBRL for internal reporting i.e. for collecting the capital adequacy related data from all banks so as to check their compliance of Basel - II requirements. More recently, Ministry of Corporate Affairs has mandated XBRL in India in a phased manner for all companies.

- (b) The mandate applies to the following companies:
- (1) All public listed companies in India and their Indian Subsidiaries.
  - (2) All companies having a paid up capital of INR 5 crores and above.
  - (3) All companies having a turnover of INR 100 crores and above.
- (c) All the companies that fall under the mandate are required to file with MCA following information in XBRL:
- (1) Balance Sheet.
  - (2) Profit and Loss Account.
  - (3) Cash Flow Statement.
  - (4) Schedules related to Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Statement.
  - (5) Notes to Accounts.
  - (6) Statement relating to subsidiary companies.
  - (7) Auditors Report.
  - (8) Directors Report.
  - (9) Cost Audit Report.
- (d) In view of the advantages of XBRL reporting, now the Companies need to quickly gear-up to this new reporting challenge and also to gain benefits from the broader business uses of XBRL. Some of the key challenges that companies might encounter as they adopt XBRL reporting are:
- (1) Requirement of training staff to understand XBRL and how it needs to be implemented including matters like timely tagging and validation processes.
  - (2) The software tool to be used for the purpose of tagging.
  - (3) The first-time efforts involved in tagging and resolving errors identified by validation checks.
  - (4) Smooth and timely closure of reporting within the prescribed timelines.

Introduction

Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process

Liquidation of a Corporate Person

INTRODUCTION

The Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code passed by the Parliament is a welcome overhaul of the existing framework dealing with insolvency of corporate, individuals, partnerships and other entities. It paves the way for much needed reforms while focussing on creditor driven insolvency resolution.

There were multiple overlapping laws and adjudicating forums dealing with financial failure and insolvency of companies and individuals in India. The erstwhile legislative frame work comprised of:

- (a) Chapter XIX and Chapter XX of Companies Act, 2013
- (b) Part VIA, Part VII and Section 391 of Companies Act, 1956
- (c) RDDBFI Act, 1993
- (d) SARFAESI Act, 2002
- (e) SICA Act, 1985
- (f) The Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, 1909
- (g) The Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920
- (h) Chapter XIII of LLP Act, 2008

This legal and institutional framework did not aid lenders in effective and timely recovery or restructuring of defaulted assets and causes undue strain on the Indian credit system. Recognising that reforms in the bankruptcy and insolvency regime are critical for improving the business environment and alleviating distressed credit markets, the Government introduced the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code Bill in November 2015, drafted by a specially constituted 'Bankruptcy Law Reforms Committee' (BLRC) under the Ministry of Finance. After a public consultation process and recommendations from a joint committee of Parliament, both houses of Parliament have passed the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016. Subsequently, many provisions have been amended. First amendment was on 23/11/2017, by an Ordinance, which was later converted into IBC (Amendment) 2018. Code was further amended in August 2019.

Taking into consideration, the pandemic, the Code was amended on 13 March, 2020 and is deemed to be effective from 28th day of December, 2019. The second amendment Act was notified on 23rd September 2020 and is deemed to have come into force on 5th day of June, 2020.
